Bar Harbor, Me., Ablaze; Hundreds Flee By Boat

Highway Evacuation Route Is Reopened

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 23 (AP)—Evacuation of the residents of this famed resort community by land and sea was underway tonight in the most frightening of New England's destructive forest fires.

Maine state troopers said that one-half the resort town "is up in flames" and that while scores of residents were being evacuated by road, hundreds of others awaited Coast Guard vessels for a "sea exit reminiscent of Dunkerque.

Throughout New England whole towns were abandoned, patients were moved from hospitals; children from schools. Here and there a small, cross roads community was wiped out.

Three persons were dead and the property damage in all New England from the more than 200 fires that raced through tinder-dry woodlands reached into the millions.

Rochester, N. H., lost an estimated 50 dwellings as flames leaped three miles to enclose the northerly edge of the city.

The Little Maine towns of Brownfield and East Brownfield were virtually destroyed.

At North Reading, Mass., 105 children were taken from a tuberculosis sanitarium as the heat of the forest flames scorched the hospital walls.

No Prospect Of Rain

But the picture of two thousand people huddled on the town pier at Bar Harbor, their only hope of escape temporarily by sea, was the most spectacular.

At Kennebunkport, Henry Baker, assistant disaster chief of the American Red Cross, estimated that 400 buildings, 150 of them permanent homes, had been destroyed in York County alone.

A sudden shift of wind threatened to entrap 75 to 100 fire fighters in the October Mountain reservation of Western Massachusetts. Hours after the wind shift no further word had been received of their situation.

In numerous towns, fire department leaves were cancelled. Over New England, National Guardsmen were called out in increasing numbers. Volunteers were sought to take the places of weary fire fighters who had been battling for as long as three days.

The weather throughout the area continued unseasonably warm and there was no prospect of relief from rain.

Wire communications at Bar Harbor, which had been out for hours, except for one line to the governor's office in Augusta, were partially restored as a wind shift opened a highway escape for the residents.

FLEE FLAMES—Children and babies, patients at a state tuberculosis sanitarium near North Reading, Mass., are rushed into private cars by nurses as flames from a forest fire threatened to sweep the institution yesterday. A total of 95 young patients were evacuated to the shelter of a school house.

"Poultryless" Thursday Will Be Continued

Committee Rejects Industry Proposal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Citizens' Food Committee decided today to keep Thursdays as "poultryless days".

In announcing this, Committee Chairman Charles Luckman said that an alternate grain-saving program offered by the National Poultry Producers Federation "is not an adequate substitute" for one day a week without eggs or poultry.

Luckman said that he and the President's Cabinet Food Committee are in complete accord on that. He declared:

"The assignment of the Citizens' Food Committee is to save grain. The poultry population of the United States has been eating too much of the grain that should go to hungry people abroad.

Consumption Reduced

"The only way to save grain consumption by poultry is to reduce the production in raising of birds. Poultryless Thursday has been having precisely this effect."

Luckman emphasized, however, that he will not continue poultryless Thursday any longer than is absolutely necessary to meet grain export requirements.

During the day, Luckman also announced that he has rejected appeals by 14 small distillers for exemption as special hardship cases from the 60-day distilling holiday scheduled to start at midnight Saturday. He said the evidence did not support their contentions.

In another move related to the program of saving 100,000,000 bushels of grain for Europe, the Commerce Department announced that controls will be restored tomorrow on shipment of malt abroad.

The Poultry Producers Federation, arguing against continuing poultryless Thursdays, contended to Luckman's committee that flocks of chickens are large and cold storage space is filling up.

In reply to these contentions, Luckman made public a letter from Secretary of Agriculture Anderson advising:

Marketings Decrease

1. Since poultryless Thursdays began, marketings of fowl have dropped to 90 per cent of the preconservation program rate.

2. While department figures show that cold storage stocks of poultry on October 1 were the highest on record for that date, freezer storage space was occupied only 81 per cent of capacity, six per cent below a year ago.

Anderson's letter admonished:

"We must always remember that

Possible Moves To Curb Soaring Prices Outlined

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Here are some of the measures Congress may be asked to consider to curb rising prices:

1. Allocation of grain, steel and perhaps other scarce materials, to limit the amount used by millers, distillers, animal feed manufacturers and others, and to assure earmarked supplies for export.

2. Revival of consumer credit controls — the down-payment and installment-plan limitations on autos and other goods—which are due to expire November 1.

3. Possible direct federal purchase of grain from farmers, instead of sales on the grain exchanges, to minimize the price-boosting impact of government buying. This might include an arrangement for payment next year, so that farmers would not withhold grain in an effort to stay out of higher tax brackets.

4. Extension of export controls beyond the present February 29, 1948, expiration date. They exist on several hundred items including many types of steel.

5. An increase in the authority of the Federal Reserve Board to check the expansion of bank credit.

President To Make Radio Talk Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Truman today called Congress into special session November 17 to consider a possible billion-dollar program of stop-gap foreign aid and to throw a federal halter on runaway prices at home.

Gravely and rapidly, Mr. Truman read his proclamation to newsmen massed in his oval office, then announced he would make an all-network broadcast to the people at 10 p. m., E.S.T., tomorrow.

He did not name his figure on winter aid. But other administration officials said it has climbed from his $580,000,000 estimate for France, Italy, and Austria, made a few weeks ago, and now looks like this:

About $642,000,000 for France and Italy alone; up to $30,000,000 for occupied Austria; and a possible $400,000,000 for occupied Japan, Korea and Germany—a total of $1,072,000,000 to last until March 31. The officials who supplied the estimates to reporters withheld the use of their names.

The day crackled with developments:

First the call for the extraordinary session itself, after talk of one had somewhat faded; then the disclosure of the unexpected early date for it; and, finally, the inclusion of a call to Congress to "put an end to the continued rise in prices" as well as to deal with Europe's crisis.

Martin Breaks News First

His news conference followed immediately an hour-long session with the congressional leaders whose committees are the first hurdles in the path of winter aid for Western Europe.

Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), the speaker of the House, broke the news first. "The President did it on his own," he told newsmen who asked whether the legislators of both parties were sharing responsibility for the decision.

Mr. Truman opened his news conference by reading a prepared statement, setting forth rapidly and soberly his reasons for proclaiming the special session:

First, to present to Congress "suitable measures for dealing with inflation, high prices, and the high cost of living"—perils, he said, which are "endangering the prosperity and welfare of the entire nation."

Second, to deal with "the crisis in Western Europe," which he called a problem of outright survival for the populations of those nations. He asked $580,000,000 in stop-gap aid for that purpose.

Third, to provide an opportunity for more rapid consideration of the Marshall plan of long range aid in European recovery.

Newsmen Break For Door

"I have just signed a proclamation convening the Congress at 12 o'clock noon on Monday, November 17, 1947," he closed.

"Tomorrow evening, at 10 o'clock, over all the networks, I shall make a radio address to the American people describing the present situation in detail and explaining why action by the Congress is necessary prior to the regularly scheduled session in January."

Reporters, although primed with scores of questions on poultryless Thursday, food conservation and other issues, waited for no more. With a shouted, "Thank you, Mr. President," they broke for the door. Anyhow, Mr. Truman said he would save his replies to further questions until he speaks on the radio.

First congressional reaction was favorable. Sen. Brewster (R-Me.), said the call was "well warranted." Grain prices, he said, "obviously are getting out of hand and something has to be done about it."

"Warmongering" Measure Blasted By United States

Asks U.N. To Reject Russian Resolution

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 23 (AP)—The United States, in a declaration drawn up by Secretary of State Marshall and the entire American delegation, demanded today that the United Nations Assembly "absolutely" reject Russia's anti-"warmonger measures.

The United States charged that the Russians proposal to condemn what they call "warmongering" is a step toward the "establishment of censorship and a police state" designed to "put shackles on the brain of man as well as a gag in his mouth."

The Soviet Union has demanded Assembly action against "warmongering" and "criminal war propaganda" which it says is prevalent in the United States, Turkey and Greece.

Austin Delivers Blast

This country's answer to Russia—and especially to three previous blasts by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister who has named 15 Americans as "warmongers"—was delivered by United States Delegate Warren R. Austin in the 57-nation Political Committee of the Assembly.

Austin especially defended former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and John Foster Dulles, Republican member of the United States delegation. Both have been listed by Vishinsky as "warmongers."

Austin declared in his prepared text that Vishinsky "no doubt" would "jail" Byrnes if he had the power to do it. But in his speech he departed from his text and said that if the doctrine contained in the Russian resolution prevailed magistrates could "say what is warmongering and who are warmongers and clap them into jail."

Ross Convicted Of Slaying Four; To Die In Chair

LA GRANGE, Tex., Oct. 23 (AP)—Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, 43, San Antonio, slayer of a family of four, was convicted of murder with malice aforethought tonight. His punishment was fixed at death in the electric chair.

The conviction came 25 minutes after the jury began deliberation.

Dr. Ross was convicted in the death of Mrs. Gertrude York, 43, one of four members of the Willard York family slain May 25 on a country road in Comal County.

In the court room were the defendant's wife, Gladys, who was weeping, and his sister, Miss Renna Ross, Alliance, Ohio, who was also in tears.

Probers Told FDR Knew War Coming

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Louis A. Johnson testified today that two Cabinet members and a general blocked his efforts to get the country ready for World War II, and that he and President Roosevelt knew as early as 1938 that it was coming.

Johnson, assistant Secretary of War from 1937 to 1940, named as blockers the then Secretary of Labor, Frances Perkins, and the then Secretary of War Woodring, plus Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, former chief of army procurement.

Johnson was a witness before the Senate War Investigation Committee, which is trying to learn why a 1939 industrial mobilization plan was discarded by the Roosevelt administration after Pearl Harbor.

He testified:

"The program was ditched by the brass hats without the President's knowledge because it did not suit the program of Gen. Somervell.

He said, without giving details, that Somervell once "even planned to get rid of Gen. Marshall."

Johnson said that Woodring, "a sincere pacifist," and Miss Perkins "violently opposed" the readiness plan.

Johnson said a new industrial mobilization plan should be prepared "now," a view that agreed with one expressed earlier by Sen. Brewster (R-Me), chairman of the investigating committee.

Two Killed In Plane Crash Near Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 23. (AP)—Charles R. Brown, 30, Johnstown, and Clifford Bopp, 20, Summerhill, Pa., were killed today when their plane crashed and burned near Dunlo, 12 miles east of here.

The crash started a fire which was extinguished after it burned about two acres of woodland.

Both Brown and Bopp were World War II veterans and neither was married. Brown's survivors include his mother, Mrs. Rose Brown Smith, Drayton Plains, Mich. and a sister, Mrs. Ralph Kyle, Mt. Ranier, Md.

Cooper And Montgomery Report That Communists Have Hollywood Foothold

Reagan And Murphy Testify At Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP) — Movie Stars Gary Cooper and Robert Montgomery testified today that Communists and a Red "lunatic fringe" have gained a foothold in Hollywood that is both noisy and dangerous.

"Character assassination," said Montgomery, is one of their weapons.

Actors Ronald Reagan and George Murphy, two other witnesses in the all-star cast of today's installment of the Reds-in-Hollywood probe, generally agreed with Cooper and Montgomery that the Communists have failed to dominate the movie industry. They all said a vast majority of the workers are against the tenets of Moscow.

They appeared at a packed hearing before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Cooper, after laughingly describing his "present occupation" as an actor, broke off from his usual lazy drawl and his jaws tightened as he testified that he once rejected a script because the leading character had to organize "an army of soldiers in the United States who wouldn't fight."

Montgomery, Reagan and Murphy —all former presidents of the Screen Actors Guild—agreed that Reds have penetrated the movie capital but haven't gone far, particularly in the Guild.

Women "Ah" And "Oh"

Like Robert Taylor yesterday, today's case had a standing-room-only audience, mostly "ah-h-h-hing" and "oh-h-h-hing" women who even got off an occasional low whistle.

Murphy looked the scene over appreciatively.

"This," he cracked, "is the most expensive set we've ever worked in. And it isn't the initial cost, either. It's the upkeep."

Earlier, Movie Writers Fred Niblo, Jr., and Richard Macaulay testified that Communists and those who "play along with them" have had some luck in the Screen Writers Guild, to which they belong. Macaulay reeled off 28 names, many of them mentioned previously in the hearings.

The 43-year-old Montgomery, veteran of 22 years in the movies as actor and director, was the first star on the stand. His famous smile turned grim suddenly when he was asked if there eved had been any attempts to inject Communist or un-American propaganda into his pictures.

Britain Slashes Imports Of Food, Naval Manpower

Tobacco Imports From U. S. Halted

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP)—New cuts in Britain's daily diet, a reduction in naval manpower, and a ban on tobacco imports from the United States were announced today by the government in a new program to combat the economic crisis.

The program was outlined to a silent House of Commons by Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister of Economic Affairs, and Defense Minister A. V. Alexander. It also calls for curbs on home and factory building and the sale of more than half of the sterling area's estimated $2,400,000,000 gold reserves during the next 14 months.

Emphasizing what was at stake, Cripps declared:

"If our economy and that of Europe should collapse, our democracy in all probability will collapse too and will disappear, and with it will go the last stronghold of western democratic civilization in Europe."

Tobacco Imports Banned

He announced that all tobacco imports from the United States had already been stopped, that new food import reductions would cut the average daily diet from 2,870 calories to below 2,700 and that public and private expenditures for building homes and factories and buying

Maintain Tense Truce In Strike

GALION, O., Oct. 23 (AP) — A tense truce was maintained in the North Electric Company strike today despite an influx of union sympathizers from other Ohio cities.

The out-of-towners, who came here to reinforce CIO auto workers unionists who conducted a 12-hour siege of the telephone equipment factory last night, were sent back home by the UAW.

The plant, where a strike has been in progress since August 20, was closed until Monday, when company and union officials will meet, and the union said its temporary objective had been achieved.

Edward Duck, international representative of the UAW-CIO, had said the plant should remain closed until the company acts on the union demands for recognition and a 20 per cent wage increase.

The truce came suddenly after a night of sporadic rock throwing, window breaking and erroneous reports that the strikers and their sympathizers were planning to storm their way into the plant.

Some 350 non-strikers, who normally would have gone home at 4:30 p. m., stayed in the plant while the crowd milled outside. They were assured safe conduct shortly before 1 a. m. after the company agreed to meet with the union.

American World Fliers Head For Chitose, Japan

TOKYO, Friday, Oct. 24 (AP)—Two American world fliers took off in their Cub planes today for Chitose Army Air Field in Northern Japan. From Chitose they will begin the longest and most hazardous hop.

The fliers, George Truman, Los Angeles, and Clifford Evans, Washington, D. C., apparently had not yet heard from Russia on their request for permission to make emergency landings in the Soviet Kurile Islands on their 1,500-mile flight to the Aleutians.

Valiant Cutter Bibb On Another Mercy Mission

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (INS)—The heroic little Coast Guard cutter Bibb, whose crew saved the 62 persons "ditched" in mid-Atlantic aboard the Bermuda Sky Queen—raced off on another mercy mission tonight.

The Bibb, which only last Sunday deposited the Bermuda Sky Queen's men, women and children survivors on solid land in Boston, was one of five Coast Guard boats ordered tonight into the evacuation of fire-threatened New England coastal town residents.

AFL Calls Upon Industry For New Wage Increases Without Boosting Prices

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (INS)—The American Federation of Labor called upon industry today for a third round of wage increases to be made without further boosts in the already high price structure.

The AFL, which also urged public co-operation with President Truman's food conservation drive, declared further wage increases were made necessary because of spiraling living costs.

It asserted that price increases must be avoided if the wage boosts were to mean anything to the working man. The labor union stated in its monthly economic report:

"Such a policy can only succeed if management comes half way, submitting facts and figures acceptable to both parties to show the wage increase possible without raising prices . . ."

The AFL called upon management to "sit down in good faith with labor to work out ways and means of raising wages within present prices."

The AFL said that the anticipated 17 billion dollars in profits to American business this year must be made the basis of higher living standards.

It asserted that the President's "waste less" food drive was one way of "bringing prices down," but emphasized that the program to help starving non-Communist Europeans must be voluntary.

The CIO has urged restoration of price controls and rationing to beat the food crisis. The AFL stated:

"Such government regimentation in peacetime is abhorent and unworkable; the challenge is to meet this crisis by voluntary measures. President Truman is approaching this crisis in the American way."

The AFL contended that unless spiraling prices were checked, they would "lead to depression" and give the Communists a chance "to clean up if it comes." It added:

"If we were to . . . fail Europe in her time of need, we should create for Moscow and its Communist fifth columns in every European country exactly the conditions they want.

"American workers who participate in the food saving program are helping to preserve those free institutions which we and our fellow trade unionists in Europe hold most dear."

Czech-American Couple, Argentine Share Nobel Prize For Medicine

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 23 (AP) — A Czech-American chemist and his wife, from St. Louis, Mo., and a Buenos Aires doctor will share the 1947 Nobel Prize for medicine, the Karolinska Institute (Stockholm Faculty of Medicine) announced today.

Winners of the prize of 176,115 crowns ($48,921) are Dr. Carl F. Cori and Gerty Cori, of Washington University, St. Louis, and Dr. B. A. Houssay, chief of the Instituto De Biologia Y Medicina Experimental in Buenos Aires.

This marks the third time a Nobel Prize has been awarded to a married couple engaged in scientific work. Pierre and Marie Curie shared the physics prize with Henri Antoine Becquerel in 1903 for their researches in radioactivity. In 1935 the chemistry prize went to Frederick Joliot and Irene Curie Joliot, a daughter of the Curies.

The Coris received the award for their discovery of a chemical compound, present in human bodies, that manufactures the blood sugar known as glycogen. This compound is an enzyme (biological catalyst or accelerator) called phosphorylase which converts animal starches into glycogen.

The Coris were born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, in 1896 and received their medical degrees from the university in that city. They were married in 1920 and moved to the United States in 1922. In 1928 they became American citizens.

Dr. Houssay, 60, is a specialist in diabetes and also is known for his research on snake and spider bites. He proved that the front portion of the pituitary gland, at the base of the brain, in some way controls diabetes. He established this fact by removing that portion of the gland from a dog, which stopped diabetes previously induced by removing the pancreatic glands.

Electronics Engineer Will Wed Janet Attlee

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Miss Janet Attlee, demure, 24-year-old daughter of Prime Minister and Mrs. Clement Attlee, will be married November 15 to Harold Shipton, an electronics engineer, in rites almost overlooked in the excitement over Princess Elizabeth's wedding five days later.

Mrs. Attlee bought her daughter's wedding gown with seven clothing coupons, compared to 100 allotted the Princess.

Ramadier Denounces De Gaullists And Reds

PARIS, Oct. 23. (AP)—Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier challenged both De Gaullists and Communists as "a danger" to the republic today, and a member of his staff said he would take his new streamlined Cabinet before an extraordinary session of the National Assembly in a demand for a vote of confidence.

The government-convoked session of Parliament is to meet Tuesday in a political atmosphere which Ramadier said was "charged with electricity." The Premier's press attache said the vote of confidence would not be taken until Thursday, after two days' debate.

13 Special Sessions Of Congress Have Been Summoned Since 1900

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Today's call for a special session of Congress marks the thirteenth time one has been summoned since 1900.

Past records provide no basis for estimating the possible length of the session scheduled November 17, those in the past having ranged from 15 days to 239.

1903—November 9 (29 days), called by Theodore Roosevelt to consider legislation for a commercial treaty with Cuba.

1909—March 15 (144 days), called by William Howard Taft to consider a revision of the Dingley Tariff Act.

1911—April 4 (141 days), called by Taft to consider a reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Canada.

1913—April 7 (239 days), called by Woodrow Wilson to alter tariff duties.

1917—April 2 (188 days), called by Wilson to declare war against Germany.

1919—May 19 (185 days), called by Wilson to appropriate more funds for operation of government.

1921—April 11 (227 days), called by Warren Harding to consider national economic problems resulting from war.

1922—November 20 (15 days), called by Harding to consider increase in Merchant Marine.

1929—April 15 (222 days), called by Herbert Hoover to consider farm relief and limited changes in tariff.

1933—March 9 (99 days), called by Franklin D. Roosevelt to restore and improve banking system.

1937—November 15 (37 days), called by Roosevelt to consider recession in industrial production.

1939—September 21 (44 days), called by Roosevelt to consider problems arising from the outbreak of war as affecting the Neutrality Act.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 23 (AP) — A Czech-American chemist and his wife, from St. Louis, Mo., and a Buenos Aires doctor will share the 1947 Nobel Prize for medicine, the Karolinska Institute (Stockholm Faculty of Medicine) announced today.

Winners of the prize of 176,115 crowns ($48,921) are Dr. Carl F. Cori and Gerty Cori, of Washington University, St. Louis, and Dr. B. A. Houssay, chief of the Instituto De Biologia Y Medicina Experimental in Buenos Aires.

This marks the third time a Nobel Prize has been awarded to a married couple engaged in scientific work. Pierre and Marie Curie shared the physics prize with Henri Antoine Becquerel in 1903 for their research in radioactivity. In 1935 the chemistry prize went to Frederick Joliot and Irene Curie Joliot, a daughter of the Curies.

The Coris received the award for their discovery of a chemical compound, present in human bodies, that manufactures the blood sugar known as glycogen. This compound is an enzyme (biological catalyst or accelerator) called phosphorylase which converts animal starches into glycogen.

The Coris were born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, in 1896 and received their medical degrees from the university in that city. They were married in 1920 and moved to the United States in 1922. In 1928 they became American citizens.

Dr. Houssay, 60, is a specialist in diabetes and also is known for his research on snake and spider bites. He proved that the front portion of the pituitary gland, at the base of the brain, in some way controls diabetes. He established this fact by removing that portion of the gland from a dog, which stopped diabetes previously induced by removing the pancreatic glands.

"Poultryless" Thursday Will Be Continued

Committee Rejects Industry Proposal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Citizens' Food Committee decided today to keep Thursdays as "poultryless days".

In announcing this, Committee Chairman Charles Luckman said that an alternate grain-saving program offered by the National Poultry Producers Federation "is not an adequate substitute" for one day a week without eggs or poultry.

Luckman said that he and the President's Cabinet Food Committee are in complete accord on that. He declared:

"The assignment of the Citizens' Food Committee is to save grain. The poultry population of the United States has been eating too much of the grain that should go to hungry people abroad.

Consumption Reduced

"The only way to save grain consumption by poultry is to reduce the production in raising of birds. Poultryless Thursday has been having precisely this effect."

Luckman emphasized, however, that he will not continue poultryless Thursday any longer than is absolutely necessary to meet grain export requirements.

During the day, Luckman also announced that he has rejected appeals by 14 small distillers for exemption as special hardship cases from the 60-day distilling holiday scheduled to start at midnight Saturday. He said the evidence did not support their contentions.

In another move related to the program of saving 100,000,000 bushels of grain for Europe, the Commerce Department announced that controls will be restored tomorrow on shipment of malt abroad.

The Poultry Producers Federation, arguing against continuing poultryless Thursdays, contended to Luckman's committee that flocks of chickens are large and cold storage space is filling up.

In reply to these contentions, Luckman made public a letter from Secretary of Agriculture Anderson advising:

Marketings Decrease

1. Since poultryless Thursdays began, marketings of fowl have dropped to 90 per cent of the pre-conservation program rate.

2. While department figures show that cold storage stocks of poultry on October 1 were the highest on record for that date, freezer storage space was occupied only 81 per cent of capacity, six per cent below a year ago.

Anderson's letter admonished:

"We must always remember that

Two Killed In Plane Crash Near Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 23. (AP)—Charles R. Brown, 30, Johnstown, and Clifford Bopp, 20, Summerhill, Pa., were killed today when their plane crashed and burned near Dunlo, 12 miles east of here.

The crash started a fire which was extinguished after it burned about two acres of woodland.

Both Brown and Bopp were World War II veterans and neither was married. Brown's survivors include his mother, Mrs. Rose Brown Smith, Drayton Plains, Mich. and a sister, Mrs. Ralph Kyle, Mt. Ranier, Md.

Cooper And Montgomery Report That Communists Have Hollywood Foothold

Reagan And Murphy Testify At Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP) — Movie Stars Gary Cooper and Robert Montgomery testified today that Communists and a Red "lunatic fringe" have gained a foothold in Hollywood that is both noisy and dangerous.

"Character assassination," said Montgomery, is one of their weapons.

Actors Ronald Reagan and George Murphy, two other witnesses in the all-star cast of today's installment of the Reds-in-Hollywood probe, generally agreed with Cooper and Montgomery that the Communists have failed to dominate the movie industry. They all said a vast majority of the workers are against the tenets of Moscow.

Cooper, after laughingly describing his "present occupation" as an actor, broke off from his usual lazy drawl and his jaws tightened as he testified that he once rejected a script because the leading character had to organize "an army of soldiers in the United States who wouldn't fight."

Montgomery, Reagan and Murphy —all former presidents of the Screen Actors Guild—agreed that Reds have penetrated the movie capital but haven't gone far, particularly in the Guild.

Women "Ah" And "Oh"

Like Robert Taylor yesterday, today's case had a standing-room-only audience, mostly "ah-h-h-hing" and "oh-h-h-hing" women who even got off an occasional low whistle.

Murphy looked the scene over appreciatively.

"This," he cracked, "is the most expensive set we've ever worked in. And it isn't the initial cost, either. It's the upkeep."

Earlier, Movie Writers Fred Niblo, Jr., and Richard Macaulay testified that Communists and those who "play along with them" have had some luck in the Screen Writers Guild, to which they belong. Macaulay reeled off 28 names, many of them mentioned previously in the hearings.

The 43-year-old Montgomery, veteran of 22 years in the movies as actor and director, was the first star on the stand. His famous smile turned grim suddenly when he was asked if there eved had been any attempts to inject Communist or un-American propaganda into his pictures.

Britain Slashes Imports Of Food, Naval Manpower

Tobacco Imports From U. S. Halted

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP)—New cuts in Britain's daily diet, a reduction in naval manpower, and a ban on tobacco imports from the United States were announced today by the government in a new program to combat the economic crisis.

The program was outlined to a silent House of Commons by Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister of Economic Affairs, and Defense Minister A. V. Alexander. It also calls for curbs on home and factory building and the sale of more than half of the sterling area's estimated $2,400,000,000 gold reserves during the next 14 months.

Emphasizing what was at stake, Cripps declared:

"If our economy and that of Europe should collapse, our democracy in all probability will collapse too and will disappear, and with it will go the last stronghold of western democratic civilization in Europe."

Tobacco Imports Banned

He announced that all tobacco imports from the United States had already been stopped, that new food import reductions would cut the average daily diet from 2,870 calories to below 2,700 and that public and private expenditures for building homes and factories and buying

AFL Calls Upon Industry For New Wage Increases Without Boosting Prices

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (INS)—The American Federation of Labor called upon industry today for a third round of wage increases to be made without further boosts in the already high price structure.

The AFL, which also urged public co-operation with President Truman's food conservation drive, declared further wage increases were made necessary because of spiraling living costs.

It asserted that price increases must be avoided if the wage boosts were to mean anything to the working man. The labor union stated in its monthly economic report:

"Such a policy can only succeed if management comes half way, submitting facts and figures acceptable to both parties to show the wage increase possible without raising prices . . ."

The AFL called upon management to "sit down in good faith with labor to work out ways and means of raising wages within present prices."

The AFL said that the anticipated 17 billion dollars in profits to American business this year must be made the basis of higher living standards.

It asserted that the President's "waste less" food drive was one way of "bringing prices down," but emphasized that the program to help starving non-Communist Europeans must be voluntary.

The CIO has urged restoration of price controls and rationing to beat the food crisis. The AFL stated:

"Such government regimentation in peacetime is abhorent and unworkable; the challenge is to meet this crisis by voluntary measures. President Truman is approaching this crisis in the American way."

The AFL contended that unless spiraling prices were checked, they would "lead to depression" and give the Communists a chance "to clean up if it comes." It added:

"If we were to . . . fail Europe in her time of need, we should create for Moscow and its Communist fifth columns in every European country exactly the conditions they want.

"American workers who participate in the food saving program are helping to preserve those free institutions which we and our fellow trade unionists in Europe hold most dear."

Ramadier Denounces De Gaullists And Reds

PARIS, Oct. 23. (AP)—Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier challenged both De Gaullists and Communists as "a danger" to the republic today, and a member of his staff said he would take his new streamlined Cabinet before an extraordinary session of the National Assembly in a demand for a vote of confidence.

The government-convoked session of Parliament is to meet Tuesday in a political atmosphere which Ramadier said was "charged with electricity." The Premier's press attache said the vote of confidence would not be taken until Thursday, after two days' debate.

Electronics Engineer Will Wed Janet Attlee

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Miss Janet Attlee, demure, 24-year-old daughter of Prime Minister and Mrs. Clement Attlee, will be married November 15 to Harold Shipton, an electronics engineer, in rites almost overlooked in the excitement over Princess Elizabeth's wedding five days later.

Mrs. Attlee bought her daughter's wedding gown with seven clothing coupons, compared to 100 allotted the Princess.

Possible Moves To Curb Soaring Prices Outlined

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Here are some of the measures Congress may be asked to consider to curb rising priees:

1. Allocation of grain, steel and perhaps other scarce materials, to limit the amount used by millers, distillers, animal feed manufacturers and others, and to assure earmarked supplies for export.

2. Revival of consumer credit controls — the down-payment and installment-plan limitations on autos and other goods—which are due to expire November 1.

3. Possible direct federal purchase of grain from farmers, instead of sales on the grain exchanges, to minimize the price-boosting impact of government buying. This might include an arrangement for payment next year, so that farmers would not withhold grain in an effort to stay out of higher tax brackets.

4. Extension of export controls beyond the present February 29, 1948, expiration date. They exist on several hundred items including many types of steel.

5. An increase in the authority of the Federal Reserve Board to check the expansion of bank credit.

President To Make Radio Talk Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Truman today called Congress into special session November 17 to consider a possible billion-dollar program of stop-gap foreign aid and to throw a federal halter on runaway prices at home.

Gravely and rapidly, Mr. Truman read his proclamation to newsmen massed in his oval office, then announced he would make an all-network broadcast to the people at 10 p. m., E.S.T., tomorrow.

He did not name his figure on winter aid. But other administration officials, said it has climbed from his $580,000,000 estimate for France, Italy, and Austria, made a few weeks ago, and now looks like this:

About $642,000,000 for France and Italy alone; up to $30,000,000 for occupied Austria; and a possible $400,000,000 for occupied Japan, Korea and Germany—a total of $1,072,000,000 to last until March 31. The officials who supplied the estimates to reporters withheld the use of their names.

The day crackled with developments:

First the call for the extraordinary session itself, after talk of one had somewhat faded; then the disclosure of the unexpected early date for it; and, finally, the inclusion of a call to Congress to "put an end to the continued rise in prices" as well as to deal with Europe's crisis.

Martin Breaks News First

His news conference followed immediately an hour-long session with the congressional leaders whose committees are the first hurdles in the path of winter aid for Western Europe.

Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), the speaker of the House, broke the news first. "The President did it on his own," he told newsmen who asked whether the legislators of both parties were sharing responsibility for the decision.

Mr. Truman opened his news conference by reading a prepared statement, setting forth rapidly and soberly his reasons for proclaiming the special session:

First, to present to Congress "suitable measures for dealing with inflation, high prices, and the high cost of living"—perils, he said, which are "endangering the prosperity and welfare of the entire nation."

Second, to deal with "the crisis in Western Europe," which he called a problem of outright survival for the populations of those nations. He asked $580,000,000 in stop-gap aid for that purpose.

Third, to provide an opportunity for more rapid consideration of the Marshall plan of long range aid in European recovery.

Newsmen Break For Door

"I have just signed a proclamation convening the Congress at 12 o'clock noon on Monday, November 17, 1947," he closed.

"Tomorrow evening, at 10 o'clock, over all the networks, I shall make a radio address to the American people describing the present situation in detail and explaining why action by the Congress is necessary prior to the regularly scheduled session in January."

Reporters, although primed with scores of questions on poultryless Thursday, food conservation and other issues, waited for no more. With a shouted, "Thank you, Mr. President," they broke for the door. Anyhow, Mr. Truman said he would save his replies to further questions until he speaks on the radio.

First congressional reaction was favorable. Sen. Brewster (R-Me.) said the call was "well warranted." Grain prices, he said, "obviously are getting out of hand and something has to be done about it."

Maintain Tense Truce In Strike

GALION, O., Oct. 23 (AP) — A tense truce was maintained in the North Electric Company strike today despite an influx of union sympathizers from other Ohio cities.

The out-of-towners, who came here to reinforce CIO auto workers unionists who conducted a 12-hour siege of the telephone equipment factory last night, were sent back home by the UAW.

The plant, where a strike has been in progress since August 20, was closed until Monday, when company and union officials will meet, and the union said its temporary objective had been achieved.

Edward Duck, international representative of the UAW-CIO, had said the plant should remain closed until the company acts on the union demands for recognition and a 20 per cent wage increase.

The truce came suddenly after a night of sporadic rock throwing, window breaking and erroneous reports that the strikers and their sympathizers were planning to storm their way into the plant.

Some 350 non-strikers, who normally would have gone home at 4:30 p. m., stayed in the plant while the crowd milled outside. They were assured safe conduct shortly before 1 a. m. after the company agreed to meet with the union.

American World Fliers Head For Chitose, Japan

TOKYO, Friday, Oct. 24 (AP)—Two American world fliers took off in their Cub planes today for Chitose Army Air Field in Northern Japan. From Chitose they will begin the longest and most hazardous hop.

The fliers, George Truman, Los Angeles, and Clifford Evans, Washington, D. C., apparently had not yet heard from Russia on their request for permission to make emergency landings in the Soviet Kurile Islands on their 1,500-mile flight to the Aleutians.

13 Special Sessions Of Congress Have Been Summoned Since 1900

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Today's call for a special session of Congress marks the thirteenth time one has been summoned since 1900.

Past records provide no basis for estimating the possible length of the session scheduled November 17, those in the past having ranged from 15 days to 239.

Here is the list of past special sessions:

1903—November 9 (29 days), called by Theodore Roosevelt to consider legislation for a commercial treaty with Cuba.

1909—March 15 (144 days), called by William Howard Taft to consider a revision of the Dingley Tariff Act.

1911—April 4 (141 days), called by Taft to consider a reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Canada.

1913—April 7 (239 days), called by Woodrow Wilson to alter tariff duties.

1917—April 2 (188 days), called by Wilson to declare war against Germany.

1919—May 19 (185 days), called by Wilson to appropriate more funds for operation of government.

1921—April 11 (227 days), called by Warren Harding to consider national economic problems resulting from war.

1922—November 20 (15 days), called by Harding to consider increase in Merchant Marine.

1929—April 15 (222 days), called by Herbert Hoover to consider farm relief and limited changes in tariff.

1933—March 9 (99 days), called by Franklin D. Roosevelt to restore and improve banking system.

1937—November 15 (37 days), called by Roosevelt to consider recession in industrial production.

1939—September 21 (44 days), called by Roosevelt to consider problems arising from the outbreak of war as affecting the Neutrality Act.

Public Recognizes Food-Saving Need To Help People Of Western Europe

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., October 23—Now that America's second food-saving program since V-J Day is a month old, the proper time has come to study the public's first impressions of the Food Conservation Program headed by industrialist Charles Luckman.

Here are some points that can be made upon analysis of an intensive survey conducted by hundreds of Institute interviewers throughout the country:

1. Perhaps the most important observation is that a majority of American adults with opinions believe that real need exists in Western Europe for food from this country. Only one out of three believes sacrifice on our part is unjustified.

2. More than six out of ten people say their families plan to follow or are following the suggestion to eat no meat on Tuesdays, while another four per cent say they will cooperate whenever possible. Only one-fourth claim that meatless Tuesday's suggestions is too difficult to carry out.

Today's willingness to follow government food-saving suggestions is strikingly similar to that found by polls taken in 1946 during the Famine Emergency Committee's program. In March of that year 56 per cent of American families said they were taking part. By June the figure rose to three out of four families, indicating that present efforts may also gather momentum as people become better informed as to what is expected.

3. Better than nine out of 10 people already have either heard or read about President Truman's food-saving scheme, a very high rate of public awareness for any issue. Of those familiar with plan, six out of ten grasped the idea that the program is designed to save food in order to send relief to European nations. Another 26 per cent mention that objective first and then add another such as "reductions of prices or fighting communism.

4. Mr. and Mrs. Consumer also seem to have a fairly clear idea about what the government wants them to do. Interviewers asked this question:

"Will you tell me all the things that the government wants you to do in the food-saving program?"

The answers:

14 per cent were essentially correct, listing meatless and poultryless days and reduction of bread consumption.

35 per cent said we are asked to cut down on use of grain, grain products, eggs or meat.

39 per cent said "eat less and waste less."

18 per cent either did not answer or gave incorrect answers.

(Adds up to more than 100% since some respondents gave more than one answer.)

5. The Administration has a difficult educational job before it to convince a third of the nation that Europe's situation warrents a voluntary rationing program. It would be well-advised, also, on the basis of the above figures, to define clearly each step it wants consumers to take.

Egyptian Girl Frowns On Long Skirts

AP Newsfeatures

BETHLEHEM—Egyptian born Mrs. C. Wilton Wynn came to America with Hollywood's version of the American woman much on her mind—"I expected to find glamour girls all over the place," she explained.

She was surprised, therefore, to discover that all women here are NOT beauties, "but they are much more human than the cinema queens."

The ex-Cairo resident came here as the bride of Lehigh University's new professor in journalism, whom she met and married while he was head of the division of journalism of the American University in Cairo.

Mrs. Wynn takes a dim view of the new long skirt. "I don't care for them. They were tried in Cairo but the women there didn't like them either and I don't think the style will last here."

Egyptian Girl Frowns On Long Skirts

AP Newsfeatures

BETHLEHEM — Egyptian born Mrs. C. Wilton Wynn came to America with Hollywood's version of the American woman much on her mind—"I expected to find glamour girls all over the place," she explained.

She was surprised, therefore, to discover that all women here are NOT beauties, "but they are much more human than the cinema queens."

The ex-Cairo resident came here as the bride of Lehigh University's new professor in journalism, whom she met and married while he was head of the division of journalism of the American University in Cairo.

Mrs. Wynn takes a dim view of the new long skirt. "I don't care for them. They were tried in Cairo but the women there didn't like them either and I don't think the style will last here."

De Gaulle's Victory In Election In France

In anything like normal times local elections in France would attract little attention beyond the French borders. But the municipal balloting last Sunday was an event of world importance. It disclosed, to some degree, which way divided France is moving in the political struggle between Soviet Russia and the democratic West.

The new factor in the French picture, the strange, almost mystical personality of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, scored a telling victory, his forces polling 40 per cent of the vote cast, but whether this leads to control of the Paris government by the "Rally of the French People," which he founded, remains to be seen. The results of the election show that his party drew strength from all the parties on a platform opposing Communism and pledging cooperation with the United States and other western democracies.

The Communists, who hate and fear him, while showing no gain in power over the preceding election, retained its present strength. Whether this will be enough, with the aid of lesser party delegates, to block de Gaulle in his effort to take control of government, must await developments. In addition to the Communist Party, de Gaulle was opposed by many middle-class Frenchmen who suspect that in his almost Messianic campaign may lie the seeds of a French dictatorship.

But it is evident from the size of the vote de Gaulle attracted to his Party that at least some of the middle-of-the-road citizens swung to the right rather than risk the chance of Communists rolling up an impressive majority, while he gathered much of his strength chiefly from the moderates.

The moderate Ramadier Government which has been fighting for its life against hunger and inflation, both deliberately aggravated by French Communists, acting on orders from the Kremlin, failed to make any kind of the showing that might have been expected. The outbreak of strikes was intended to cripple the government and convince the French public that it could not sustain itself with American aid against the Communist-labor opposition.

Since de Gaulle's forces do not command a clear cut majority of the electorate, he would seem to be better advised to support the Ramadier government in its current effort to save the Republic from Communism. This opinion is ventured because the three anti-Communist groups together represent 70 per cent of French voters.

The election facts of commanding importance are that Communism is still a minority cause in France and that the public response to Moscow's campaign to subvert French democracy has been to build up a more aggressive anti-Communist force.

The most important result of the election, however, is the political comeback of de Gaulle, wartime leader of the Free French. When he stepped out as head of the provisional French government in January, 1946, he was not retiring; he was shrewdly biding his time. He suspected that Communism in France would become ever bolder and more menacing. He believed that a government made up of mild Socialists and moderate-to-conservative Catholics could not stem the Red tide. The election last Sunday—accepted by everyone as a fair test of political sentiment in France—has evidently proved him right.

No More Recordings?

If James Caesar Petrillo means what he says, members of the American Federation of Musicians will make no more recordings after December 31. They are, he declares in his capacity as president of the union, determined "once and for all that they will not make the instrument that will eventually destroy them."

That sounds final. But in the "canned music" industry these words are not taken literally. They are interpreted as a demand that the industry circumvent the Taft-Hartley Act, which outlaws union-administered welfare funds and so stands in the way of an agreement to renew the present contract. The uion now gets approximately $2,000,000 a year for its coffers from royalties on all records sold.

Maybe that is all Petrillo is driving at. It is true that he first indicated his intention to put a stop to recordings immediately after Congress passed the Taft-Hartley Act. Also, the present contract ended the ban he imposed in August, 1942, and maintained for 27 war months. He might be content with the equivalent of a renewal, if the industry can find a way to grant it.

There is a better reason for believing that Petrillo will eventually back down from his position. He is up against a situation that appears too big for him to handle, despite the power he enjoys as the virtual dictator of a strong union. The industry is not helpless. It can draw on the vast library of discs already available, it can import foreign recordings, it may hire non-union orchestras.

The industry will have the public on its side—because the public will insist on hearing the music it wants to hear—and Petrillo is likely to find in time that he is waging a losing fight.

As Europe Sees Him

Some members of Congress who have been touring Europe have given some radio blab-mouths cause to worry about the impression these legislators have made in other countries. Real Americans, of course, aren't concerned about what Europeans think. But it will be good news to the timid that in one German city, at least, American Congressmen have won respect and admiration.

A dispatch from Essen, which has counted among its recent visitors two-score Representatives and a few Senators as well, reports that Europeans see the American lawmaker as a man always in a hurry, serious about his work, carrying a briefcase stuffed with papers. He may wear a campaign hat and "a nice, misty blue tweed suit," but he knows his business.

Besides, he is genuinely fond of children. No matter how busy he is, he invariably has time to pick up the nearest child in a rubble-strewn area. He is shocked to see families living in hovels in the devastated areas. He shows great interest in food and living conditions.

He asks questions, a lot of them. He probes into everything. But he doesn't commit himself on how he will vote on issues touching on Europe.

Food for guests at a Spanish royal wedding will cost $70,000, indicating the hosts plan to serve meat.

HICCUP REMEDIES

THERE are so many hiccup cures that the condition is probably the grand champion in this respect. Furthermore, most treatments work altho every year we hear of a patient or two who could not be helped by any plan.

An involuntary contraction of the diaphragm is the basic cause. At the same time the glottis [upper end of the windpipe] closes, producing the typical "hic." As a rule, the phenomenon lasts for a short time and disappears spontaneously or after employing a simple remedy such as drinking a glass of water. For this reason, the symptom cannot be considered serious. The exceptions occur when it develops in those who are extremely ill or debilitated, especially older individuals or following surgery. Should it continue, the patient becomes exhausted and the ingenuity of the physician is taxed to the limit. Now and then a special operation is required as a life saving measure.

The origins of hiccups are numerous. It is a common saying in medical circles that any abnormality above or below the diaphragm can start the reflex. This is a large order but possibly true particularly when the rarer causes are considered. But in the every day variety, faulty eating habits are responsible. The stomach becomes overdistended too rapidly by gulping food or drink, or the lining membrane of the gastric pouch may be irritated by edibles that are too hot or too hot or cold, spices, or carbonated or alcoholic beverages. If the organ is already inflamed or ulcerated, the likelihood is increased.

The reflex can be initiated also by other intestinal disturbances as well as bladder difficulties. This explains why it is prone to appear after abdominal or pelvic surgery. Chest difficulties, especially those that irritate the diaphragm, are possibilities. Nervousness, fright, shock, and hysteria are know to precipitate the manifestation and, in some instances, hiccups on this basis have lasted weeks or months. There is an epidemic type due to bacterial invasion which affects large numbers of persons at one time.

Treatments are a dime a dozen and even in the days of Plato, many were described. Eryximachus recommended "...hold your breath; and if this fails, gargle with a little water; and if hiccups continue, tickle your nose with something; and if you sneeze once or twice, even the most violent hiccup is sure to go." This is still good advice.

Other mechanical measures include holding the tongue down or thrusting it out rhythmically, pressing the eyeballs or neck, and extending the head. In children, relief often follows diverting their attention by making a loud noise or other maneuver. Swallowing water or a bicarbonate of soda solution is sometimes beneficial.

There are a host of drugs and medical procedures. Inhaling carbon dioxide, amyl nitrite, or an anesthetic like chloroform or ether will help. Occasionally, a stomach tube must be passed to wash the gastric pouch or empty its contents. Sedatives, narcotics, emetics, laxatives, and stimulants also have been recommended. The latest is benzedrine. If none of these remedies is effective, a general anesthetic can be tried and, if it fails, the nerve leading to the diaphragm may be crushed or severed, paralyzing the structure. This makes hiccups impossible.

TOBACCO POISONING

M. S. writes: Can neuritis result from smoking

REPLY

Yes, it is a rare possibility as the causes of neuritis are numerous and include toxins from a variety of chemicals and poisons. Individuals who over-indulge in nicotine develop occasionally twitching of the muscles and irregularities of the pulse from this source.

WINE OR MILK

N. N. writes: I have been told that a glass of wine will aid a person to gain weight more rapidly than the same quantity of milk. Is this true?

REPLY

Yes, as wine contains slightly more calories than whole milk. But it is not as nourishing and consequently not recommended for this purpose.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

If you see Flash Gordon and Buck Rogers holding hands and hovering over your roof, don't be alarmed. All sorts of strange things have been happening in the air recently—and I don't mean radio programs.

Take that plane with 53 passengers that turned over in midair last week; it certainly stirred up a lot of controversy as to what caused the freak accident. All I know is it's a good thing the pilot wasn't driving a convertible.

The Army hasn't been sleeping either. Recently it broke the wall of sound with a jet. I really don't see why they're so excited, though—Spike Jones did it years ago. In fact, he broke its heart.

And, believe it or not, folks in Texas swear they saw a flying cigar in the sky. The only thing I can see unusual about that is that it didn't stop and spell out "Sell your car to Honest John."

But the most unusual aviation news was about the plane that flew the Atlantic twice without the aid of a pilot. I guess now the pilots will have more time and the hostesses will have to have more speed. That automatic pilot is really clever—it not only flew the Atlantic but beat the crew in gin rummy.

Capitol Lobbyist Ralph Moore Makes Fortune In Six Years; Sen. O'Daniel Refers "Cases" To Moore; Agriculture Department Catches Up With Him

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Six years ago, a genial gentleman wearing a broad-brimmed hat and with only a few dollars in his pocket came up from Texas, leaving behind a none too savory reputation. Today, he owns 7,000 acres of cotton land around Granger, Texas, 1,800 acres and 700 cattle near San Antonio, a 531-acre farm near Poolesville, Md., is on a first-name basis with various Senators, and admits being in on some of the big speculation on the Chicago Grain Exchange.

The gentleman in question is ebullient, back-slapping, fast-talking Ralph Moore, whose meteoric rise as a Capitol lobbyist illustrates how a man with a happy smile, a all-bearing tongue and plenty of gall can roll up a fortune overnight. His career also illustrates how a smart operator can manipulate the commodity market when millions in Europe are starving.

Moore is delightfully frank about his career. Visited some time ago in his converted office building at 1707 N Street, the gentleman from Texas sat against a backdrop of mounted longhorns, handsome paintings and ornate gray-green draperies.

"I never have to bribe anybody," he bragged. "It's a bad practice. I just show them how to make a little money. If you give a man $500 or $1,000 he feels like he owes you something and that you are trying to bribe him. But if you just show him how to make money, he doesn't feel like he owes you anything. That's what I do with my contacts. That's what I would do with you if I trusted you."

Senators Speculate

Asked whether he handled the grain speculations of any Senators, Moore said that he did not, but that several of them had speculated and usually operated through Bache & Co. in Washington, or Harriss & Vose in New York. (The latter is the firm which handled the cotton speculation of Edith Thomas, wife of the Oklahoma Senator, which this column exposed last year.)

"I don't know whether Senator O'Daniel and Senator Thomas are my best friends on Capitol Hill," Moore said in reply to a direct question.

In reply to another question, he admitted that the former secretary to Senator O'Daniel had made quite a bit of money through his association with Moore.

"When Texas constituents called at Senator O'Daniel's office it is reported that his secretary used to refer them to you, and that you get a lot of lobbying business that way?"

Quite cheerfully Moore admitted this was true.

"A lot of people come to O'Daniel with difficult problems," explained Moore, "and—refers them to me. You can't expect him to refer them to his enemies. Naturally I charge them a fee. I make it right with —— by helping him invest in commodities that will bring him a good return." This secretary has now left the employ of Senator O'Daniel, and since he was not available for comment, his name is withheld from publication.

Moore admitted it was no secret that he frequently entertains Senator Thomas of Oklahoma quite publicly at various swank hotels, and that occasionally he brought along some good-looking company, since "we both like to enjoy ourselves."

"I expect I have more friends on Capitol Hill than anyone else in town," expanded the genial Texan, looking out his window at his Belgian court beneath.

On the wall beside his desk hung a picture of Ralph Moore with officials of the Jack & Heintz war plant in Cleveland for which the gentleman from Texas did some lobbying. Moore explained that he threw a dinner for 200 Senators and Congressmen in behalf of Jack and Heintz, who were opposing the renegotiation of their war profits.

Another picture showed Moore with Senators Wherry of Nebraska; Thomas of Oklahoma, Bankhead of Alabama and Bushfield of South Dakota, dining at the Mayflower Hotel May 18, 1945. The picture is labeled "Ralph Moore OPA dinner," which the host proudly admitted was one of the most important functions he ever staged in plotting the destruction of price control.

When Moore first came to Washington, he represented only the Texas Cattle Growers Association and the Texas State Grange, and the big money started to roll in only after he had helped kill OPA.

Defeated Senatro Norris

Price control is not the only thing Moore boasts about killing. In 1942 he says he went into Iowa, Michigan, Nebraska and Oklahoma and "put a little money around where it would do the most good" to defeat Senators Clyde Herring, Prentiss Brown, George Norris and Josh Lee.

Moore also said he worked for the right-wing American Democratic National Committee in 1944 and has continued his connections with reactionary chain-publisher Frank Gannett and his Committee for Constitutional Government. He also helped Gannett organize the National Food Conference in Chicago in 1943.

"Making money is easy," said Moore in reply to another question, "if you know what the market is going to do. I'll make you some money right away and it won't cost you a dime, if you'll go easy on me. But I'm afraid of you. I'm afraid you might put it in the paper. If I could only trust you, I could make you quite a few thousand dollars in a hurry."

Moore Gets Caught

The other day, however, Ralph Moore got caught cold in one of his schemes for making quick money.

The Department of Agriculture caught him putting press releases in the pigeonholes of every newspaperman in the Agriculture Department press room. The press release was a bullish survey of the situation on fats and oils, obviously calculated to make the price of fats and oils go up.

The Department of Agriculture press room is set aside for the specific use of that Department in giving official information to the press. It is not for the use of private persons, especially lobbyists. When a statement is issued there, it bears the official backing of the United States Government, and great care is taken with these official statements to see that they are not used for speculation.

Ralph Moore, however, brazenly ignored these well-known rules.

Fortunately, no newsman fell for his clever press release, obviously aimed at influencing the market, and even listing at the bottom the names of agriculture experts supposed to back up his bullish statements.

Upshot of all this is that the Department of Agriculture is referring the operations of one Ralph Moore to the Justice Department with a view to possible criminal prosecution.

So the genial gentleman who has 12 phone lines on his desk, boasts a phone bill of $2,200 a month, and brags of having more friends on Capitol Hill than anyone else in Washington, may soon be in a position where his Senatorial playboys will think twice about playing with him further.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

The Hollywood Smearbund

EVERYTHING and everybody can be investigated in this country except the mummers and puppets of Hollywood who have set themselves up as intellectuals par excellence. These hoofers and literary hacks and imitators of gangsters have for so long been above the law, they have for so long lived as though a class apart, elevated socially beyond all fitness.

The Thomas Committee is now investigating just what has been going on in Bedlam and some smart lawyers and publicity men are rearing to make an honest dollar yelling and screaming and imitating some of those who have misbehaved before Congressional Committees. In a word, Hollywood has written a script to make the Thomas Committee's investigation ridiculous.

Howard Hughes and Johnny Meyer did that to Senators Brewster and Ferguson who, unaccustomed to vaudeville, discovered themselves smeared for trying to find out what happened to the money of the American taxpayer—$40,000,000 of it. Or is that too small an item to notice?

Now comes a group of Hollywood mimics and such and they plan to reject investigation as a violation of freedom of speech. They hire Robert W. Kenny and Bartley Crum as their lawyers and they will put on a show unless the Committee sits on them properly. The right of a Congressional Committee to investigate practically anything has been well substantiated by Supreme Court decisions. The Committee acts not a a trial court but as a Grand Jury and therefore may employ discretions beyond the rules of evidence which limit trial procedures in a court of law. A committee may or may not permit counsel to assist but rarely, if ever, tolerates cross-examination, for that process is useful to protect innocence but does not serve to uncover the precise truth.

The Committee does not find them guilty or absolve them; it seeks to determine what is for the general welfare.

Larry Parks apparently assumes the role of leader among those who have hired counsel to raise constitutional questions which they, as lawyers, know have already been answered. According to the "Daily Worker," among those who have joined Parks in this effort are Paulette Goddard, Henry Fonda, Gregory Peck, Van Heflin, Myrna Loy, Katharine Hepburn, Burgess Meredith, David Gardner, Dorothy McGuire, Marsha Hunt, and Paul Henreid.

What the Thomas Committee wants to find out is why so many motion pictures contain gobs of Communist propaganda. This is very difficult to establish either for the motion picture or the radio.

I once had a curious experience about that. I was listening to one of my favorite radio programs on the radio, over the more conservative network, sponsored by probably the most capitalistic of American business groups and issued by an advertising firm whose head has fought Communism tooth and nail.

Yet the script was straight Communist propaganda as though issued by the Comintern. I sent for the script and underlined the tricky lines and showed just how it was done. That happens all the time.

In an unrealistic decision, Judge Fuld, of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York, declared it libelous to call any person a Communist. As very few Communists are provably members of the party, which is an international conspiracy for world revolution in the interest of Soviet Russia, many persons can serve that party, perform its tasks, damage the United States, corrupt our children, debase their minds, pervert our textbooks, radio scripts and motion pictures, and pose as Republicans, Democrats, and even as church members.

They change their names as they change their faces and hide their crimes under the protection of the law which is designed to safeguard decent persons from the excesses of police power.

The public has, of course, recourse. I personally purchase no goods manufactured Behind the Iron Curtain. I go to no movies in which known Communists are stars or which are written by Communists. I buy no products advertised on the radio whose manufacturers sponsor what I accept as Communist-inspired programs.

That is my privilege and choice. Nobody can force me to pay for what I do not wish to purchase. I can fight Communism with my consumer's dollar.

Influence Of "Military Mind" Making Itself Felt In America

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—The influence of the "military mind" is slowly but surely making itself felt in the American government.

A new form of censorship at the source is contemplated. If put into effect, it will be applied to the entire civilian government. It will tend to squelch criticism of the government and also will set off a chain reaction of disbelief throughout the country in what the government does say.

President Truman will have before him shortly a set of regulations drafted for him by subordinates. The ostensible objective is "security"—a phrase which was used for many purposes during the war and not always with a military need.

The definition of "confidential information" in the draft of the proposed regulations for the handling and transmission of such information runs as follows:

"Confidential information is information the unauthorized disclosure of which, although not endangering the national security, would be prejudicial to the interests or prestige of the nation, any governmental activity, or an individual; or would cause serious administrative embarrassment or difficulty."

Permits Exchange of Documents

This originated, to be sure, out of the requirements of the President's loyalty committee dealing with Communism and is designed to enable government officials to transmit documents to one another without fear of unauthorized disclosure.

During the war no censorship law was deemed necessary, as the press exercised a voluntary censorship. Various efforts have been made from time to time to get Congress to pass bills governing "unauthorized disclosures" and the present statutes take care of the situation adequately insofar as it concerns disclosure by a government employe of the contents of any confidential document to an outsider.

But there is a line of demarcation between truly secret documents which have a "security" meaning and the careless labeling as "confidential" or "secret" of anything which some bureaucrat merely wants to keep away from the eyes of a vigilant press.

It would be very difficult for a government employee to talk to any member of the press if he felt he might be dismissed because the information imparted would in the judgement of his superior be construed as likely "to cause serious administrative embarrassment or difficulty."

Also it cannot be left to government employees to decide what would or would not be "prejudicial to the interests or prestige of the nation, any governmental activity, or an individual."

Helps Cover Up Frauds

Plainly there never was a better scheme to cover up fraud and scandal in government, as well as bad administration, than the proposed regulation. Miscreants could readily hide behind such a censorship wall.

It would be incredible if President Truman ever approved any such language. If he did, he might find himself on the defensive in the next political campaign. He might also find congressional investigating committees boring into the subject quite extensively, with consequent publicity that would not be politically helpful to an administration seeking continuance in office beyond 1948.

It may be confidently expected that Mr. Truman will emasculate the regulation and confine it to the unauthorized disclosure of documents marked "restricted" by someone high enough up in a government department to distinguish between public and private information.

What is more important than the language ultimately to be used in such a regulation is that the draft quoted above should emerge at all. Certainly it would be the sheerest hypocrisy for American officials to prate about the "iron curtain" and restrictions imposed by the Russians and at the same time issue an edict virtually forbidding government employees to talk to the press. Censorship at the source can be far more effective in surpressing the truth than actual censorship before publication. For if the press cannot get the information in the first instance, there would be little for a government censor to pass upon.

Sooner or later the "military minds" in our government must discover that the Bill of Rights really means freedom to gather information to which the people are entitled and that, in peacetime at least, government must be able so to conduct its affairs administratively as to protect really secret information from leaking out. It is a simple problem to train government officials how to use the ordinary rules of discretion or common sense. Threats of dismissal on "loyalty" issues are superfluous where the officials in charge of information are possessed of an understanding of what is or is not dangerous to tell the press.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Oct. — 23—(INS)— One of the great obscenities on the American scene is the make-up and general deportment of the typical courtroom audience.

We have had three prime and disconcerting examples of late. The people who sat in on the Overell trial, and later gleefully hugged the iron-faced young muscle moll in the case, were, on the average, a reflection on a great state and a grave affront to the dignity of man and the law.

The crowd at the Senate's inquiry into the Hughes - Kaiser - Meyer - Roosevelt business contributed heavily to the air of idiocy that pervaded that one.

Granted the people of the audience were not the sole reason for the soggy outcome of that gingerly effort to poke into the utterly unbelievable wastes of the war.

The Senators on the panel donated their own brand of daffiness, but they weren't as bad as the squatters out front who represented the very constituency the Senators were trying to protect.

Now, from Washington, we hear that such witnesses in the Hollywood commy case as Bob Taylor and Adolphe Menjou were literally mauled by a ripe tide of housewives who broke out of their seats in the caucus room to pummel the scented gentlemen.

I've covered a few trials in the past 15 years in this trade and the feeling grows stronger with each brush with justice that the fans in the marble bleachers should somehow be suppressed, or screened,or briefed on the majesty of the law and restraint of emotion.

If that's treason, so is the restriction on audiences at delicate surgical operations.

From close observation, the average woman who attends trials or hearings is the 20th Century version of harpies who followed the Tumbrils to the public square, and knitted during the clattering decent of the guillotine on perfumed necks

How these latter day crones, young and not so young, will ever catch up on the missing chapters of their radio soap serial remains a mystery.

But from the feverish look on their kissers one suspects that they are deriving such stimulation out of the tug-and-pull of jurisprudence that they will be willing to accept even second-handedly the absorbing outcome of John's third wife's other love

The men at trials and hearings are, on the whole, the kind of faceless bums one sees at daytime movies, excavations and in the knot of humans standing around the taxi accident.

At the Hughes thing, a daily habitue was one of the crummy crackpots named as defendants in the preposterous sedition trial. He took voluminous notes in his fine spencerian urdu.

Men, however, are in the minority in such gatherings. The women are the prime offenders, the chief violaters of a taste that is often badly needed in the case on the docket.

It is they who stand the long vigil in queues, fight for the seats up front, go the route, give to the processes of justice the flavor of over-the-back-fence traffic in gossip.

The ladies who pursued Taylor and Menjou down a congressional corridor, in search, apparently, of some gentle talisman of glamor—say, a ripped off shirt—were hardly concerned with the dire implications of the hearing.

That these gentlemen had had the courage and the industry to bestir themselves—in a time of peace—to sound an alarm against a clever and determined foe of all the things that made this a great country was secondary.

What mattered was that their faces are familiar in films and if they had been passing through Washington to pick up a package of seeds from their congressman they would have aroused the same demonstration.

The kernel of the Hughes hearing was a serious one. A son of a president was accused of and partially admitted accepting a series of parties from a company which won — over reponsible protests — war contracts originally totalling about one hundred million dollars.

But the audience seemed essentially concerned with whether any party girls retained by a fat man named Johnny Meyer would be produced, and it roared to a brand of humor which even Milton Berle might hesitate to lift.

At one stage of the debacle, the audience took charge of the show and even produced a spokesman; a mob demonstration which regrettably cowed the chairman, Sen. Ferguson.

Our congressional committees and our run-of-the-mine juries may occasionally leave something to be desired.

But if they sometimes make the brazen statue of justice glad that she is blindfolded they are paragons of dignity compared to most of those persons who have the leisure and inclination to become audiences.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Well, those industrious French workmen are whipping up the strikes that lost them everything that makes life worth taxing.

The word sabotage is from sabot. That means an old shoe usually made of wood. The good ones have knotholes for your corns.

Sabot also means the plate or shoe holding two connecting rails together. Over here we call it a frog. When you loosen that plate the rails spread and Casey Jones jumps the track in another language.

The French say the more a thing changes the more it is the same. And the more it is the same the less you recognize it.

De Gaulle's Victory In Election In France

In anything like normal times local elections in France would attract little attention beyond the French borders. But the municipal balloting last Sunday was an event of world importance. It disclosed, to some degree, which way divided France is moving in the political struggle between Soviet Russia and the democratic West.

The new factor in the French picture, the strange, almost mystical personality of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, scored a telling victory, his forces polling 40 per cent of the vote cast, but whether this leads to control of the Paris government by the "Rally of the French People," which he founded, remains to be seen. The results of the election show that his party drew strength from all the parties on a platform opposing Communism and pledging cooperation with the United States and other western democracies.

The Communists, who hate and fear him, while showing no gain in power over the preceding election, retained its present strength. Whether this will be enough, with the aid of lesser party delegates, to block de Gaulle in his effort to take control of government, must await developments. In addition to the Communist Party, de Gaulle was opposed by many middle-class Frenchmen who suspect that in his almost Messianic campaign may lie the seeds of a French dictatorship.

But it is evident from the size of the vote de Gaulle attracted to his Party that at least some of the middle-of-the-road citizens swung to the right rather than risk the chance of Communists rolling up an impressive majority, while he gathered much of his strength chiefly from the moderates.

The moderate Ramadier Government which has been fighting for its life against hunger and inflation, both deliberately aggravated by French Communists, acting on orders from the Kremlin, failed to make any kind of the showing that might have been expected. The outbreak of strikes was intended to cripple the government and convince the French public that it could not sustain itself with American aid against the Communist-labor opposition.

Since de Gaulle's forces do not command a clear cut majority of the electorate, he would seem to be better advised to support the Ramadier government in its current effort to save the Republic from Communism. This opinion is ventured because the three anti-Communist groups together represent 70 per cent of French voters.

The election facts of commanding importance are that Communism is still a minority cause in France and that the public response to Moscow's campaign to subvert French democracy has been to build up a more aggressive anti-Communist force.

The most important result of the election, however, is the political comeback of de Gaulle, wartime leader of the Free French. When he stepped out as head of the provisional French government in January, 1946, he was not retiring; he was shrewdly biding his time. He suspected that Communism in France would become ever bolder and more menacing. He believed that a government made up of mild Socialists and moderate-to-conservative Catholics could not stem the Red tide. The election last Sunday—accepted by everyone as a fair test of political sentiment in France—has evidently proved him right.

No More Recordings?

If James Caesar Petrillo means what he says, members of the American Federation of Musicians will make no more recordings after December 31. They are, he declares in his capacity as president of the union, determined "once and for all that they will not make the instrument that will eventually destroy them."

That sounds final. But in the "canned music" industry these words are not taken literally. They are interpreted as a demand that the industry circumvent the Taft-Hartley Act, which outlaws union-administered welfare funds and so stands in the way of an agreement to renew the present contract. The union now gets approximately $2,000,000 a year for its coffers from royalties on all records sold.

Maybe that is all Petrillo is driving at. It is true that he first indicated his intention to put a stop to recordings immediately after Congress passed the Taft-Hartley Act. Also, the present contract ended the ban he imposed in August, 1942, and maintained for 27 war months. He might be content with the equivalent of a renewal, if the industry can find a way to grant it.

There is a better reason for believing that Petrillo will eventually back down from his position. He is up against a situation that appears too big for him to handle, despite the power he enjoys as the virtual dictator of a strong union. The industry is not helpless. It can draw on the vast library of discs already available, it can import foreign recordings, it may hire non-union orchestras.

The industry will have the public on its side—because the public will insist on hearing the music it wants to hear—and Petrillo is likely to find in time that he is waging a losing fight.

As Europe Sees Him

Some members of Congress who have been touring Europe have given some radio blab-mouths cause to worry about the impression these legislators have made in other countries. Real Americans, of course, aren't concerned about what Europeans think. But it will be good news to the timid that in one German city, at least, American Congressmen have won respect and admiration.

A dispatch from Essen, which has counted among its recent visitors two-score Representatives and a few Senators as well, reports that Europeans see the American lawmaker as a man always in a hurry, serious about his work, carrying a briefcase stuffed with papers. He may wear a campaign hat and "a nice, misty blue tweed suit," but he knows his business.

Besides, he is genuinely fond of children. No matter how busy he is, he invariably has time to pick up the nearest child in a rubble-strewn area. He is shocked to see families living in hovels in the devastated areas. He shows great interest in food and living conditions.

He asks questions, a lot of them. He probes into everything. But he doesn't commit himself on how he will vote on issues touching on Europe.

Food for guests at a Spanish royal wedding will cost $70,000, indicating the hosts plan to serve meat.

HICCUP REMEDIES

THERE are so many hiccup cures that the condition is probably the grand champion in this respect. Furthermore, most treatments work altho every year we hear of a patient or two who could not be helped by any plan.

An involuntary contraction of the diaphragm is the basic cause. At the same time the glottis [upper end of the windpipe] closes, producing the typical "hic." As a rule, the phenomenon lasts for a short time and disappears spontaneously or after employing a simple remedy such as drinking a glass of water. For this reason, the symptom cannot be considered serious. The exceptions occur when it develops in those who are extremely ill or debilitated, especially older individuals or following surgery. Should it continue, the patient becomes exhausted and the ingenuity of the physician is taxed to the limit. Now and then a special operation is required as a life saving measure.

The origins of hiccups are numerous. It is a common saying in medical circles that any abnormality above or below the diaphragm can start the reflex. This is a large order but possibly true particularly when the rarer causes are considered. But in the every day variety, faulty eating habits are responsible. The stomach becomes overdistended too rapidly by gulping food or drink, or the lining membrane of the gastric pouch may be irritated by edibles that are too hot or too hot or cold, spices, or carbonated or alcoholic beverages. If the organ is already inflamed or ulcerated, the likelihood is increased.

The reflex can be initiated also by other intestinal disturbances as well as bladder difficulties. This explains why it is prone to appear after abdominal or pelvic surgery. Chest difficulties, especially those that irritate the diaphragm, are possibilities. Nervousness, fright, shock, and hysteria are know to precipitate the manifestation and, in some instances, hiccups on this basis have lasted weeks or months. There is an epidemic type due to bacterial invasion which affects large numbers of persons at one time.

Treatments are a dime a dozen and even in the days of Plato, many were described. Eryximachus recommended "...hold your breath; and if this fails, gargle with a little water; and if hiccups continue, tickle your nose with something; and if you sneeze once or twice, even the most violent hiccup is sure to go." This is still good advice.

Other mechanical measures include holding the tongue down or thrusting it out rhythmically, pressing the eyeballs or neck, and extending the head. In children, relief often follows diverting their attention by making a loud noise or other maneuver. Swallowing water or a bicarbonate of soda solution is sometimes beneficial.

There are a host of drugs and medical procedures. Inhaling carbon dioxide, amyl nitrite, or an anesthetic like chloroform or ether will help. Occasionally, a stomach tube must be passed to wash the gastric pouch or empty its contents. Sedatives, narcotics, emetics, laxatives, and stimulants also have been recommended. The latest is benzedrine. If none of these remedies is effective, a general anesthetic can be tried and, if it fails, the nerve leading to the diaphragm may be crushed or severed, paralyzing the structure. This makes hiccups impossible.

TOBACCO POISONING

M. S. writes: Can neuritis result from smoking

REPLY

Yes, it is a rare possibility as the causes of neuritis are numerous and include toxins from a variety of chemicals and poisons. Individuals who over-indulge in nicotine develop occasionally twitching of the muscles and irregularities of the pulse from this source.

WINE OR MILK

N. N. writes: I have been told that a glass of wine will aid a person to gain weight more rapidly than the same quantity of milk. Is this true?

REPLY

Yes, as wine contains slightly more calories than whole milk. But it is not as nourishing and consequently not recommended for this purpose.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

If you see Flash Gordon and Buck Rogers holding hands and hovering over your roof, don't be alarmed. All sorts of strange things have been happening in the air recently—and I don't mean radio programs.

Take that plane with 53 passengers that turned over in midair last week; it certainly stirred up a lot of controversy as to what caused the freak accident. All I know is it's a good thing the pilot wasn't driving a convertible.

The Army hasn't been sleeping either. Recently it broke the wall of sound with a jet. I really don't see why they're so excited, though—Spike Jones did it years ago. In fact, he broke its heart.

And, believe it or not, folks in Texas swear they saw a flying cigar in the sky. The only thing I can see unusual about that is that it didn't stop and spell out "Sell your car to Honest John."

But the most unusual aviation news was about the plane that flew the Atlantic twice without the aid of a pilot. I guess now the pilots will have more time and the hostesses will have to have more speed. That automatic pilot is really clever—it not only flew the Atlantic but beat the crew in gin rummy.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Capitol Lobbyist Ralph Moore Makes Fortune In Six Years; Sen. O'Daniel Refers "Cases" To Moore; Agriculture Department Catches Up With Him

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Six years ago, a genial gentleman wearing a broad-brimmed hat and with only a few dollars in his pocket came up from Texas, leaving behind a none too savory reputation. Today, he owns 7,000 acres of cotton land around Granger, Texas, 1,800 acres and 700 cattle near San Antonio, a 531-acre farm near Poolesville, Md., is on a first-name basis with various Senators, and admits being in on some of the big speculation on the Chicago Grain Exchange.

The gentleman in question is ebullient, back-slapping, fast-talking Ralph Moore, whose meteoric rise as a Capitol lobbyist illustrates how a man with a happy smile, a all-bearing tongue and plenty of gall can roll up a fortune overnight. His career also illustrates how a smart operator can manipulate the commodity market when millions in Europe are starving.

Moore is delightfully frank about his career. Visited some time ago in his converted office building at 1707 N Street, the gentleman from Texas sat against a backdrop of mounted longhorns, handsome paintings and ornate gray-green draperies.

"I never have to bribe anybody," he bragged. "It's a bad practice. I just show them how to make a little money. If you give a man $500 or $1,000 he feels like he owes you something and that you are trying to bribe him. But if you just show him how to make money, he doesn't feel like he owes you anything. That's what I do with my contacts. That's what I would do with you if I trusted you."

Senators Speculate

Asked whether he handled the grain speculations of any Senators, Moore said that he did not, but that several of them had speculated and usually operated through Bache & Co. in Washington, or Harriss & Vose in New York. (The latter is the firm which handled the cotton speculation of Edith Thomas, wife of the Oklahoma Senator, which this column exposed last year.)

"I don't know whether Senator O'Daniel and Senator Thomas are my best friends on Capitol Hill," Moore said in reply to a direct question.

In reply to another question, he admitted that the former secretary to Senator O'Daniel had made quite a bit of money through his association with Moore.

"When Texas constituents called at Senator O'Daniel's office it is reported that his secretary used to refer them to you, and that you get a lot of lobbying business that way?"

Quite cheerfully Moore admitted this was true.

"A lot of people come to O'Daniel with difficult problems," explained Moore, "and—refers them to me. You can't expect him to refer them to his enemies. Naturally I charge them a fee. I make it right with —— by helping him invest in commodities that will bring him a good return." This secretary has now left the employ of Senator O'Daniel, and since he was not available for comment, his name is withheld from publication.

Moore admitted it was no secret that he frequently entertains Senator Thomas of Oklahoma quite publicly at various swank hotels, and that occasionally he brought along some good-looking company, since "we both like to enjoy our selves."

"I expect I have more friends on Capitol Hill than anyone else in town," expanded the genial Texan, looking out his window at his Belgian court beneath.

On the wall beside his desk hung a picture of Ralph Moore with officials of the Jack & Heintz war plant in Cleveland for which the gentleman from Texas did some lobbying. Moore explained that he threw a dinner for 200 Senators and Congressmen in behalf of Jack and Heintz, who were opposing the renegotiation of their war profits.

Another picture showed Moore with Senators Wherry of Nebraska; Thomas of Oklahoma, Bankhead of Alabama and Bushfield of South Dakota, dining at the Mayflower Hotel May 18, 1945. The picture is labeled "Ralph Moore OPA dinner," which the host proudly admitted was one of the most important functions he ever staged in plotting the destruction of price control.

When Moore first came to Washington, he represented only the Texas Cattle Growers Association and the Texas State Grange, and the big money started to roll in only after he had helped kill OPA.

Defeated Senatro Norris

Price control is not the only thing Moore boasts about killing. In 1942 he says he went into Iowa, Michigan, Nebraska and Oklahoma and "put a little money around where it would do the most good" to defeat Senators Clyde Herring, Prentiss Brown, George Norris and Josh Lee.

Moore also said he worked for the right-wing American Democratic National Committee in 1944 and has continued his connections with reactionary chain-publisher Frank Gannett and his Committee for Constitutional Government. He also helped Gannett organize the National Food Conference in Chicago in 1943.

"Making money is easy," said Moore in reply to another question, "if you know what the market is going to do. I'll make you some money right away and it won't cost you a dime, if you'll go easy on me. But I'm afraid of you. I'm afraid you might put it in the paper. If I could only trust you, I could make you quite a few thousand dollars in a hurry."

Moore Gets Caught

The other day, however, Ralph Moore got caught cold in one of his schemes for making quick money.

The Department of Agriculture caught him putting press releases in the pigeonholes of every newspaperman in the Agriculture Department press room. The press release was a bullish survey of the situation on fats and oils, obviously calculated to make the price of fats and oils go up.

The Department of Agriculture press room is set aside for the specific use of that Department in giving official information to the press. It is not for the use of private persons, especially lobbyists. When a statement is issued there, it bears the official backing of the United States Government, and great care is taken with these official statements to see that they are not used for speculation.

Ralph Moore, however, brazenly ignored these well-known rules.

Fortunately, no newsman fell for his clever press release, obviously aimed at influencing the market, and even listing at the bottom the names of agriculture experts supposed to back up his bullish statements.

Upshot of all this is that the Department of Agriculture is referring the operations of one Ralph Moore to the Justice Department with a view to possible criminal prosecution.

So the genial gentleman who has 12 phone lines on his desk, boasts a phone bill of $2,200 a month, and brags of having more friends on Capitol Hill than anyone else in Washington, may soon be in a position where his Senatorial playboys will think twice about playing with him further.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

The Hollywood Smearbund

EVERYTHING and everybody can be investigated in this country except the mummers and puppets of Hollywood who have set themselves up as intellectuals par excellence. These hoofers and literary hacks and imitators of gangsters have for so long been above the law, they have for so long lived as though a class apart, elevated socially beyond all fitness.

The Thomas Committee is now investigating just what has been going on in Bedlam and some smart lawyers and publicity men are rearing to make an honest dollar yelling and screaming and imitating some of those who have misbehaved before Congressional Committees. In a word, Hollywood has written a script to make the Thomas Committee's investigation ridiculous.

Howard Hughes and Johnny Meyer did that to Senators Brewster and Ferguson who, unaccustomed to vaudeville, discovered themselves smeared for trying to find out what happened to the money of the American taxpayer—$40,000,000 of it. Or is that too small an item to notice?

Now comes a group of Hollywood mimics and such and they plan to reject investigation as a violation of freedom of speech. They hire Robert W. Kenny and Bartley Crum as their lawyers and they will put on a show unless the Committee sits on them properly. The right of a Congressional Committee to investigate practically anything has been well substantiated by Supreme Court decisions. The Committee acts not a a trial court but as a Grand Jury and therefore may employ discretions beyond the rules of evidence which limit trial procedures in a court of law. A committee may or may not permit counsel to assist but rarely, if ever, tolerates cross-examination, for that process is useful to protect innocence but does not serve to uncover the precise truth.

The Committee does not find them guilty or absolve them; it seeks to determine what is for the general welfare.

Larry Parks apparently assumes the role of leader among those who have hired counsel to raise constitutional questions which they, as lawyers, know have already been answered. According to the "Daily Worker," among those who have joined Parks in this effort are Paulette Goddard, Henry Fonda, Gregory Peck, Van Heflin, Myrna Loy, Katharine Hepburn, Burgess Meredith, David Gardner, Dorothy McGuire, Marsha Hunt, and Paul Henreid.

What the Thomas Committee wants to find out is why so many motion pictures contain gobs of Communist propaganda. This is very difficult to establish either for the motion picture or the radio.

I once had a curious experience about that. I was listening to one of my favorite radio programs on the radio, over the more conservative network, sponsored by probably the most capitalistic of American business groups and issued by an advertising firm whose head has fought Communism tooth and nail.

Yet the script was straight Communist propaganda as though issued by the Comintern. I sent for the script and underlined the tricky lines and showed just how it was done. That happens all the time.

In an unrealistic decision, Judge Fuld, of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York, declared it libelous to call any person a Communist. As very few Communists are provably members of the party, which is an international conspiracy for world revolution in the interest of Soviet Russia, many persons can serve that party, perform its tasks, damage the United States, corrupt our children, debase their minds, pervert our textbooks, radio scripts and motion pictures, and pose as Republicans, Democrats, and even as church members.

They change their names as they change their faces and hide their crimes under the protection of the law which is designed to safeguard decent persons from the excesses of police power.

The public has, of course, recourse. I personally purchase no goods manufactured Behind the Iron Curtain. I go to no movies in which known Communists are stars or which are written by Communists. I buy no products advertised on the radio whose manufacturers sponsor what I accept as Communist-inspired programs.

That is my privilege and choice. Nobody can force me to pay for what I do not wish to purchase. I can fight Communism with my consumer's dollar.

Influence Of "Military Mind" Making Itself Felt In America

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—The influence of the "military mind" is slowly but surely making itself felt in the American government.

A new form of censorship at the source is contemplated. If put into effect, it will be applied to the entire civilian government. It will tend to squelch criticism of the government and also will set off a chain reaction of disbelief throughout the country in what the government does say.

President Truman will have before him shortly a set of regulations drafted for him by subordinates. The ostensible objective is "security"—a phrase which was used for many purposes during the war and not always with a military need.

The definition of "confidential information" in the draft of the proposed regulations for the handling and transmission of such information runs as follows:

"Confidential information is information the unauthorized disclosure of which, although not endangering the national security, would be prejudicial to the interests or prestige of the nation, any governmental activity, or an individual; or would cause serious administrative embarrassment or difficulty."

Permits Exchange of Documents

This originated, to be sure, out of the requirements of the President's loyalty committee dealing with Communism and is designed to enable government officials to transmit documents to one another without fear of unauthorized disclosure.

During the war no censorship law was deemed necessary, as the press exercised a voluntary censorship. Various efforts have been made from time to time to get Congress to pass bills governing "unauthorized disclosures" and the present statutes take care of the situation adequately insofar as it concerns disclosure by a government employe of the contents of any confidential document to an outsider.

But there is a line of demarcation between truly secret documents which have a "security" meaning and the careless labeling as "confidential" or "secret" of anything which some bureaucrat merely wants to keep away from the eyes of a vigilant press.

It would be very difficult for a government employee to talk to any member of the press if he felt he might be dismissed because the information imparted would in the judgement of his superior be construed as likely "to cause serious administrative embarrassment or difficulty."

Also it cannot be left to government employees to decide what would or would not be "prejudicial to the interests or prestige of the nation, any governmental activity, or an individual."

Helps Cover Up Frauds

Plainly there never was a better scheme to cover up fraud and scandal in government, as well as bad administration, than the proposed regulation. Miscreants could readily hide behind such a censorship wall.

It would be incredible if President Truman ever approved any such language. If he did, he might find himself on the defensive in the next political campaign. He might also find congressional investigating committees boring into the subject quite extensively, with consequent publicity that would not be politically helpful to an administration seeking continuance in office beyond 1948.

It may be confidently expected that Mr. Truman will emasculate the regulation and confine it to the unauthorized disclosure of documents marked "restricted" by someone high enough up in a government department to distinguish between public and private information.

What is more important than the language ultimately to be used in such a regulation is that the draft quoted above should emerge at all. Certainly it would be the sheerest hypocrisy for American officials to prate about the "iron curtain" and restrictions imposed by the Russians and at the same time issue an edict virtually forbidding government employees to talk to the press. Censorship at the source can be far more effective in surpressing the truth than actual censorship before publication. For if the press cannot get the information in the first instance, there would be little for a government censor to pass upon.

Sooner or later the "military minds" in our government must discover that the Bill of Rights really means freedom to gather information to which the people are entitled and that, in peacetime at least, government must be able so to conduct its affairs administratively as to protect really secret information from leaking out. It is a simple problem to train government officials how to use the ordinary rules of discretion or common sense. Threats of dismissal on "loyalty" issues are superfluous where the officials in charge of information are possessed of an understanding of what is or is not dangerous to tell the press.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Oct.—23—(INS)—One of the great obscenities on the American scene is the make-up and general deportment of the typical courtroom audience.

We have had three prime and disconcerting examples of late. The people who sat in on the Overell trial, and later gleefully hugged the iron-faced young muscle moll in the case, were, on the average, a reflection on a great state and a grave affront to the dignity of man and the law.

The crowd at the Senate's inquiry into the Hughes - Kaiser - Meyer - Roosevelt business contributed heavily to the air of idiocy that pervaded that one.

Granted the people of the audience were not the sole reason for the soggy outcome of that gingerly effort to poke into the utterly unbelievable wastes of the war.

The Senators on the panel donated their own brand of daffiness, but they weren't as bad as the squatters out front who represented the very constituency the Senators were trying to protect.

Now, from Washington, we hear that such witnesses in the Hollywood commy case as Bob Taylor and Adolphe Menjou were literally mauled by a ripe tide of housewives who broke out of their seats in the caucus room to pummel the scented gentlemen.

I've covered a few trials in the past 15 years in this trade and the feeling grows stronger with each brush with justice that the fans in the marble bleachers should somehow be suppressed, or screened,or briefed on the majesty of the law and restraint of emotion.

If that's treason, so is the restriction on audiences at delicate surgical operations.

From close observation, the average woman who attends trials or hearings is the 20th Century version of harpies who followed the Tumbrils to the public square, and knitted during the clattering decent of the guillotine on perfumed necks

How these latter day crones, young and not so young, will ever catch up on the missing chapters of their radio soap serial remains a mystery.

But from the feverish look on their kissers one suspects that they are deriving such stimulation out of the tug-and-pull of jurisprudence that they will be willing to accept even second-handedly the absorbing outcome of John's third wife's other love

The men at trials and hearings are, on the whole, the kind of faceless bums one sees at daytime movies, excavations and in the knot of humans standing around the taxi accident.

At the Hughes thing, a daily habitue was one of the crummy crackpots named as defendants in the preposterous sedition trial. He took voluminous notes in his fine spencerian urdu.

Men, however, are in the minority in such gatherings. The women are the prime offenders, the chief violaters of a taste that is often badly needed in the case on the docket.

It is they who stand the long vigil in queues, fight for the seats up front, go the route, give to the processes of justice the flavor of over-the-back-fence traffic in gossip.

The ladies who pursued Taylor and Menjou down a congressional corridor, in search, apparently, of some gentle talisman of glamor—say, a ripped off shirt—were hardly concerned with the dire implications of the hearing.

That these gentlemen had had the courage and the industry to bestir themselves—in a time of peace—to sound an alarm against a clever and determined foe of all the things that made this a great country was secondary.

What mattered was that their faces are familiar in films and if they had been passing through Washington to pick up a package of seeds from their congressman they would have aroused the same demonstration.

The kernel of the Hughes hearing was a serious one. A son of a president was accused of and partially admitted accepting a series of parties from a company which won — over reponsible protests — war contracts originally totalling about one hundred million dollars.

But the audience seemed essentially concerned with whether any party girls retained by a fat man named Johnny Meyer would be produced, and it roared to a brand of humor which even Milton Berle might hesitate to lift.

At one stage of the debacle, the audience took charge of the show and even produced a spokesman; a mob demonstration which regrettably cowed the chairman, Sen. Ferguson.

Our congressional committees and our run-of-the-mine juries may occasionally leave something to be desired.

But if they sometimes make the brazen statue of justice glad that she is blindfolded they are paragons of dignity compared to most of those persons who have the leisure and inclination to become audiences.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Well, those industrious French workmen are whipping up the strikes that lost them everything that makes life worth taxing.

The word sabotage is from sabot. That means an old shoe usually made of wood. The good ones have knotholes for your corns.

Sabot also means the plate or shoe holding two connecting rails together. Over here we call it a frog. When you loosen that plate the rails spread and Casey Jones jumps the track in another language.

The French say the more a thing changes the more it is the same. And the more it is the same the less you recognize it.

Spring Meeting To Be In Frostburg

Officers of the Western Maryland Branch of the Presbyterial were elected and an invitation for the spring meeting accepted at the fall meeting yesterday at Barton Presbyterian Church, with Mrs. Chalmers H. Goshorn, Lonaconing, presiding.

Mrs. Boyd W. Hosier, city, was elected chairman and Miss Eleanor Cuthbertson, Lonaconing, secretary-treasurer. They will serve for a two-year term.

An invitation for the spring meeting was accepted from the Frostburg Church and is to be held some time in March, after the Baltimore Presbyterial.

The morning session was opened with devotionals by the ladies of the Frostburg church. The theme was "Forward in Faith." During the business session reports from all six societies of the branch were given. Mrs. Ellen Wilson gave the report from the Barton church; Mrs. Ralph Rephan, Frostburg; Mrs. Benjamin Evans, Lonaconing; Mrs. Collin Grahame, Moffatt Memorial; Mrs. Robert Campbell, Southminster; and Mrs. Knight Reynolds, First Church, city.

A report on the Presbyterial was given by Mrs. Hosier, on the Hood Synodical by Mrs. Albert Macy, and the board reports by Mrs. William A. Eisenberger.

Following a luncheon served by the host church group, a discussion on "Church Sacred Music" was given by Miss Dorothy Brown and Miss Jean Milford, Lonaconing. A workshop demonstration on visual education was given by Rev. C. H. Goshorn, Lonaconing, and plans outlined for the new curriculum by Mrs. Alvin Storey. It consisted of the line of material in the Presbyterian Sunday School throughout the church.

Mrs. T. L. Richards, Cumberland, spoke on the study work, "Literature for Christian Education" in the Presbyterian Church. The work of the Westminster Fellowship was reported by Miss Eleanor Cuthbertson, a delegate to the Grinell Conference in Iowa, this past summer. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Stanley Jewell, pastor of the host church.

Mrs. John Taylor was soloist for the day, accompanied by Miss Milford. During the devotionals she sang, "Just As I Am."

Elm Brought Here From Switzerland Is Cut Down

An Elm, brought from Switzerland approximately 78 years ago, which was cut down Wednesday night, was the first landmark to come down in preparation for the proposed new bus terminal at the Southern Hotel. Approximately a little over two feet in diameter, the tree with a limb spread of between 90 and 100 feet shaded three yards, and was in perfect condition.

According to family tradition, Mrs. William C. Thompson, 135 Bedford Street, said last night, that her father, John G. Hodel, brought the sapling from Basel, Switzerland, where he had been sent by his father, Nicholas Hodel, to learn how the Swiss make beer.

Nicholas Hodel, who was born on St. Nicholas day, in 1797 in Basel, Switzerland, and died on St. Nicholas day, 1861 in Cumberland, came here from Philadelphia, where his son, John, was born. Settling here Nicholas established the first brewery in Cumberland, and wishing his son to continue the business after his death sent the boy back to the old country to learn the trade.

Upon his return, four years later, John married Anna Korns, a decendant of one of the first 100 families to come to settle here in 1797, from Philadelphia. John and his wife bought the lots, now, 144-146 North Centre Street, from his uncle, John Hodel, and with bricks from the Henry Korns brick and lumber yard, built their home in 1869, about the same time the tree was planted. The house, which has withstood several floods is another land mark to be torn down within the next few days.

Rec Club To Mark Fourth Anniversary

The Rec Club of Central YMCA will mark its fourth anniversary with a "birthday party" tonight at the regular weekly dance in the YMCA gymnasium, according to Winfield H. Adam, program and boys' secretary.

Adam said that the Rec Club now numbers approximately 650 members, adding that renewals and new memberships are being received each week. Total membership last year was 1,251, and renewals are "running ahead of schedule," he declared.

Adam also announced that two members of the Tri-Hi-Y of Beall High School, Frostburg, will attend the semi-annual meeting in Hagerstown tomorrow of the District Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Conference.

The delegates will be Marion Davies, president, and Doris Wellings, a member of the Beall group. Clarence Moser, associate secretary at the Newark, N. J., headquarters of the Central Atlantic Area, YMCA, will be the principal speaker.

Community Chest

has not yet been completed, Fey said final directions for leaders and workers will be given, regarding campaign methods, and equipment for canvassing will be distributed.

He pointed out that the dinner meeting will mark the first occasion on which the entire campaign organization will be assembled, urging all leaders and workers to attend. Reservations should be made by noon on Monday.

Fey said that a strict time schedule will be maintained, and that Walsh will conclude his address at 8 p. m. Following brief remarks by Fey, the meeting will be adjourned.

Choir To Sing

The Colomy string ensemble will provide dinner music, and A. Florian Wilson will lead group singing. Several musical selections will be presented by members of the a cappella choir of Allegany High School.

Through the co-operation of the YMCA Ladies Auxiliary, dinner will be served at a cost of only 50 cents per person, Fey said.

The chairman announced that the first general report luncheon will be held Friday, October 31, at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m.

The second and third report luncheons will be held November 3 and November 5. A victory dinner will be held Thursday, November 6.

Rec Club To Mark Fourth Anniversary

The Rec Club of Central YMCA will mark its fourth anniversary with a "birthday party" tonight at the regular weekly dance in the YMCA gymnasium, according to Winfield H. Adam, program and boys' secretary.

Adam said that the Rec Club now numbers approximately 650 members, adding that renewals and new memberships are being received each week. Total membership last year was 1,251, and renewals are "running ahead of schedule," he declared.

Adam also announced that two members of the Tri-Hi-Y of Beall High School, Frostburg, will attend the semi-annual meeting in Hagerstown tomorrow of the District Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Conference.

The delegates will be Marion Davies, president, and Doris Wellings, a member of the Beall group. Clarence Moser, associate secretary at the Newark, N. J., headquarters of the Central Atlantic Area, YMCA, will be the principal speaker.

Community Chest

has not yet been completed, Fey said final directions for leaders and workers will be given, regarding campaign methods, and equipment for canvassing will be distributed.

He pointed out that the dinner meeting will mark the first occasion on which the entire campaign organization will be assembled, urging all leaders and workers to attend. Reservations should be made by noon on Monday.

Fey said that a strict time schedule will be maintained, and that Walsh will conclude his address at 8 p. m. Following brief remarks by Fey, the meeting will be adjourned.

Choir To Sing

The Colomy string ensemble will provide dinner music, and A. Florian Wilson will lead group singing. Several musical selections will be presented by members of the a cappella choir of Allegany High School.

Through the co-operation of the YMCA Ladies Auxiliary, dinner will be served at a cost of only 50 cents per person, Fey said.

The chairman announced that the first general report luncheon will be held Friday, October 31, at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m.

The second and third report luncheons will be held November 3 and November 5. A victory dinner will be held Thursday, November 6.

Mr., Mrs. Frank Ruppert To Mark 49th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ruppert, Rocky Gap, Union Grove Road, will celebrate their 49th wedding anniversary and the former's 73rd birthday Sunday.

It will be held in the form of a family party with all the children and grandchildren attending, and will be a covered dish dinner at their home.

The former Miss Lillie M. Aberle, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Aberle, became the bride of Frank Ruppert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ruppert, both pioneer families of the Union Grove section, October 25, 1898. The ceremony was solemnized in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruppert are the parents of seven children, Mrs. Herman Curry, William F. Ruppert, Mrs. Earl F. Bittinger, James H. Ruppert, Charles E. Ruppert, Mrs. John Wiley and Leo J. Ruppert. They have 17 grandchildren.

Mr. Ruppert still does his farm work and she her housework. Both are active but live quietly at home.

Scottish Rite-DeMolay To Have Unusual Program

An unusual program by George Bailey will feature the entertainment at the Cumberland Consistory Scottish Rite-DeMolay dinner November 12 to be held at Ali Ghan Shrine County Club.

Not only does George Bailey baffle the onlookers with his mysteries of magic, but he also displays a rare talent of remembering names. Hours after being introduced to as many as one hundred persons, Bailey will name them all, regardless of how the crowd has become mixed. To make the program more interesting he will pay $5 to every person whose name he fails to remember. In addition to this extraordinary ability he is an able musician, playing violin and harmonica simultaneously, as well as his rendering familiar tunes playing them on ordinary water goblets partially filled with water.

Family Party To Be Held Sunday

Mt. Tabor WSCS To Sponsor Fantasy, Community Party

The WSCS of Mt. Tabor Methodist Church held a devotional in observance of the "Week of Prayer and Self Denial" and formulated plans for concluding the observance with a play Sunday, at a meeting Tuesday night at the Community Centre, Spring Gap.

Mrs. Walter Taschenberger directed the devotional with the entire group participating. Mrs. Merle Reckley presided. The play on Sunday will be given by a cast of 30 adults and young people of the Mt. Tabor Church. It is being given to interpret the spirit and purpose of Scarritt College and National College, the two Methodist colleges for missionary and church workers. It will be given at 7 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Minnie Daniels.

During the business session a party was planned for all the young people of the community, on October 30, beginning at 7:30, and will be in the community center, under the sponsorship of the WSCS. There will be prizes for the entertainment and costume prizes for both children and adults, based on the prettiest, ugliest and most original in each group. There will be games and refreshments. Mrs. Daniels will serve as chairman of arrangements with Mrs. Gilbert Miller and Mrs. Earl Twigg assisting.

The study of the book, "Great Prayers of the Bible," was begun by Rev. T. E. Richardson. It will be continued at each meeting.

A social hour concluded the meeting and refreshments were served by Mrs. C. A. Irons and Mrs. Earl Twigg. The fall theme was carried out in the decorations of fruits and vegetables arranged in the center of the table. Covers were laid for 22 members.

Good Fellowship Club To Give Dance Tuesday

The Good Fellowship Club will celebrate its tenth anniversary with a semi-formal cabaret style dance Tuesday night at Crystal Park. Music from 9 until 1 will be by the Society Ramblers alternating with the Hammond organ. Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hare will lead the grand march beginning at 10.

T. C. Fuller is general chairman assisted by L. F. Scheurling, C. W. Conway, C. F. Hare, R. J. Collins, J. R. Beck, Grayson Lucas, T. D. Estes, C. H. Cook, Lee Silcox, Harvey Cook, C. O. Turner and Robert Vandergrift.

Never Buy A Hat Sitting Down!

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

This year, of all years, your hat must be the crowning note of a full-length portrait says Lilly Dache, milliner to the great and the near-great.

Her hats this fall are dramatic, accenting the profile, many swooping forward in a dramatic line. The hats fit the head, staying on without benefit of elastic bands or hatpins. Many are in rich velvets and draped satins, loaded with French flowers—a trimming unusual in a fall collection.

For "bread-and-butter" hats, Mme. Dache shows berets in all shapes and sizes, usually with a one-sided slant. Her daytime hats are small, tailored and smart in an understated way. But for cocktail and evening wear, the designer shoots the works on elaborate trimmings, gold veils, passementerie and feathers.

The hats look just a little old-fashioned, in the 1947 way.

Ministers' Wives Elect

Mrs. B. Ralph Mark was elected president of the Cumberland Subdistrict Ministers' Wives Association at the meeting earlier in the week at Cresaptown Church. A talk was given on the training school being held at Centre Street Church and the district conference to be held at Trinity Church November 4.

Taking part in the program were Mrs. Mark, Mrs. W. F. Wright, Mrs. Louis P. Chastain, Mrs. R. H. Bready and Mrs. Carroll Maddox. An exhibit of hand made dolls in foreign costumes was shown and plans formulated for a meeting November 24 at Paw Paw.

Honored On Birthday

A group of friends entertained in honor of Harold Bloom in celebration of his birthday earlier in the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boston Sherwood, MacDonald Terrace.

Dancing as well as birthday recordings, made by the guests, featured the evening. Refreshments were served and Mr. Bloom received a large decorated birthday cake.

Other guests attending were Mrs. Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel D'Amicol, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keech, Lewis Ort, Mrs. Pearl Wallizer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles George, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Whitehair, Mrs. Blair Welsh, William Newberry, Mrs. Myrtle Wilmont, Miss Francis Shoeberger and Lee Welsh.

To Attend District Board Meeting Of Federation

Mrs. Thomas Lohr Richards, vice president of the First District, Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Arthur C. Bright, president of the Woman's Civic Club of Cumberland, will attend the semi-annual meeting of the Hagerstown. Mrs. Calvin E. Schildknecht, Frederick, will call the board today in Hotel Alexander, meeting to order at 10:30.

Guest speakers will be Mrs. Roy D. Whitlock, Baltimore, state president; and Mrs. Harry T. Cottman, Baltimore, chairman of Public Welfare. Mrs. Whitlock will stress community work done by members of the federation, particularly Public Welfare.

Reports will be given from clubs in Hampstead, Oakland, Westminster, Frederick, Cumberland, Sykesville, Westernport and Luke, and the Golden Jubilee Club, which is listed in the first district this year.

Elizabeth Fink Fined $250 In Delinquency Case

Son Is Placed In Institution

By MRS. JOSEPH H. TAYLOR

KEYSER, W. Va.—Judge Ernest A. See heard several delinquency cases yesterday in Mineral County Circuit Court here.

Elizabeth Fink was fined $250, given a suspended jail sentence of six months and paroled for three years after pleading guilty to charges of contributing to the delinquency of her 9-year-old son. The state charged she abandoned the child and left him without proper food or care. The boy is now in a Huntington institution.

A 15-year-old Elk District girl was sentenced to the West Virginia Industrial School for Girls at Salem until she reaches the age of 21.

It was the girl's third appearance before Judge See. She had been picked up on two previous occasions and taken before the court on charges that she was riding coal trucks and absenting herself from home for long periods of time. She had been kept in jail for three months on another occasion "while the Department of Public Assistance kept after me to let you out, saying you had reformed," Judge See said. He added, "It appears you haven't reformed."

William T. Hott and Thomas Shumaker, Jr., were each fined $100 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail for contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl. The jail sentences were suspended and the youths paroled for three years. They were given 60 days in which to pay the fines.

Engagement Announced

Rev. and Mrs. John A. Wood, Seaview, Va., former local residents, announce the engagement of their daughter, Emma Lynn, to Chauncey Harlow Hoskins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey P. Hoskins, Auburn, N. Y.

Miss Wood is a graduate of Queens College, Charlotte, N. C., and for the past two years has been an assistant buyer at the Hecht Company in Washington.

Mr. Hoskins attended the Auburn Business School. During the war he was in the Army Medical Corps and spent two years in the European Theater. He is now with the War Department in Washington.

The wedding will take place December 22 at Holmes Presbyterian Church, Bayview, Va.

Rev. Mr. Wood served as pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Keyser for a number of years.

Struck By Car

Ernest Ours, Petersburg, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, after suffering lacerations and contusions when he was struck by an automobile at Burlington Wednesday afternoon. Police identified the driver as C. E. Jones, Miamisburg, O.

According to witnesses, Ours started to cross Route 50 in Burlington. After walking several feet onto the highway, he turned and started back and walked into the path of the car. State Trooper Frank Bowley, who investigated, said no charges would be placed against Jones.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton C. Taylor and two daughters, Nancy and Judy, Cleveland, O., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Taylor, Halde Street.

Mrs. James Clise and infant daughter have returned to their home from Potomac Valley Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sheetz have left for Burlington, N. C., where they will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Doll have returned to their home in Baltimore, Md., after visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Doll. They were accompanied home by Mrs. R. W. Doll and granddaughter, who will visit for several days.

Robert W. Rice Gets Suspended Sentence

Charged with violating state dentistry laws, Robert W. Rice, this city, received a suspended sentence of six months in the county jail and was placed under a three-year parole.

Associate Judge George Henderson warned Rice to refrain from any further violations of the dentistry laws and "not skirt around the edges of the dental profession."

Bonus Is Opposed By Southern Loop

Would Permit Players To Get Up To $6,000

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25 (AP)—Southern Assocciation directors moved today to eliminate baseball's present bonus rule and to remove "any bonus tag from players who have it."

The action was taken in a resolution unanimously adopted at the annual directors' meeting.

President Charles Hurth, who made the announcement, said the recommendation will be presented as an announcement at the minor league meeting at Miami in December.

"If we succeed in repealing present bonus rule" Hurth explained, "we would revert to the old system, which allowed clubs to pay a player any amount they wanted without having him designated as a bonus player.

"The present bonus rule has only been effective since Feb. 15."

In the event that the Southern League recommendation is defeated, Hurth said, a second amendment would be offered, permitting clubs to pay up to $6,000, the major league ceiling, before a player becomes a bonus player.

"Our present top is $3,000," Hurth said. "This is a sliding scale, going as low as $300—salary and bonus—for players in Class 'D' leagues."

Psychiatric Test Is Asked For McCauley

Petitions are being circulated calling for the examination of Mark McCauley, convicted murderer, by an expert psychiatrist, according to McCauley's sister, Mrs. Blanche Hunt, Philadelphia.

McCauley, a former Davis, W. Va., strip miner, is scheduled to be hanged at Moundsville, W. Va., on December 10 for the fatal shooting of Sgt. Joseph Horne, West Virginia state trooper.

Bednarik To Play

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23 (AP)—Big Chuck Bednarik, University of Pennsylvania's star center, will be able to play against Navy Saturday.

That was the good news received by Coach George Munger from team physician, Dr. J. W. Welte, as the Red and Blue drilled on several new trick plays. Bednarik, who was kicked in the back in last Saturday's game with Columbia, went through a light workout today.

Elizabeth Fink Fined $250 In Delinquency Case

Son Is Placed In Institution

By MRS. JOSEPH H. TAYLOR

KEYSER, W. Va.—Judge Ernest A. See heard several delinquency cases yesterday in Mineral County Circuit Court here.

Elizabeth Fink was fined $250, given a suspended jail sentence of six months and paroled for three years after pleading guilty to charges of contributing to the delinquency of her 9-year-old son. The state charged she abandoned the child and left him without proper food or care. The boy is now in a Huntington institution.

A 15-year-old Elk District girl was sentenced to the West Virginia Industrial School for Girls at Salem until she reaches the age of 21.

It was the girl's third appearance before Judge See. She had been picked up on two previous occasions and taken before the court on charges that she was riding coal trucks and absenting herself from home for long periods of time. She had been kept in jail for three months on another occasion "while the Department of Public Assistance kept after me to let you out, saying you had reformed," Judge See said. He added, "It appears you haven't reformed."

William T. Hott and Thomas Shumaker, Jr., were each fined $100 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail for contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl. The jail sentences were suspended and the youths paroled for three years. They were given 60 days in which to pay the fines.

Engagement Announced

Rev. and Mrs. John A. Wood, Seaview, Va., former local residents, announce the engagement of their daughter, Emma Lynn, to Chauncey Harlow Hoskins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey P. Hoskins, Auburn, N. Y.

Miss Wood is a graduate of Queens College, Charlotte, N. C., and for the past two years has been an assistant buyer at the Hecht Company in Washington.

Mr. Hoskins attended the Auburn Business School. During the war he was in the Army Medical Corps and spent two years in the European Theater. He is now with the War Department in Washington.

The wedding will take place December 22 at Holmes Presbyterian Church, Bayview, Va.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Jackson grinned as he saw the pink neon sign of the U-Like-It Diner. That's where it had begun two short months ago. The vaudevillian had ordered a cup of coffee. So had the dark-haired girl on the stool next to his. The Greek counterman had assumed they were together and yelled, "Two kids coffee for couple cute cups."

Billy Rose

The girl—Sheilah was her name—had giggled at the tongue-twister, and the boy had laughed with her. They had walked out of the diner together. A month later, they had brought the counterman a piece of wedding cake. The sentimental Greek had chuckled and told them, "This time it's on the house. Two kids coffee for couple cute cups."

Tonight the marriage was a month old. As Bill walked past the diner, Nick stuck his head out of an open window. "Where's the missus?" he shouted. "We got nesselrode pie tonight."

"File it for future reference," the vaudevillian cracked. "Me and Sheilah are celebratin' tonight."

As he climbed the stairs to their two-room flat, Billy felt his handkerchief pocket to make sure the theatre tickets were still there. He opened the door a few inches, stuck his arm through, and waved the green pasteboards. "Hey, honey," he shouted. "Look what the man's got."

Sheilah pulled the door open and gave him the large-sized newlywed hug. Then she asked, "Those tickets aren't for tonight, are they?"

The vaudevillian took it big. "For tonight and down front," he announced. "'Annie Get Your Gun.' We've only got forty-five minutes. Shake those lovely legs, baby. We can grab a sandwich on the way over."

The hoofer felt pretty good. A pair for "Annie" was big stuff for a guy who hadn't had a booking in a couple of months. He waited for Sheilah to get excited. But Sheilah didn't. "What gives?" he asked anxiously. "This is our anniversary. You're supposed to be happy, Mrs. Jackson."

Sheilah walked him into the kitchen. The drop-leaf table had been pulled away from the wall. On it was the lace tablecloth the girls in her office had given her for a wedding present. A pair of Mexican tin candlesticks were in place.

"I planned for us to celebrate home tonight," said Sheilah. "Let's see 'Annie' some other time. It's my first roast."

The vaudevillian felt as if somebody had dropped ice cubes down his back. The tickets to "Annie" represented a lot of cigarettes he hadn't smoked. Suddenly a lot of stinging little words were flying around the flat.

"If you feel that way about it," the hoofer finally snapped, "I'll go to the show myself. I can put my hat on the other seat."

"Have a good time," Sheilah hollered after him. "I'll eat the roast."

As he walked over to 45th Street, Billy reviewed the arguments in his favor and decided he had a good case. By the time the curtain went up on "Annie," he was certain Sheilah was out of line. For the first half hour, the hoofer kept his mind on the stage. But when Ethel Merman sang "Falling In Love Is Wonder," with that funny catch in her voice, he found himself thinking of Sheilah and the tin candlesticks. "Poor kid," he said to himself. "Alone in the flat, nibbling on that roast."

As the show went on, he kept looking at the empty seat next to him. Just before the end of the first act, Billy got up and left the theatre. He walked up Eight Avenue and turned west to the flat. Sheilah wasn't there. The lace tablecloth and the sandlesticks were still on the table. He opened the oven. The roast hadn't been touched. He walked into the bedroom. The spread was mussed as if someone had been lying face down on it. The vaudevillian took off his jacket and then put it back on again. He knew he couldn't spend the night in the flat without Sheilah.

Out on the street, he walked toward Ninth Avenue. As he turned a corner, he saw the pink neon of the U-Like-It Diner.

He walked in and sat down. The counterman grinned when he saw him. "Two kids coffee . . ." he began.

Nick paid no attention. "Two kids coffee for couple cute cups," he called out.

The vaudevillian started to get up. The counterman motioned with his thumb toward the door. Sheilah was coming in.

Billy jumped up to meet her. "Baby," he beamed, "I went home to find you. I thought you had . . ."

Sheilah was doing a good job of not crying. "And I went to the theatre to find you. I was afraid you had . . ."

Nick shoved the two mugs of coffee in front of them. "What I tell you?" he said to the vaudevillian. "Two kids coffee for couple cute cups."

Halloween Dinner Party

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

If you're going to give a Halloween party, don't strain every nerve to make all the food in Halloween colors. This is a fallacy too often practiced by party-giving food planners, and frequently results in an unbalanced (and even unappetizing) meal.

Let your gay decorations do most of the carrying of the Halloween spirit, bringing in the orange and black colors where they come naturally in the food. A Jack-o-Lantern in the center of the table and paper napkins carrying the same motif will do the trick. Then here's a dinner menu which is good and not too expensive, even in these times.

Halloween Dinner Menu

Pumpkin Soup
Meat Loaf with Herbs
Scalloped Potatoes
Quick-Frozen Peas
Frosted Cocoa Ring with
Orange Spanish Cream

Frosted Cocoa Ring

⅔ cup butter or vitaminized margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups sifted flour
6 tablespoons cocoa
2½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup milk

Cream butter or margarine with one half cup sugar. Add egg yolks and vanilla and beat thoroughly. Sift flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Beat egg whites until stiff, add remaining sugar gradually while beating. Fold into batter. Pour into a greased nine-inch ring mold and bake in moderate oven (350°) 25-30 mins. Remove from oven, let stand several mins., loosen with small knife and turn out on rack to cool. Prepare chocolate frosting and pour over cooled ring.

FROSTED COCOA RING . . . For a Jack-O-Lantern party.

Shiny Chocolate Frosting

2 tablespoons butter or vitaminized margarine
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ tablespoons boiling water

Melt butter or margarine with chocolate. Add salt, confectioners sugar and vanilla. Stir very well. When add boiling water and stir until smooth. Pour over cooled cake—spread quickly over top and sides, if desired. The frosting is very effective if it is just poured on top and allowed to run crookedly over the sides, however.

Orange Spanish Cream

2 tablespoons gelatine
2 cups milk
½ cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Soften gelatine in milk 5 mins. Heat in top of double boiler. When gelatine is dissolved add sugar. Pour hot mixture slowly over slightly beaten egg yolks. Return to double boiler and cook about five mins., stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add salt, grated rinds, orange and lemon juices. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Chill in bowl until firm. Place large spoonfuls in center of Frosted Cocoa Ring. Serve immediately.

Parboiling Beans

When parboiling dried beans before baking, add ½ teaspoon of baking soda to each two cups of soaked beans. This makes the beans tender in a shorter time, and sweeter in flavor when baked. All dried beans, lima, kidney, navy or soy beans, also dried peas, have a good flavor if boiled with baking soda.

Oil mills of the cotton belt have facilities to produce more than twice as much stock feed, oil and linters as can be obtained from the present supply of cottonseed.

Solace To Soles

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The little soles of California will have a better chance after Jan. 1, 1948.

On that date a new California law takes effect, making it illegal to use a trawl net with a mesh smaller than five inches.

Idea is to let small soles and other flatfish slip through and have a chance to spawn at least once before they grow big enough to be caught.

Halloween Place Mats

Place 12" round lace paper doilies or 8" x 12" oblongs at each place. Cut out silhouettes of cats, spiders and witches from black paper and paste on doilies. If oblong mats are used, paste silhouettes in each of the 4 corners.

Offer Of Soviet Wheat To Italy Is Seen In Cards

U. S. Aid In Shipping Grain May Be Asked

ROME, Oct. 23. (AP)—Diplomatic observers said today they believed a carefully timed Russian offer of wheat is in the cards for Italy—whose stocks of bread grains seem sure to run out before the national elections next spring.

The informants added that if the U.S.S.R. makes the offer, the United States probably will be asked to furnish the ships to help transport it. Washington is expected to agree, they continued, "even thought the United States, from the publicity point of view, got the short end of the stick in its undertaking to help haul 400,000 tons of Soviet grain to France in the spring of 1946.

Italy's Situation Grim

The affirmative answer is expected because Italy's grain situation is grim. The Italian city dweller's diet now provides him with 1,967 calories daily, compared with the prewar average of 2,637, and some American observers feel that a reduction of the bread ration might be more dangerous to American policy in Italy than any election propaganda Italian Communists could make of Russian wheat shipments.

Best available statistics indicate Italy needs 4,200,000 to 4,300,000 metric tons of wheat or wheat equivalents in the 1947-48 crop year to supply her 33,700,000 non-agricultural consumers the 235 grams (8.29 ounces) of bread daily and the one kilogram (2.204 pounds) of macaroni monthly which the present ration provides. Farm-dwelling consumers are expected to make out from their own resources.

Italy Looks To Argentina

Of that amount the government's compulsory collecting system is expected to amass only 1,800,000 to 1,900,000 tons because of the short crop. Thus about 2,400,000 tons remains to come from abroad.

Italians look hopefully to Argentina, which recently contracted to send Italy 700,000 tons of wheat, but the experts say they do not believe more than half of this tonnage can be delivered before the next Italian harvest because of the shipping shortage and the different crop year in the Southern Hemisphere—and that that half is already included in their "other resources" column.

Slight Hike In '48 Car Prices Is Seen

DETROIT, Oct. 23 (AP)—Prices on 1948 passenger car models will be not more than five per cent higher than present prices, C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corporation, estimated tonight.

Answering questions of managing editors of Associated Press newspapers in session here, the General Motors president said "I think the price range will be from no increases to five per cent."

He said increasing trends in production costs were factors in this estimate.

In answer to other questions Wilson said he believed the industry in the United States and Canada this year would produce 1,400,000 trucks and 3,600,000 passenger cars.

The industry's highest year was in 1929 when it produced slightly more than 5,300,000 units.

Asked how long it will take for production to catch up with demand, Wilson said:

"If we could suddenly make 4,000,000 cars, we could get close to a normal replacement situation."

"I think it will be two or three years yet before we have worked out the pent-up demand created during the war," he said.

Taft Is Expected To Enter GOP Race

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23 (INS)—A source close to Sen. Robert A. Taft said today the Ohio Senator will declare himself tomorrow as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Taft is expected to make the declaration in a letter to Ohio Republican Chairman Fred H. Johnson.

Ohio's senior Senator is expected in the letter to do more than give the Ohio Republican machine permission to use his name as a "favorite son" candidate, as required by Ohio law.

Actually, it is predicted, Taft will declare himself as "an out-an-out candidate who is not just taking Ohio's 53 delegates to the Philadelphia convention to trade with."

An announcement is expected from Washington or Columbus within a few days naming Congressman Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, O., publisher, as Taft's campaign manager.

Taft backers predict the Ohioan will have more first-ballot strength at next June's convention than New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the 1944 presidential nominee.

They are claiming a minimum of 250 votes on the first ballot, including Ohio's 53 and about 150 from the southern states.

Proxy Bride Is Told She Must Leave U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—An Immigration Service board ruled today that Mrs. Eileen Frances Green Hagen, attractive English proxy bride of Barney Hagen, Billings, Mont., contractor, must leave the United States but she at once appealed to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization in Philadelphia.

The hearing for the red-haired 21-year-old girl was closed. A board spokesman said the exclusion order was issued on the ground Mrs. Hagen did not have a valid immigration visa. She was returned to Ellis Island pending her appeal.

Immigration officials had indicated yesterday that Mrs. Hagen's entry would be approved as soon as the contractor produced proof of a previous divorce.

Britain Plans To Quit Palestine By March, 1949

LONDON, Oct. 23. (AP)—An authoritative source said today that Britain was planning to withdraw her troops and administration from Palestine by March, 1949, "at the very latest", unless a United Nations decision agreeable to both Jew and Arab is forthcoming.

Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British High Commissioner in the Holy Land, another informant said, was making a village-by-village tour to make this determination clear to both Arab and Jew in the hope they would "get together" and avoid confusion when Britain withdraws.

The authoritative source said the British plans would not "prejudice" the pledge given the United Nations that Britain would be ready to play a part in implementing any plan acceptable to both Jews and Arabs.

Deer "Invades" City, Collides With Auto

ORANGEBURG, S. C., Oct. 23 (AP)—An eight-point buck deer raced through the main street of Orangeburg today, collided with an automobile drvien by a woman, and was caught when it became wedged between a fence and a tree.

The animal, injured in the auto collision, had to be killed. It had been driven from nearby Edisto swamp by a shotgun blast fired by a squirrel hunder.

About 100 persons joined in the chase.

Coffee And Canned Milk Prices Rise In Maryland; Meat, Eggs About Same

[By The Associated Press]

The prices of coffee, canned milk, soap powder and shortening have jumped during the last 10 days, but meat and egg prices have remained just about the same, a survey of grocers throughout Maryland showed Thursday.

Some meat dealers said they believed their products may go down a penny or two a pound next week, but others could forsee no drop whatsoever in the near future.

Various grocers said other staple items were rising in price and that as soon as they purchased new wholesale lots they would have to raise prices on canned goods and similar products.

Name-brand coffees were reported up one to three cents a pound, with additional increases expected next week, and canned milk went up by one to two cents a can.

The price of bread in many areas jumped a penny a loaf, and dealers reported soap powder will increase from two to three cents a package on Monday. Shortening and lard prices have increased anywhere from one to five cents a pound, in many instances.

Baltimore prices, as a general rule, were slightly higher than those of other communities.

Price ranges reported in various cities:

Cumberland: Butter, 73 to 89 cents; grade A eggs, 73 to 79 cents; round steak, 77 to 98 cents; bacon, 91 to 95 cents; the same brand of coffee, 51 to 55 cents.

Salisbury: Butter, 76 to 85; eggs, 80 to 81 cents; round steak, 65 to 79 cents; bacon, 91 to 95 cents (prices on these commodities all showed a drop).

"Warmongering"

"In your country, do you want the type of man that Mr. Justice Byrnes represents and that John Foster Dulles represents gagged? Or do you want them free to speak up and warn of danger when it appears to them?"

Neither Vishinsky nor Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, United States delegate who was reported authoritatively to have joined in urging the firm line spoken by Austin, was in the committee room.

A source close to the American delegation said the United States originally planned to avoid harsh words but in final consultations the delegation decided it was time to be firmer with Russia on this score.

Bar Harbor

Hundreds of refugees were taken from the town pier in fishing boats, pleasure craft and coast guard boats.

The officer of the day at the Southwest Harbor Coast Guard base said he understood dynamiting had saved most of the business section after the flames had swept about a third of the community of 4,300 inhabitants.

Four hundred seaborne evacuees reached Gouldsboro, on the eastern shore of Frenchman's Bay, in small Coast Guard craft.

The fishing schooner Ida May took another 40 into Southwest Harbor, on the seaward side of the island.

The officer of the day said that some of about 40 refugees arriving at Southwest Harbor were suffering from shock. A few had to be hospitalized.

Wind Shift Helps

Northeast Harbor, another island community, later appealed for small craft, the Coast Guard reported, saying a water evacuation might be necessary there. Several craft were sent there.

Almost all of the 1,500 personnel at Dow Field, Air Force fighter base at Bangor, joined in rescue work, taking many refugees to Ellsworth in motor convoys.

Some of the nation's wealthiest families, including the Rockefellers and Fords, have estates on Mt. Desert Island, but there was no word concerning their status.

Meanwhile a fleet of 10 large Navy and Coast Guard craft sped toward the island. The first craft — the cutters Laurel and Snohomish—were due at midnight.

Word of the evacuation came from Gov. Horace A. Hildreth, who talked with a telephone operator on the single emergency line into the area.

Even as the fishermen's small craft began carrying evacuees across the bay, Coast Guard boats, a Navy destroyer escort and other boats of every description were on their way from a dozen New England ports.

Principal Hotels Destroyed

The Governor quoted the operator as saying that the flames had reached the business district of the town and that the principal resort hotels—the Malvern and Belmont—were gone.

Details of the situation at the little resort town were sparse. Shortly before all phone circuits went out about 6 o'clock, a police officer called the Coast Guard at Rockland.

The policeman said that the town faced destruction by fire before morning unless the winds abated. He told of the people fleeing to the docks. He appealed for all the help from the ocean that could be sent.

Within minutes, Coast Guard craft were headed for Bar Harbor.

Small picket boats and motor lifeboats were sent from surf stations. Larger buoy tenders and inshore craft were sent from Rockland. Ocean-going cutters started north from Boston.

The Navy ordered available vessels alerted in port as far south as Newport, R. I. A Navy destroyer escort was sent out of Boston, while officers asked commercial radio stations to send out calls for crewmen to report back to their ships.

Many New England communities were being evacuated tonight as more than 200 forest fires swept the area, but none were in as immediately serious a situation as Bar Harbor.

Shifting, increasing or decreasing winds constantly changed the seriousness of the threats in many spots.

At least three persons were dead and property damage mounted into the millions as the wind-whipped flames spread with no relief in sight on this 23rd day of a dry spell.

Attorney In ITU Raps Labor Board

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23 (AP)—Henry Kaiser, attorney for the International Typgraphical Union, accused the National Labor Relations Board today of a "disgdaceful exhibition" in its procedure against the union.

He added that the agency's procedure was a "reflection" on the manner of its investigation of the unfair labor practices charge it leveled pointly with the Graphic Arts League of Baltimore against the ITU and its city local.

"I think the public ought to know how Taft-Hartley is being administered," the attorney shouted. The current hearing is the first such under the new Taft-Hartley labor act.

Kaiser voiced his protest when Sidney Barban, attorney for the NLRB, requested that the hearing be adjourned until tomorrow to give him time for the preparation of documents to be stipulated—submitted in evidence, that is, by agreement of both parties.

"I think the record should show," Kaiser replied to this, his voice rising, "that the board, over repeated requests by the respondent, to permit the officers of the ITU to remain in the prime duty at the AFL convention, said 'no, no, no—let's go ahead.'

"I think it is a disgraceful exhibition that the board still has not got its figures ready now, when we've been waiting 48 hours for it and have been exposed all day to stalling tactics to prevent this kind of embarrassment."

Barban countered he had the figures—designed to show that the 22 print shops composing the league engage in interstate commerce and thus fall under NLRB jurisdiction in the dispute — but merely needed time to frame them in a form suitable to Kaiser.

West Virginia Charter Plane Service Expanded

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—Charter airplane service for passengers and property was authorized in three more sections of the state today, bringing to an even dozen the number of firms licensed by the Public Service Commission for that purpose.

Certificates were issued to the Martinsburg Flying Service, to operate from the Martinsburg Municipal Airport; Aircraft Sales Corporation, to operate from Clark Field at Winfield, Putnam County; and Oak Hill Airport, Inc., to operate from that Fayette County community.

Erstwhile Gang Boss Ambushed, Slain In Illinois

Men In Passing Car Kill Carl Shelton

FAIRFIELD, Ill., Oct. 23 (AP) — Carl Shelton, once one of Illinois' most notorious mobsters, was ambushed and slain in gangland style today near his Wayne County farm where he had been living the life of a country squire.

The handsome six-foot-two-inch erstwhile boss of the Shelton gang was riddled by 16 machine-gun bullets fired from a passing automobile as he droves his jeep along a country road near this Southern Illinois town where he had assumed the role of "a wealthy, successful farmer and business man" with a fancy for fine clothes.

State Police Lt. Ben C. Blades said the former gang leader, whose feuding with a mob headed by Charlie Birger was held responsible for at least a score of deaths in the middle and late '20s, was slain by several men who opened fire as their auto passed Shelton's jeep.

Shelton apparently was able to return fire before he rolled mortally wounded into a roadside ditch. A revolver from which five shots had been fired was found near his body.

"I wouldn't want to hazard a guess as to the motive for this shooting right now," said Blades.

Cooper and Montgomery

"I have heard these people referred to as the lunatic fringe," he said slowly. "I agree with that definition. But I don't think any of them would be foolish enough to try to inject any of it into any picture I am directing x x x.

"I gave up my job, like millions of others to fight against the totalitarianism of Fascism. I am quite willing to give it up again to fight against a totalitarian called Communism."

A thunder of applause came from the onlookers as the former World War II navel officer bit out the words.

Reagan Gets Big Hand

And Reagan got as big a hand when he climaxed his appearance with this speech:

"I abhor the Communist philosophy. More than that, I detest their tactics, which are the tactics of a fifth column.

"However, as a citizen, I hope that we never are prompted by fear or resentment of Communism into compromising any of our democratic principles in order to fight it."

Cooper, the tall, lean portrayer of he-man roles, told the committee he could "never take this pinko mouthing very seriously because it is not on the level."

But, he said, Communists have infiltrated Hollywood and operated mostly "by word of mouth" and through "social gatherings."

"I've heard people say we would have a more efficient government without Congress," Cooper remarked dead-pan.

As spectators guffawed at that, the 46-year-old actor laid a finger alongside his nose and said he considered such statements "very un-American." His stint on the witness stand lasted only 10 minutes before Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) adjourned the hearing until tomorrow.

Actress Virginia Field Would Divorce Composer

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23 (AP)—Virginia Field, British-born film actress, charged extreme cruelty today in suing for divorce from Howard Grode, composer.

The complaint said they were married in Santa Barbara last April 5, and separated three months later. Miss Field made no demand for alimony.

U. S. Aid In Shipping Grain May Be Asked

ROME, Oct. 23. (AP)—Diplomatic observers said today they believed a carefully timed Russian offer of wheat is in the cards for Italy—whose stocks of bread grains seem sure to run out before the national elections next spring.

The informants added that if the U.S.S.R. makes the offer, the United States probably will be asked to furnish the ships to help transport it. Washington is expected to agree, they continued, "even thought the United States, from the publicity point of view, got the short end of the stick in its undertaking to help haul 400,000 tons of Soviet grain to France in the spring of 1946.

Italy's Situation Grim

The affirmative answer is expected because Italy's grain situation is grim. The Italian city dweller's diet now provides him with 1,967 calories daily, compared with the prewar average of 2,637, and some American observers feel that a reduction of the bread ration might be more dangerous to American policy in Italy than any election propaganda Italian Communists could make of Russian wheat shipments.

Best available statistics indicate Italy needs 4,200,000 to 4,300,000 metric tons of wheat or wheat equivalents in the 1947-48 crop year to supply her 33,700,000 non-agricultural consumers the 235 grams (8.29 ounces) of bread daily and the one kilogram (2.204 pounds) of macaroni monthly which the present ration provides. Farm-dwelling consumers are expected to make out from their own resources.

Italy Looks To Argentina

Of that amount the government's compulsory collecting system is expected to amass only 1,800,000 to 1,900,000 tons because of the short crop. Thus about 2,400,000 tons remains to come from abroad.

Italians look hopefully to Argentina, which recently contracted to send Italy 700,000 tons of wheat, but the experts say they do not believe more than half of this tonnage can be delivered before the next Italian harvest because of the shipping shortage and the different crop year in the Southern Hemisphere—and that that half is already included in their "other resources" column.

Slight Hike In '48 Car Prices Is Seen

DETROIT, Oct. 23 (AP)—Prices on 1948 passenger car models will be not more than five per cent higher than present prices, C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corporation, estimated tonight.

Answering questions of managing editors of Associated Press newspapers in session here, the General Motors president said "I think the price range will be from no increases to five per cent."

He said increasing trends in production costs were factors in this estimate.

In answer to other questions Wilson said he believed the industry in the United States and Canada this year would produce 1,400,000 trucks and 3,600,000 passenger cars.

The industry's highest year was in 1929 when it produced slightly more than 5,300,000 units.

Asked how long it will take for production to catch up with demand, Wilson said:

"If we could suddenly make 4,000,000 cars, we could get close to a normal replacement situation."

"I think it will be two or three years yet before we have worked out the pent-up demand created during the war," he said.

Taft Is Expected To Enter GOP Race

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23 (INS)—A source close to Sen. Robert A. Taft said today the Ohio Senator will declare himself tomorrow as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Taft is expected to make the declaration in a letter to Ohio Republican Chairman Fred H. Johnson.

Ohio's senior Senator is expected in the letter to do more than give the Ohio Republican machine permission to use his name as a "favorite son" candidate, as required by Ohio law.

Actually, it is predicted, Taft will declare himself as "an out-an-out candidate who is not just taking Ohio's 53 delegates to the Philadelphia convention to trade with."

An announcement is expected from Washington or Columbus within a few days naming Congressman Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, O., publisher, as Taft's campaign manager.

Taft backers predict the Ohioan will have more first-ballot strength at next June's convention than New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the 1944 presidential nominee.

They are claiming a minimum of 250 votes on the first ballot, including Ohio's 53 and about 150 from the southern states.

Proxy Bride Is Told She Must Leave U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—An Immigration Service board ruled today that Mrs. Eileen Frances Green Hagen, attractive English proxy bride of Barney Hagen, Billings, Mont., contractor, must leave the United States but she at once appealed to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization in Philadelphia.

The hearing for the red-haired 21-year-old girl was closed. A board spokesman said the exclusion order was issued on the ground Mrs. Hagen did not have a valid immigration visa. She was returned to Ellis Island pending her appeal.

Immigration officials had indicated yesterday that Mrs. Hagen's entry would be approved as soon as the contractor produced proof of a previous divorce.

Britain Plans To Quit Palestine By March, 1949

LONDON, Oct. 23. (AP)—An authoritative source said today that Britain was planning to withdraw her troops and administration from Palestine by March, 1949, "at the very latest", unless a United Nations decision agreeable to both Jew and Arab is forthcoming.

Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British High Commissioner in the Holy Land, another informant said, was making a village-by-village tour to make this determination clear to both Arab and Jew in the hope they would "get together" and avoid confusion when Britain withdraws.

The authoritative source said the British plans would not "prejudice" the pledge given the United Nations that Britain would be ready to play a part in implementing any plan acceptable to both Jews and Arabs.

Deer "Invades" City, Collides With Auto

ORANGEBURG, S. C., Oct. 23 (AP)—An eight-point buck deer raced through the main street of Orangeburg today, collided with an automobile drvien by a woman, and was caught when it became wedged between a fence and a tree.

The animal, injured in the auto collision, had to be killed. It had been driven from nearby Edisto swamp by a shotgun blast fired by a squirrel hunder.

About 100 persons joined in the chase.

Coffee And Canned Milk Prices Rise In Maryland; Meat, Eggs About Same

[By The Associated Press]

The prices of coffee, canned milk, soap powder and shortening have jumped during the last 10 days, but meat and egg prices have remained just about the same, a survey of grocers throughout Maryland showed Thursday.

Some meat dealers said they believed their products may go down a penny or two a pound next week, but others could forsee no drop whatsoever in the near future.

Various grocers said other staple items were rising in price and that as soon as they purchased new wholesale lots they would have to raise prices on canned goods and similar products.

Name-brand coffees were reported up one to three cents a pound, with additional increases expected next week, and canned milk went up by one to two cents a can.

The price of bread in many areas jumped a penny a loaf, and dealers reported soap powder will increase from two to three cents a package on Monday. Shortening and lard prices have increased anywhere from one to five cents a pound, in many instances.

Baltimore prices, as a general rule, were slightly higher than those of other communities.

Price ranges reported in various cities:

Cumberland: Butter, 73 to 89 cents; grade A eggs, 73 to 79 cents; round steak, 77 to 98 cents; bacon, 91 to 95 cents; the same brand of coffee, 51 to 55 cents.

Salisbury: Butter, 76 to 85; eggs, 80 to 81 cents; round steak, 65 to 79 cents; bacon, 91 to 95 cents (prices on these commodities all showed a drop).

"In your country, do you want the type of man that Mr. Justice Byrnes represents and that John Foster Dulles represents gagged? Or do you want them free to speak up and warn of danger when it appears to them?"

Neither Vishinsky nor Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, United States delegate who was reported authoritatively to have joined in urging the firm line spoken by Austin, was in the committee room.

A source close to the American delegation said the United States originally planned to avoid harsh words but in final consultations the delegation decided it was time to be firmer with Russia on this score.

Bar Harbor

Hundreds of refugees were taken from the town pier in fishing boats, pleasure craft and coast guard boats.

The officer of the day at the Southwest Harbor Coast Guard base said he understood dynamiting had saved most of the business section after the flames had swept about a third of the community of 4,300 inhabitants.

Four hundred seaborne evacuees reached Gouldsboro, on the eastern shore of Frenchman's Bay, in small Coast Guard craft.

The fishing schooner Ida May took another 40 into Southwest Harbor, on the seaward side of the island.

The officer of the day said that some of about 40 refugees arriving at Southwest Harbor were suffering from shock. A few had to be hospitalized.

Wind Shift Helps

Northeast Harbor, another island community, later appealed for small craft, the Coast Guard reported, saying a water evacuation might be necessary there. Several craft were sent there.

Almost all of the 1,500 personnel at Dow Field, Air Force fighter base at Bangor, joined in rescue work, taking many refugees to Ellsworth in motor convoys.

Some of the nation's wealthiest families, including the Rockefellers and Fords, have estates on Mt. Desert Island, but there was no word concerning their status.

Meanwhile a fleet of 10 large Navy and Coast Guard craft sped toward the island. The first craft — the cutters Laurel and Snohomish—were due at midnight.

Word of the evacuation came from Gov. Horace A. Hildreth, who talked with a telephone operator on the single emergency line into the area.

Even as the fishermen's small craft began carrying evacuees across the bay, Coast Guard boats, a Navy destroyer escort and other boats of every description were on their way from a dozen New England ports.

Principal Hotels Destroyed

The Governor quoted the operator as saying that the flames had reached the business district of the town and that the principal resort hotels—the Malvern and Belmont—were gone.

Details of the situation at the little resort town were sparse. Shortly before all phone circuits went out about 6 o'clock, a police officer called the Coast Guard at Rockland.

The policeman said that the town faced destruction by fire before morning unless the winds abated. He told of the people fleeing to the docks. He appealed for all the help from the ocean that could be sent.

Within minutes, Coast Guard craft were headed for Bar Harbor.

Small picket boats and motor lifeboats were sent from surf stations. Larger buoy tenders and inshore craft were sent from Rockland. Ocean-going cutters started north from Boston.

The Navy ordered available vessels alerted in port as far south as Newport, R. I. A Navy destroyer escort was sent out of Boston, while officers asked commercial radio stations to send out calls for crewmen to report back to their ships.

Many New England communities were being evacuated tonight as more than 200 forest fires swept the area, but none were in as immediately serious a situation as Bar Harbor.

Shifting, increasing or decreasing winds constantly changed the seriousness of the threats in many spots.

At least three persons were dead and property damage mounted into the millions as the wind-whipped flames spread with no relief in sight on this 23rd day of a dry spell.

Attorney In ITU Raps Labor Board

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23 (AP)—Henry Kaiser, attorney for the International Typgraphical Union, accused the National Labor Relations Board today of a "disgdaceful exhibition" in its procedure against the union.

He added that the agency's procedure was a "reflection" on the manner of its investigation of the unfair labor practices charge it leveled pointly with the Graphic Arts League of Baltimore against the ITU and its city local.

Barban countered he had the figures—designed to show that the 22 print shops composing the league engage in interstate commerce and thus fall under NLRB jurisdiction in the dispute — but merely needed time to frame them in a form suitable to Kaiser.

Consumers In Some Areas Should Buy Coal Now

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—The nation is not threatened with a general coal shortage, but consumers in some areas would be wise to buy now, a report to Secretary of Interior Krug said today.

The report came from a committee representing coal producers and distributors, organized labor and the consuming public. It informed Krug that the coal car supply situation appears to likely to improve somewhat with the closing of the Great Lakes to navigation and the winter decline in movement of other commodities.

James Boyd, director of the Bureau of Mines, said at a news conference that the committee submitted this summary to Krug:

"There is no general shortage except for certain of the better grades in localized areas. In those areas consumers would be well-advised to accept delivery now of the kind and size of coal which their suppliers have available."

"Also, from information available it appears that the car supply situation will be somewhat improved."

State Turkey Producers To Meet At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—Some of the poultry industry's leading figures and government agricultural officials will join Maryland turkey raisers in a conference on turkey producing and marketing problems at Carvel Hall tomorrow.

The occasion will be a meeting of the Maryland Turkey Producers Association, and members and guests will have something besides ordinary business to ponder.

At noon, hotel chefs will serve one of the farm's latest novelties, turkey steak.

This delicacy not only is tasty, but gives the farmer a chance to market birds that would otherwise be too large for home consumption, Prof. James M. Gwin, of the University of Maryland Poultry Department, explained.

"Insubordination"

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 23 (AP)—Charles Stewart, chief steward of lightship No. 5, was sentenced to a day in jail by Magistrate R. J. Flinn yesterday for "wilful insubordination."

The specific charge: Stewart attempted to force Capt. Louis Duquet to accept ham and eggs for breakfast when the skipper expressly ordered steak.

Consumers In Some Areas Should Buy Coal Now

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—The nation is not threatened with a general coal shortage, but consumers in some areas would be wise to buy now, a report to Secretary of Interior Krug said today.

The report came from a committee representing coal producers and distributors, organized labor and the consuming public. It informed Krug that the coal car supply situation appears to likely to improve somewhat with the closing of the Great Lakes to navigation and the winter decline in movement of other commodities.

James Boyd, director of the Bureau of Mines, said at a news conference that the committee submitted this summary to Krug:

"There is no general shortage except for certain of the better grades in localized areas. In those areas consumers would be well-advised to accept delivery now of the kind and size of coal which their suppliers have available."

"Also, from information available it appears that the car supply situation will be somewhat improved."

Mrs. Katherine Byron To Be Married Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Former Rep. Katherine Edgar Byron (D-Md) and Samuel Bynum Riddick, Washington, will be married Saturday at 4 p. m. at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Clinton Goodloe Edgar, Springfield Farms, Williamsport, Md.

Mrs. Byron was elected to the House in May, 1941, to complete the unexpired term of her husband, William D. Byron, who was killed in an accident in February, 1941. She did not seek re-election.

Man Can Forget Dreams About Oil In Backyard

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—Orville M. Ernst can forget his dreams about oil in the backyard of his general merchandise store in Charleston, Washington County.

Hopes for an oil strike were aroused several months ago when an inflammable fluid was discovered while Ernst was having a water well dug. After tests, a major oil company notified Ernst the fluid was gasoline.

State Turkey Producers To Meet At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—Some of the poultry industry's leading figures and government agricultural officials will join Maryland turkey raisers in a conference on turkey producing and marketing problems at Carvel Hall tomorrow.

The occasion will be a meeting of the Maryland Turkey Producers Association, and members and guests will have something besides ordinary business to ponder.

At noon, hotel chefs will serve one of the farm's latest novelties, turkey steak.

This delicacy not only is tasty, but gives the farmer a chance to market birds that would otherwise be too large for home consumption, Prof. James M. Gwin, of the University of Maryland Poultry Department, explained.

"Insubordination"

The specific charge: Stewart attempted to force Capt. Louis Duquet to accept ham and eggs for breakfast when the skipper expressly ordered steak.

Equity Suit Filed

A petition was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the H. and S. Heating and Plumbing Company against Louis Waingold and Harold W. Waingold, who are listed as owners of the York Hotel, corner Baltimore Avenue and Front Street.

The petition states the defendants are indebted to the company in the sum of $1,211.34 for certain plumbing supplies and labor performed in remodelling work at the hotel.

The Inner Glow

We often wonder what it is about some folks that draws us so tightly to them. We say it is character, but I think it is more. It's that something behind character that we will call the Inner Glow of that person—that inspiring something that is kept alive and forever radiant.

It is this inner glow that shows in the eyes, the expression upon the face, and in every attitude of thought when wrapped in words. Some people call it personality. But by whatever name it is called, there it is— the inner glow.

Every great and inspiring person has to some extent this inner glow. They walk in the crowd. They associate with groups and gatherings. Everywhere they go they give out this glow, and all unconsciously. We feel this when in the presence of such a person.

What, then, is it that gives forth this preborn that has been inherited, but it is more than that—it's something that the mind and heart have contributed—a cheerful frame of mind, sympathy and understanding, a faith that is solid and unclouded. These are contributors to the inner glow that many human beings give forth.

Shut-ins have this inner glow to a remarkable degree. So do all those who patiently suffer and endure. Silently they give out to all with whom they come in contact. And when a great human being dies this glow still remains, warming and uplifting through memory, as though to emphasize the fact of immortality.

Religion is a powerful contributor to this inner glow. In fact it may well be said that it is the fuel that gives it warmth, finally sending it out into the world. Lovers of nature have this glow. They see and experience so much that has added to the wonder and beauty of life. Their response is so keen, their appreciation so genuine.

Every triumph has its inner glow. The first message sent over the invented telegraph instrument was this: "What hath God wrought!" And what a glow was sent all over this earth, after the inner glow of that small filament from Edison's first successful electric light! But nothing can surpass the inner glow of the heart, forever distributing its wonder anew.

• Here's good news for you folks who have to get up at night to pass water, have backache, too, because of minor functional kidney disorders.

Three generations ago, a famous doctor developed a medicine for this very trouble. Now millions have used it, often with amazingly fast, effective results. The medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, made of 16 herbs, roots, vegetables, and balsams — truly nature's own way to relief. Instantly you take it, it starts to work flushing out kidneys . . . increases the flow of urine, helping to relieve excess acidity . . . so irritated bladder gets a good flushing out, too. Caution: Take as directed. You'll say it's marvelous.

Coleman Flays Congress For Dropping Controls

William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, C.I.O., told a Congressional committee investigating high prices Tuesday that "unless action is taken to bring prices down within our reach . . . we who are in the position of leadership in the labor movement cannot be held responsible for the rising temper of the people."

He said that in his opinion Congress is responsible for the conditions due to the abolishment of all controls. Prices in Cumberland, he said, are comparable to large cities and quoted Chamber of Commerce food basket reports to show that food prices here have increased about 171 per cent since 1939. Industrial wages have jumped 70 to 80 per cent here in that time, he added.

How To Hold
FALSE TEETH
More Firmly In Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wabbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug store. —Advertisement

Brazil To Permit Sugar Exports

RIO DE JANEIRO. (AP)—Permission for sugar exportation was given by President Dutra to three states which are first required to meet the needs of the internal market. The States are Pernambuco, Rio de Janeiro and Alagoas.

According to the decree, only the surplus of the sugar production will be allowed for export. Bans on sugar exports were a result of previous shortage and high prices in the internal market.

Portable Radio Haters At Work

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—(AP)—The railroad station here is not the place to take a nap when you have a portable radio at your side.

Two men in the same evening reported thefts of the portables while they took a slight rest on benches.

Still Shooting Up Town

LEADVILLE, Colo. — (AP) — The streets of this famous mining camp still echo with gunfire but on a reduced scale from the six shooter affrays that killed gold diggers 75 years ago.

Police said young vandals shot out more than 30 street lights on the east side of town. Apparently a .22 caliber rifle was used in extinguishing every light from Fifth to 11th streets.

Red Is Candidate On Rightist Ticket

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)—Yeddo Fiuza, who polled 600,000 votes as a Communist candidate during the Brazilian presidential elections of 1945 is running for mayor of the old imperial city of Petropolis where the inter-American conference recently took place.

Fiuza, a professional engineer, was once mayor of the city and his ticket for the forthcoming election counts on the outlawed Brazilian Communist Party. The party that presented his name is a conservative one, mainly supported by rich landowners of southern Brazil.

The Department of Agriculture reports that much of the off-flavor which develops in orange juice, especially when stored in glass at room temperature, comes from fatty material in the juice which is not removed in processing.

Whole Wallet Has Way Of Bouncing

In the summer of 1946 Wallace lost his purse on a ranch at Yampa. It was recovered from the mouth of a horse that picked it up with a bite of hay.

This year Wallace's billfold fell to the highway west of Vail and was returned to him by an Inglewood, Calif., tourist who found it.

Russian Is Greek To A Swedish Horse

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—"Our horses do not understand Rusian," wrote a horseman in a letter to the editor of a Stockholm newspaper protesting against the sale of horses to Russia.

"The Swedish farmers ought to consider it beneath their honor to participate in this shameful horse-trade with the Soviet Union. Let us export machines but don't let us export creatures who like ourselves are capable of feeling distress and agony," the writer said.

He added that the Swedish horses would not understand the new words of command nor the right hand traffic.

But, he concluded, people who only think of making money do not pay attention to such matters, "and money seems to be the only thing of importance to a great part of the Swedish nation."

Prehistoric Towns Are Found In Russia

MOSCOW—(AP)—A Soviet expedition to the Bryansk and Kursk regions has discovered traces of large Russian towns dating from the Seventh to the Ninth century.

Another expedition has studied at Kursk what is described as the "halting place" of paleolithic man. The e finds were announc ! as dating back to 50,000 years ago.

The researchers retu ned to Moscow with a large number of mammoth bones as well as household art objects made of the bones and tusks of mammoths.

Town Party To Curb Halloween Pranks

HAVRE, Mont. (AP) — The Halloween problem is going to be met this year with a city wide party intended to keep Havre's youth occupied with non-destructive entertainment on the bewitching night.

Dr. G. A. Jestrab, Rotary club president, started the proposal — copied after a successful trial in Anoka, Minn. Other civic clubs, school and parent leaders have joined in the plans.

Tentative proposals include several large parties arranged for different age groups at separate locations. One of the main attractions will be a Halloween parade led by the Elks and high school bands.

From 10 to 20 tons of water must fall on corn land to produce a bushel of grain.

ATTENTION MOOSE

Cumberland Lodge No. 271 will hold a class initiation Sunday, Oct. 26, at 3 P. M. and banquet at 6:30 P. M. for all paid-up members and wife or lady friend.

Indonesia Recruits 50,000 Laborers

JOGJAKARTA, Java (AP)—A force of 50,000 laborers has been recruited by the Indonesian Republic to carry out an emergency rehabilitation program. Construction of 80 buildings in refugee-packed Jogjakarta and erection of power plants for Republican towns whose normal source of power is in areas now occupied by Dutch soldiers will be their first major job.

About 20,000 miles of railroad line were abandoned in the United States between 1916 and 1940.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

TUBERCULOSIS

F. T. writes: What is the reinfection type of tuberculosis?

REPLY

This term is used to describe invasion by the bacilli of tissues that have been sensitized by a previous attack.

PAINFUL SHOULDERS

W. W. writes: Two year ago I had bursitis in both shoulders. Pain was relieved finally through X-ray treatments though my arms tired easily for a long time thereafter. A few weeks ago I had it again. Is it due to changeable weather? Will it lead to deformity? How can I avoid recurrences?

REPLY

By minimizing wear and tear on these structures and avoiding infections much can be done to prevent recurrences. Colds are said to be less prevalent in warm climates, and in this respect only is a change advisable. The burses can be removed as a last resort and consequently you need not worry about deformities and other complications altho some limitation of movement usually follows.

ACHING FEET

C. B. writes: The foot doctor told me that elevating my legs above my head while lying down would greatly relieve smarting and aching feet. Is this possible?

REPLY

This depends upon the cause of your foot discomfort. If it is circulatory in nature this maneuver often helps.

BABY'S SHOES

H. P. writes: Is there any truth in the common belief that brown or black shoes are harmful to an infant just learning to walk? I dislike having to clean white shoes and having my clothing spoiled by the polish.

REPLY

To the best of my knowledge white shoes are popular because they are cuter and traditional. On the other hand, most babies put everything into their mouths and it may be that dark shoes contain ingredients not found in white leather or polish.

SKIN ERUPTION

L. S. writes: What is the cause of red spots about the size of a pinhead appearing on different parts of the arms?

REPLY

These spots generally fall into two categories. If they come and go, tiny hemorrhages may be responsible. Should they persist, nevi or moles may be considered. There are thousands of rashes and pimplelike lesions that can develop and it would not be possible to make a diagnosis by mail.

DRUGS AND PRESSURE

E. W. writes: Will histamine injected into the blood stream by a competent physician benefit high blood pressure?

REPLY

Although this drug may cause a temporary drop in blood pressure, it is not used in the treatment of this condition. It is employed more frequently in such disorders as allergy, as a test for neurological and stomach disturbances, and to dilate the capillaries.

IMPROBABLE

S. D. writes: Can a fast pulse cause continuous and severe headache?

REPLY

Probably not. It would be more logical to assume that the same disorder that is responsible for the increased heart rate is likewise to blame for headache. The symptoms should be investigated.

BILE IN SKIN

E. C. writes: What is jaundice?

REPLY

BEER EACH NIGHT

E. M. J. writes: Is it harmful to dring four to six glasses of beer nightly before retiring? This habit was formed at a time when I suffered from insomnia.

REPLY

The practice is hard on the weight and budget and may encourage alcoholism.

PALE BLOOD

H. M. writes: Can a doctor tell if out a blood test?

REPLY

Any one may be suspicious that anemia exists if you are as pale as a ghost and as weak as a cat. But for positive proof, a blood study is required.

LIKES OLIVES

Mrs. L. writes: My husband has developed a craving for olives. Are they good for him?

REPLY

Yes, this is an excellent food. Now and then, however, we come upon an individual whose stomach rebels at the fat content.

HEAVY WITH SLEEP

L. W. writes: Is there such a thing as getting too much sleep? It seems that the more I sleep the more tired I am.

REPLY

The amount of sleep needed varies with the individual. On the other hand, the process can become a habit especially with those who have too little to do or lack interest in life.

OUT OF DATE

Mrs. H. K. writes: Are bee strings beneficial in arthritis?

REPLY

The popularity of this form of treatment has waned. Consequently, it is recommended by few physicians.

WANDERING WORMS

C. V. writes: Can worm infestation in a child cause appendicitis?

This is a moot question. The parasites frequently are found in an inflamed appendix after it has been removed. It is difficult to decide whether they caused appendicitis or were living there peacefully, minding their own business.

SORE KNEE

D. B. writes: My left knee is quite painful if I keep it bent for any length of time. As soon as I straighten it out it clicks and the pain stops. I am 25 years old. What could this be due to?

REPLY

Among the possibilities are arthritis or a disturbance in the cartilage or surrounding ligaments. By consulting a physician, who will probably request X-rays and other tests, it should not be difficult to find the exact cause. Many cases respond to rest or a supportive bandage.

FAILING OLDSTERS

Mrs. C. writes: Has medical science anything to offer in senile dementia?

REPLY

If you mean cure, the answer is no, inasmuch as the damage is permanent. On the other hand, many suggestions as to care and management can be made by the attending physician not only to prolong life but to make these individuals happier.

SWIMMING AND ARTHRITIS

Mrs. T. Writes: Would it be harmful for a person with arthritis to go swimming?

REPLY

No, unless the sport aggravates symptoms or encourages colds. It may even be helpful because of the sunbathing that goes with it. Much depends upon the type and severity of the arthritis.

YOUTHFUL GRAYING

L. M. writes: Is there any physical cause for gray hair at the age of 17? Please suggest a remedy.

REPLY

None that I know of except possibly heredity. Should a vitamin B deficiency exist, taking supplementary doses may help. If this is not a factor in your case, I would suggest that you let well enough alone.

PERCUSSION

C. S. writes: Why do doctors, on examining a patient, flatten one of their hands against the patient's body and then hammer it with a finger of the other hand?

REPLY

This maneuver is known as "percussion" and is considered one of the "arts" of medicine, requiring years to master. On tapping with a finger, if the underlying tissues contain air, a resonant sound is elicited; when they are solid or filled with fluid, the sound is dull. Thus the normal lungs are resonant; should fluids or solids be present because of pneumonia, a dull note is observed.

BONE INVASION

A. C. writes: A friend of mine has cancer of the bone. She has had it for some time and it is now affecting the bones of her face. I would appreciate any information on the subject.

REPLY

Cancer originating in bone [primary] is not as common as the secondary variety in which the malignancy spreads to the bone from a source elsewhere. The first type is amenable to treatment, if discovered early. The second form indicates an advanced stage.

FROM A DISTANT FOCUS

G. H. writes: What is a cold abscess?

REPLY

EYE ULCERATION

S. W. writes: Have you heard of a virus causing ulcers in the cornea?

REPLY

Corneal ulcers are usually caused by true bacteria, but in some instances a virus can be the culprit. One disorder of this nature is kerato-conjunctivitis and another is herpes (shingles). Both conditions are difficult to treat but after running their course healing usually ensues.

URINE TESTS

M. J. writes: Would it be possible for a person to have a good urinalysis and still have something wrong with the kidneys?

REPLY

Yes. Altho the urinalysis is one of our best tests for kidney and bladder disorders, many other studies can be done to make the examination more thoro.

URINARY TRACT

Mrs. W. writes: I have been bothered with constant soreness around the bladder, frequent urination, and a terrible backache. A urinalysis showed nothing wrong. Could this be a nervous bladder?

REPLY

Yes, but I would suggest that you consult a specialist in this field as additional studies may be necessary to discover the root of your trouble. It may be that the urethra and the inside of the bladder should be viewed thru the cystoscope.

NOT LIKELY

G. W. writes: About two weeks ago I swallowed a peach stone. Could this be responsible for constipation at this time?

REPLY

I doubt it, as foreign bodies of this size are usually passed. Furthermore, if the stone were producing obstruction, constipation would be accompanied by severe abdominal pain, nausea, and vomiting.

BREATH HOLDER

Mrs. M. writes: Our 2 year old daughter holds her breath when she cries after a fall or when she is tired or excited. She turns blue and stiff and after the spell is over she becomes very pale and falls asleep. Will you kindly advise?

REPLY

In the majority of instances, this represents temper tantrums, coming on when the youngster is angry. As a rule, the attacks do no harm and never cause death. Consequently, you should govern yourself accordingly. Fortunately, the practice usually disappears by the end of the fifth year.

REMEDIES FOR HIVES

T. R. writes: I have had hives for 5 weeks. Is there any way I can get some relief?

REPLY

Benadryl and pyribenzamine are the current recedies for hives. But prevention is better. Skin tests will frequently disclose the causative agent.

NOT NECESSARILY

L. S. writes: If the tonsils are enlarged, does this mean that they should be removed?

REPLY

No, unless their size interferes with breathing or swallowing. The presence of bacteria is a more important consideration and removal is in order should they act as a foci of infection and cause frequent colds or other ailments.

WANDERING WORMS

C. V. writes: Can worm infestation in a child cause appendicitis?

This is a moot question. The parasites frequently are found in an inflamed appendix after it has been removed. It is difficult to decide whether they caused appendicitis or were living there peacefully, minding their own business.

SORE KNEE

D. B. writes: My left knee is quite painful if I keep it bent for any length of time. As soon as I straighten it out it clicks and the pain stops. I am 25 years old. What could this be due to?

REPLY

Among the possibilities are arthritis or a disturbance in the cartilage or surrounding ligaments. By consulting a physician, who will probably request X-rays and other tests, it should not be difficult to find the exact cause. Many cases respond to rest or a supportive bandage.

FAILING OLDSTERS

Mrs. C. writes: Has medical science anything to offer in senile dementia?

REPLY

If you mean cure, the answer is no, inasmuch as the damage is permanent. On the other hand, many suggestions as to care and management can be made by the attending physician not only to prolong life but to make these individuals happier.

SWIMMING AND ARTHRITIS

Mrs. T. Writes: Would it be harmful for a person with arthritis to go swimming?

REPLY

No, unless the sport aggravates symptoms or encourages colds. It may even be helpful because of the sunbathing that goes with it. Much depends upon the type and severity of the arthritis.

YOUTHFUL GRAYING

L. M. writes: Is there any physical cause for gray hair at the age of 17? Please suggest a remedy.

REPLY

None that I know of except possibly heredity. Should a vitamin B deficiency exist, taking supplementary doses may help. If this is not a factor in your case, I would suggest that you let well enough alone.

PERCUSSION

C. S. writes: Why do doctors, on examining a patient, flatten one of their hands against the patient's body and then hammer it with a finger of the other hand?

REPLY

This maneuver is known as "percussion" and is considered one of the "arts" of medicine, requiring years to master. On tapping with a finger, if the underlying tissues contain air, a resonant sound is elicited; when they are solid or filled with fluid, the sound is dull. Thus the normal lungs are resonant; should fluids or solids be present because of pneumonia, a dull note is observed.

BONE INVASION

A. C. writes: A friend of mine has cancer of the bone. She has had it for some time and it is now affecting the bones of her face. I would appreciate any information on the subject.

REPLY

Cancer originating in bone [primary] is not as common as the secondary variety in which the malignancy spreads to the bone from a source elsewhere. The first type is amenable to treatment, if discovered early. The second form indicates an advanced stage.

FROM A DISTANT FOCUS

G. H. writes: What is a cold abscess?

REPLY

EYE ULCERATION

S. W. writes: Have you heard of a virus causing ulcers in the cornea?

REPLY

Corneal ulcers are usually caused by true bacteria, but in some instances a virus can be the culprit. One disorder of this nature is kerato-conjunctivitis and another is herpes (shingles). Both conditions are difficult to treat but after running their course healing usually ensues.

URINE TESTS

M. J. writes: Would it be possible for a person to have a good urinalysis and still have something wrong with the kidneys?

REPLY

Yes. Altho the urinalysis is one of our best tests for kidney and bladder disorders, many other studies can be done to make the examination more thoro.

URINARY TRACT

Mrs. W. writes: I have been bothered with constant soreness around the bladder, frequent urination, and a terrible backache. A urinalysis showed nothing wrong. Could this be a nervous bladder?

REPLY

Yes, but I would suggest that you consult a specialist in this field as additional studies may be necessary to discover the root of your trouble. It may be that the urethra and the inside of the bladder should be viewed thru the cystoscope.

NOT LIKELY

G. W. writes: About two weeks ago I swallowed a peach stone. Could this be responsible for constipation at this time?

REPLY

I doubt it, as foreign bodies of this size are usually passed. Furthermore, if the stone were producing obstruction, constipation would be accompanied by severe abdominal pain, nausea, and vomiting.

BREATH HOLDER

Mrs. M. writes: Our 2 year old daughter holds her breath when she cries after a fall or when she is tired or excited. She turns blue and stiff and after the spell is over she becomes very pale and falls asleep. Will you kindly advise?

REPLY

In the majority of instances, this represents temper tantrums, coming on when the youngster is angry. As a rule, the attacks do no harm and never cause death. Consequently, you should govern yourself accordingly. Fortunately, the practice usually disappears by the end of the fifth year.

REMEDIES FOR HIVES

T. R. writes: I have had hives for 5 weeks. Is there any way I can get some relief?

REPLY

Benadryl and pyribenzamine are the current recedies for hives. But prevention is better. Skin tests will frequently disclose the causative agent.

NOT NECESSARILY

L. S. writes: If the tonsils are enlarged, does this mean that they should be removed?

REPLY

No, unless their size interferes with breathing or swallowing. The presence of bacteria is a more important consideration and removal is in order should they act as a foci of infection and cause frequent colds or other ailments.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE SPORTS WRITER

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (INS) — Most of us feel pretty good if we can put the arm on a pal for 10 for 20 bucks if we need some fresh scratch in a hurry.

But I know a fellow who if he needs some new folding money can get 10 or 20 of those coarse green thousand-dollar notes any day in the week just for the asking. And he won't even be asked to give a note for the dough.

The lad in question is Joe Louis. The place he can get the money is the 20th Century Sporting Club, Inc. and the fellow who will lay it on the line for him is Sol Strauss.

I know that is true because Sol himself told me so today. "And that," he added, "should put a damper on all those silly rumors about Louis being broke. I only wish I were as broke in the same way."

Sol adjusted his famous ear trumpet—the one that allows him to hear only what he wants to hear—and continued: "Joe can step in here any day and get 10 grand or twice that much if he wants it and no questions asked.

SOL STRAUSS

"And I'll tell you something else. When Joe quits fighting he can have a life-time job with this organization if he wants it."

Well, that was a new slant, surely, and I asked Sol what kind of a job Joe could handle.

"Oh," said Sol nonchalantly, "we'd make one for him. But I'm sure he'll never need a job. Joe has all the money he'll ever need. He has two apartment houses and he has annuities. And he still is a potential big money earner in the ring.

"And while I'm at it, I might just as well tell you something about Joe and Uncle Sam. Were you aware that Joe paid $475,000 in taxes last year, including $116,000 back stuff?

"For years Uncle Sam collected about half a million from Joe for taxes and once I got back about $10,000 Joe overpaid his Uncle Samuel.

"The government was dunning Joe for taxes even when he was in the army overseas. I made a dicker with the tax people to pay half on account and the rest later. But Joe said no, pay it all. That's the kind of a citizen Joe is."

Sol took a slug of water out of a silver carafe on Mike Jacobs' old desk and resumed: "you know, this soft stuff reminds me that Joe also is heavily interested in a soft drink that's making money for him."

I said "look around the room, Sol, and maybe some other article will remind you of something else about Louis."

Sol chuckled: "You think you're kidding me, but I might at that because Joe has or will have more things going for him in a financial way than you ever dreamed about."

I told Sol I was listening attentively but that's where Sol clammed up on me. Then he added:

"Don't forget Joe lays his title on the line against Jersey Joe Walcott in the Garden Dec. 5 and nobody knows how Joe will be after almost a year and a half of idleness and he may even lose his title and—"

But I said, "Sol, old boy, when you try to sell me on Walcott beating Louis, that's where I came in and where I go out," and I did.

Carver To Battle Ramer Here Today

Locals Seek Revenge For 25 To 6 Setback

Coach Charles Waterman's Carver High School six man football team will play Ramer Memorial High School of Martinsburg, W. Va., in a return game today at Community Park at 3 p. m.

Ramer defeated Carver by the score of 25 to 6 in Martinsburg several weeks ago and the Frederick Street team will be out to square up matters in the return contest

Carver reached the .500 mark for the season last week by defeating Page Jackson High School of Charles Town here to the tune of 32 to 16.

A return game will be played in Charles Town, W. Va., Friday, November 7.

HUNTING AND FISHING IN PENNSYLVANIA IS STOPPED BY GOVERNOR

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Governor James H. Duff, acting to protect Pennsylvania's forests from fire, today halted all hunting and fishing in woodlands of the commonwealth from October 27 until rainfall ends the present dangerous conditions.

The executive at the same time closed until further notice all state forests, game lands and preserves "to all persons except those entering the said lands by reason of necessary business or state employment." This also is effective Oct. 27.

The action came a week before opening Nov. 1, of the small game season which was expected to put more than 800,000 hunters into the field.

Bill Iannicelli Gets High Rating As Pass Snatcher

Diplomats' End Grabs 13 Of 16 Aimed At Him

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Bill Iannicelli is catching 81 per cent of the passes aimed at him and his Coach Charley Soleau said today "he has all the qualities of an All America in every respect."

Bill, who pronounces his last name "Yahn-I-Kelly," is a quiet unassuming war veteran of 23, a senior and an end on the unbeaten gridiron team of Franklin and Marshall College, plus being a leading American javelin hope for the '48 Olympics.

In three games played, the Altoona (Pa) wingmen has grabbed 13 of 16 aerials tossed at him by the Diplomats' duo of passers, Eddie Trees of Harrisburg, Pa., and Don Watson of Ridgefield, N. J.

In addition to making a sizeable share of catches, Bill has luggerd the ball 348 yards or an average of 27 yards per pass.

Iannicelli is no stranger to "all" ratings, the 5-foot-10 end was chosen All Pennsylvania and Little All America in 1943, as well as second team All East and honorable mention All America. That was before his military service.

Said Soleau: "Iannicelli is not only the best end I have ever coached but one of the best I have ever seen in action. He is a great competitor, especially when the chips are down. He is also a great team player."

F. & M., whose enrollment numbers 1,300, has licked Swarthmore and Lebanon Valley (coached, incidentally, by Soleau's old mentor Andy Kerr, late of Colgate university) and played a 13-13 tie with Albright.

Stymie Figured To Win $54,850

Expected To Regain Money Winning Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—A seemingly sour and stale Stymie may have little more to do than complete the course in Saturday's rich Gallant Fox Handicap at Jamaica to regain the world money-winning title.

As of today, a small field was in prospect for the $75,000 added, mile and five furlong special and fourth money of $3,750 would enable Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' pennies-to-platinum six-year-old to oust Warren Wright's Armed from the top rung on the golden ladder.

At present Stymie, which Hirsch Jacobs claimed as a juvenile for $1,500 and developed into one of the turf's best handicap stars, is a mere $1,790 under the glamor gelding which replaced the Jacobs veteran earlier this month with a victory in Belmont Park's Sysonby mile. Armed has earned $761,500 to Stymie's $759,710.

Possibly six horses will start which would make the event, won by Stymie a year ago in track record time, gross $81,700. With $54,850 to the victor any addition or scratch would amount to $500—the starting fee—either way.

The others listed by the secretary's office as likely starters are R. N. Ryan's Talon and Mrs. Barclay K. Douglas' Miss Grillo, Argentine Stars Trinaed by H. A. Luro; Herman Salomon's Stage Bond; William Helis's Elpis and J. J. Watts' Harmonica. Bare possibilities are Donor and Catana.

Gillenwater Asks To Be Free Agent

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 23 (AP)—Carden Gillenwater, outfielder for the Milwaukee club of the American Association, said today he would ask Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler "to declare me a free agent."

Gillenwater said his proposed action would stem from the fact his recent sale by the Milwaukee club to the Boston Braves had been nullified by Chandler's office.

The commissioner's office ruled after the sale that Gillenwater, who led the association in home runs last season with 25, should be returned to Milwaukee until after the major league draft Nov. 11. The action was taken, it was said, because Gillenwater had been out on option three times.

REAL FOOTBALL HERO—It's a little early to select the All-American football team but we'd like to give you the name of the boy who should be its mascot. He is Billy Casey, 13, of Madison, Wis. Billy is a football player on St. Patrick's grade school team in the City Parochial league. He's a reserve center and plays at least half of every game in the league which features seven-man, two-handed touch football. In touch football the center is eligible to receive passes and Billy has caught several although he hasn't scored yet. Billy is no ordinary football player. He has no legs. He lost 'em just below the knee when he was in the third grade. And Billy has only one good eye; the other's a glass eye. When Billy reported for the team, he didn't tell the coach he had wooden legs. A teammate revealed it three days later. Billy wants to go to Notre Dame and be a place-kicker.

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 23—Keyser High School remained in the running for the Potomac Valley Conference football title by defeating a stubborn Romney eleven here today by the score of 7 to 0.

The game was moved ahead one day on account of the Potomac State-Salem contest here Friday.

The Golden Tornado scored the lone touchdown of the game in the opening period when Johnny Spitzer went over from the six-yard line to climax a 59-yard drive. Spitzer also ran the extra point.

Romney advanced to the Keyser 25-yard stripe on one occasion but lost the ball on the downs.

Spitzer was Keyser's chief ground gainer as Coach Fred "Tack" Clark's team rolled up 203 yards rushing but suffered penalties totaling 125 yards. Once the locals were penalized 45 yards—half the distance to the goal line—for slugging.

Keyser failed to complete a single pass in seven tries and one of the aerials was intercepted.

Romney connected for two passes in 11 attempts and had three intercepted. The Pioneers gained only 77 net yards on the ground.

Bernard Elbon and Neill Wensell were Keyser's outstanding linemen. The longest run of the game was 42 yards by Harold Raines, Keyser fullback.

The victory was Keyser's second against a single loss in the conference. Romney has won two and lost two in the P.V.C.

Next Friday afternoon Moorefield will play Keyser here and Ridgeley will play at Romney in important conference battles. Lineups:

Shirey Pilots Three Winners At Wheeling

Bob Shirey, apprentice rider from Hyndman, Pa., booted home three winners yesterday at Wheeling Downs, W. Va.

He scored with Miss Amy ($7.80) in the 5th, Friar Gene ($5) in the 7th and Midknight ($24.80) in the 8th. Shirey won place money in the second race.

Wheeling's 52-day meet will end on Saturday.

Gamecocks Top Clemson, 21-19

South Carolina Wins On Intercepted Pass

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 23 (AP) — A weary but determined band of South Carolina Gamecocks staved off a nearly-successful fourth period Clemson rally to edge the favored Tigers 21-19 before a capacity state fair crowd of 25,000 today.

The accurate point-after touchdown kicking of substitute guard Pete Lane spelled a Southern Conference victory for the Gamecocks as the clock ran out on a final Clemson drive at midfield.

The Tigers outpunched the Gamecocks often in line plays and had no serious competition to Bobby Gage's and Carl Cox's fine passing. It was an intercepted Clemson pass that cost the Tigers the game.

Momentarily set back by a fumble in the final period when they were trailing 14-12, the Tigers appeared to be setting up a long scoring march when Gamecock fullback Bobby Giles, in for Red Harrison, grabbed a Gage throw near the sideline on the Tiger 16 and ran it to the Tiger one. Giles plunged over on the next play. Score:

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| CLEMSON | 6 | 6 | 0 | 7 | —19 |
| SOUTH CAROLINA | 7 | 7 | 0 | 7 | —21 |

Gridder Is Injured When Shotgun Discharges

MONROE, Wis., Oct. 23 (AP)—Frederick Huber, 16, quarterback on the Monroe High School football team, was injured seriously last night when hit in the upper leg by the charge of a 12-gauge shotgun in the squad's dressing room.

Asst. Police Chief Henry S. Hefty said the incident took place as the squad dressed after practice. He said the gun, ownership of which remained in doubt, was found in a corner of the locker room and was discharged accidentally as the team members passed it around for examination.

Mrs. McConnell Sets Outdoor Loop Record

Mrs. Mildred McConnell hung up a new record for women in the Cumberland Outdoor Club's Mixed Bowling League this week when she spilled 442 maples on the Savoy alleys as the Polecats were taking two out of three games from the Weasels. The previous high for three games was a 408 by L. Melvin. G. Leasure headed the losers with a 413 set.

The Wildcats strengthened their grip on first place in the league by defeating the Squirrels in two out of three games. L. Robinson's 383 was high for the victors and B. Pollock's 429 paced the Squirrels.

The Panthers annexed two out of three from the Foxes. V. Johnson spilled 428 pins for the triumphant Panthers while G. Atwell gathered 340 pins for the Foxes.

British Golfers Expect To Wallop U. S. Ryder Outfit

"We Didn't Come Over To Lose," Cotton Says

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—Something new in the way of British sports teams reached these shores today when the redoubtable Henry Cotton led his Ryder Cup golfers down the Queen Mary's gangplank.

Henry and his fellow professionals made it immediately and abundantly clear that they expect to wallop the pick of this country's money players in their two-day international match at Portland, Ore., Nov. 1 and 2.

"We didn't come over here to lose," Cotton said a couple of minutes after his feet hit the pier. "We have a team of sound players and we have every bit of confidence. This is the best cup team I've ever played on."

This was most unusual. It has been customary in such cases for the sporting visitor from Britain to venture that "we intend to have a jolly good try at you fellows," but never, either directly or by implication, to admit that he was thinking seriously of winning.

The men who got in today obviously are a different breed of cats, not only Cotton, but each of them, individually, declared without coaxing that he was a member of a fine golf team imbued with a winning spirit.

"I don't believe we've ever had a team with as wonderful spirit as this one has," said Dai Rees, the little Welsh star. "Everyone likes everyone else, and all we are thinking about is winning. We should have a fine match at Portland."

Cotton reminded his fellow players and reporters that the British professionals never had won on this side since the Ryder Cup matches started in 1929, but added smilingly that "we hope to do better than the other teams."

BRUCE, CENTRAL PLAY FOR "C" TITLE; BEALL TO SEEK WMI CROWN

Two titles are at stake today in the W.M.I. Soccer League.

Beall High is scheduled to play in Barton and if the Frostburg eleven wins it will give Coach Eddie Finzel's booters league honors for the 1947 season.

The outcome of today's Central-Bruce tilt at Lonaconing may determine which team will represent Allegany county in the Maryland inter-county tournaments for Class "C" schools.

Bruce won the series opener 1-0 and if Central wins today's game a playoff game will be necessary to determine the county's representative.

Beall already has qualified to compete in the state Class "A" tourney and Barton will vie for Class "D" honors.

Ray Middleton will officiate at 'Coney and Ed Thompson will work the game at Barton.

Meet The Coach

By JACK SORDS

GRADUATE of the United States Military Academy in 1916, Brig. Gen. Robert R. (Bob) Neyland has been head coach at the University of Tennessee since 1926 with the exception of a five-year World War II absence.

This is his second year back at the helm of the Vols and he piloted his eleven into the Orange Bowl last January 1 although Rice beat his team, 8-0.

While at the Academy Neyland was an outstanding athlete, participating in football, baseball and boxing. He served in the first World War as captain and temporary major.

In his long service with Tennessee teams he has been ranked high among the coaches and annually turns out fine teams. He has developed several All-American players and also has guided his teams into various Bowl games.

Neyland was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Merit for his service in World War II.

Football Selections

(Following are the selections by International News Service experts in various sections on the big football games this week. Total picks to date show 182 right, 54 wrong for 77 percent).

EAST

By Pat Robinson

Army 21, Columbia 7—Army's line too strong. No team has yet scored on Army.

William & Mary 20, Boston University 7—W. & M. has more speed and power.

Temple 28, Bucknell 7—Temple should be too deep for Bucknell.

Dartmouth 14, Harvard 10—We agree with coaches' consensus. Edge to Dartmouth.

Georgetown 21, NYU 14—Georgetown too big and strong for weak NYU.

Holy Cross 14, Syracuse 0—It's now or never for disappointing H. C.

Rutgers 35, Lehigh 0—Rutgers has far too much stuff for old foe.

Penn State 20, W. Va. 7—Both unbeaten but P. S. among east's best.

MIDWEST

By Charles Einstein

Western Michigan 20, Butler 12—Grade B, but a ball game.

Cincinnati 33, Xavier 6—More fodder for Cincy.

Duquesne 27, Detroit 19—Rambling Dukes are vicious.

Fort Hill, Ridgeley Boast Win Streaks

The tri-state district's only undefeated and untied team will battle it out with the district's highest scoring eleven when Ridgeley (W. Va.) High School locks horns with Fort Hill High School tonight at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

Coach Jesse Riggleman's Blackhawks, victorious in four starts against Petersburg, Allegany, Keyser and Moorefield this season, and boasting a record of eight straight wins over two seasons, will face the Sentinels of Coach William P. Hahn who have rolled up 215 points in six contests and have bagged their last five games after losing the lid-lifter to Washington and Lee High at Arlington, Va.

Both teams have played Keyser and Moorefield. Fort Hill beat Moorefield by two touchdowns and Ridgeley won by a single touchdown. The Sentinels beat Keyser by 33 points while Ridgeley won by the margin of 13 points.

Sentinels Rule Favorites

A majority of those who have seen both teams play figure Fort Hill to win by two or three touchdowns. Many Ridgeley followers point to the fact that the Hawks held last year's city championship Fort Hill team to a scoreless tie and see no reason why the Mineral Countians can't spill the Hilltoppers this time. Those who like Sentinels say they are too fast and powerful for Ridgeley's slow moving team.

It will be the fifth meeting of the schools in football and Ridgeley will be striving to break a string of four shutouts suffered at the hands of the local gridders. Prior to last year's 0-0 battle, the scores were 47-0, 36-0 and 45-0.

Fans have been looking forward to this game as the biggest of the year to date and there is every indication that one of the season's largest crowds will be in the stands for the opening kick-off.

Seats are not reserved for this game. The gates will open at 6:30 o'clock.

Franklin Vs. Moorefield

In today's only Potomac Valley Conference game, Moorefield's Yellow Jackets will play hosts to the Franklin High School Panthers in Moorefield at 2:30 p. m. Despite a defeat at the hands of Ridgeley, the Jackets are still in the running for the P.V.C. title.

Coach Homer Brooks' Parsons Panthers, victorious in four out of five games played to date, will invade Petersburg today to battle it out with Coach Walt Owens' Petersburg High Vikings.

Emil Suder's Thomas High eleven will conclude its six-game schedule by playing Terra Alta High School this afternoon at Terra Alta in Preston county.

Ferndale Tests Bedford

At Bedford, Pa., tonight Coach Bruce Fisher's Bedford High Bisons will play their eighth game on their 10-game schedule by tackling the Ferndale Yellow Jackets of Johnstown under the arcs at 8 o'clock. Ferndale is the school at which Fisher coached basketball and football teams for many years before transferring to Bedford. Bedford has won five, lost one and tied one. Its only defeat was at the hands of another Johnstown team—Westmont—the score being 26-6. A 12-12 tie was played with Somerset.

Local high school teams will engage in two Saturday night games. LaSalle meets Mooseheart (Ill.) here and Allegany collides with Roosevelt-Wilson High School at Clarksburg, W. Va.

Probable starting lineups for tonight's game here:

| Pos. | Fort Hill | Ridgeley |
|---|---|---|
| LE | Burke (22) | P. Lindsay (43) |
| LT | Corbin (33) | Wilson (45) |

West Virginia Gets Alleged Race Fixer

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—A writ of habeus corpus to prevent the extradition of Peter Del Pozzo, 30-year-old restaurateur, to West Virginia, where he is wanted on charges of bribery to fix a horse race, was withdrawn today before Supreme Court Justice Feliz C. Benvenga.

In withdrawing the writ, Del Pozzo's attorney, Caesar Barra, told Justice Benevenga that on the basis of latest information he believed that his client "was in the demanding state (West Virginia) at the time."

For that reason, he said, he consented to the return of Del Pozzo with Deputy Sheriff C. H. Dodson of Jefferson County, W. Va.

District's Topnotch Grid Teams Clash Here Tonight

The Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE SPORTS WRITER

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (INS) — Most of us feel pretty good if we can put the arm on a pal for 10 for 20 bucks if we need some fresh scratch in a hurry.

But I know a fellow who if he needs some new folding money can get 10 or 20 of those coarse green thousand-dollar notes any day in the week just for the asking. And he won't even be asked to give a note for the dough.

The lad in question is Joe Louis. The place he can get the money is the 20th Century Sporting Club, Inc. and the fellow who will lay it on the line for him is Sol Strauss.

I know that is true because Sol himself told me so today. "And that," he added, "should put a damper on all those silly rumors about Louis being broke. I only wish I were as broke in the same way."

Sol adjusted his famous ear trumpet—the one that allows him to hear only what he wants to hear—and continued: "Joe can step in here any day and get 10 grand or twice that much if he wants it and no questions asked.

"And I'll tell you something else. When Joe quits fighting he can have a life-time job with this organization if he wants it."

Well, that was a new slant, surely, and I asked Sol what kind of a job Joe could handle.

"Oh," said Sol nonchalantly, "we'd make one for him. But I'm sure he'll never need a job. Joe has all the money he'll ever need. He has two apartment houses and he has annuities. And he still is a potential big money earner in the ring.

"And while I'm at it, I might just as well tell you something about Joe and Uncle Sam. Were you aware that Joe paid $475,000 in taxes last year, including $110,000 back stuff?

"For years Uncle Sam collected about half a million from Joe for taxes and once I got back about $10,000 Joe overpaid his Uncle Samuel.

"The government was dunning Joe for taxes even when he was in the army overseas. I made a dicker with the tax people to pay half on account and the rest later. But Joe said no, pay it all. That's the kind of a citizen Joe is."

Sol took a slug of water out of a silver carafe on Mike Jacobs' old desk and resumed: "you know, this soft stuff reminds me that Joe also is heavily interested in a soft drink that's making money for him."

I said "look around the room, Sol, and maybe some other article will remind you of something else about Louis."

Sol chuckled: "You think you're kidding me, but I might at that because Joe has or will have more things going for him in a financial way than you ever dreamed about."

I told Sol I was listening attentively but that's where Sol clammed up on me. Then he added:

"Don't forget Joe lays his title on the line against Jersey Joe Walcott in the Garden Dec. 5 and nobody knows how Joe will be after almost a year and a half of idleness and he may even lose his title and—"

But I said, "Sol, old boy, when you try to sell me on Walcott beating Louis, that's where I came in and where I go out," and I did.

Locals Seek Revenge For 25 To 6 Setback

Coach Charles Waterman's Carver High School six man football team will play Ramer Memorial High School of Martinsburg, W. Va., in a return game today at Community Park at 3 p. m.

Ramer defeated Carver by the score of 25 to 6 in Martinsburg several weeks ago and the Frederick Street team will be out to square up matters in the return contest

Carver reached the .500 mark for the season last week by defeating Page Jackson High School of Charles Town here to the tune of 32 to 16.

A return game will be played in Charles Town, W. Va., Friday, November 7.

HUNTING AND FISHING IN PENNSYLVANIA IS STOPPED BY GOVERNOR

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Governor James H. Duff, acting to protect Pennsylvania's forests from fire, today halted all hunting and fishing in woodlands of the commonwealth from October 27 until rainfall ends the present dangerous conditions.

The executive at the same time closed until further notice all state forests, game lands and preserves "to all persons except those entering the said lands by reason of necessary business or state employment." This also is effective Oct. 27.

The action came a week before opening Nov. 1, of the small game season which was expected to put more than 800,000 hunters into the field.

Diplomats' End Grabs 13 Of 16 Aimed At Him

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Bill Iannicelli is catching 81 per cent of the passes aimed at him and his Coach Charley Soleau said today "he has all the qualities of an All America in every respect."

Bill, who pronounces his last name "Yahn-I-Kelly," is a quiet unassuming war veteran of 23, a senior and an end on the unbeaten gridiron team of Franklin and Marshall College, plus being a leading American javelin hope for the '48 Olympics.

In three games played, the Altoona (Pa) wingmen has grabbed 13 of 16 aerials tossed at him by the Diplomats' duo of passers, Eddie Trees of Harrisburg, Pa., and Don Watson of Ridgefield, N. J.

In addition to making a sizeable share of catches, Bill has lugged the ball 348 yards or an average of 27 yards per pass.

Iannicelli is no stranger to "all" ratings, the 5-foot-10 end was chosen All Pennsylvania and Little All America in 1943, as well as second team All East and honorable mention All America. That was before his military service.

Said Soleau: "Iannicelli is not only the best end I have ever coached but one of the best I have ever seen in action. He is a great competitor, especially when the chips are down. He is also a great team player."

F. & M., whose enrollment numbers 1,300, has licked Swarthmore and Lebanon Valley (coached, incidentally, by Soleau's old mentor Andy Kerr, late of Colgate university) and played a 13-13 tie with Albright.

Expected To Regain Money Winning Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—A seemingly sour and stale Stymie may have little more to do than complete the course in Saturday's rich Gallant Fox Handicap at Jamaica to regain the world money-winning title.

As of today, a small field was in prospect for the $75,000 added, mile and five furlong special and fourth money of $3,750 would enable Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' pennies-to-platinum six-year-old to oust Warren Wright's Armed from the top rung on the golden ladder.

At present Stymie, which Hirsch Jacobs claimed as a juvenile for $1,500 and developed into one of the turf's best handicap stars, is a mere $1,790 under the glamor gelding which replaced the Jacobs veteran earlier this month with a victory in Belmont Park's Sysonby mile. Armed has earned $761,500 to Stymie's $759,710.

Possibly six horses will start which would make the event, won by Stymie a year ago in track record time, gross $81,700. With $54,850 to the victor any addition or scratch would amount to $500—the starting fee—either way.

The others listed by the secretary's office as likely starters are R. N. Ryan's Talon and Mrs. Barclay K. Douglas' Miss Grillo, Argentine Stars Trinaed by H. A. Luro; Herman Salomon's Stage Bond; William Helis's Elpis and J. J. Watts' Harmonica. Bare possibilities are Donor and Catana.

Gillenwater Asks To Be Free Agent

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 23 (AP)—Carden Gillenwater, outfielder for the Milwaukee club of the American Association, said today he would ask Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler "to declare me a free agent."

Gillenwater said his proposed action would stem from the fact his recent sale by the Milwaukee club to the Boston Braves had been nullified by Chandler's office.

The commissioner's office ruled after the sale that Gillenwater, who led the association in home runs last season with 25, should be returned to Milwaukee until after the major league draft Nov. 11. The action was taken, it was said, because Gillenwater had been out on option three times.

REAL FOOTBALL HERO—It's a little early to select the All-American football team but we'd like to give you the name of the boy who should be its mascot. He is Billy Casey, 13, of Madison, Wis. Billy is a football player on St. Patrick's grade school team in the City Parochial league. He's a reserve center and plays at least half of every game in the league which features seven-man, two-handed touch football. In touch football the center is eligible to receive passes and Billy has caught several although he hasn't scored yet. Billy is no ordinary football player. He has no legs. He lost 'em just below the knee when he was in the third grade. And Billy has only one good eye; the other's a glass eye. When Billy reported for the team, he didn't tell the coach he had wooden legs. A teammate revealed it three days later. Billy wants to go to Notre Dame and be a place-kicker.

Keyser High Scores 7-0 Triumph Over Pioneers

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 23—Keyser High School remained in the running for the Potomac Valley Conference football title by defeating a stubborn Romney eleven here today by the score of 7 to 0.

The game was moved ahead one day on account of the Potomac State-Salem contest here Friday.

The Golden Tornado scored the lone touchdown of the game in the opening period when Johnny Spitzer went over from the six-yard line to climax a 59-yard drive. Spitzer also ran the extra point.

Romney advanced to the Keyser 25-yard stripe on one occasion but lost the ball on the downs.

Spitzer was Keyser's chief ground gainer as Coach Fred "Tack" Clark's team rolled up 203 yards rushing but suffered penalties totaling 125 yards. Once the locals were penalized 45 yards—half the distance to the goal line—for slugging.

Keyser failed to complete a single pass in seven tries and one of the aerials was intercepted.

Romney connected for two passes in 11 attempts and had three intercepted. The Pioneers gained only 77 net yards on the ground.

Bernard Elbon and Neill Wensell were Keyser's outstanding linemen. The longest run of the game was 42 yards by Harold Raines, Keyser fullback.

The victory was Keyser's second against a single loss in the conference. Romney has won two and lost two in the P.V.C.

Next Friday afternoon Moorefield will play Keyser here and Ridgeley will play at Romney in important conference battles. Lineups:

Shirey Pilots Three Winners At Wheeling

Bob Shirey, apprentice rider from Hyndman, Pa., booted home three winners yesterday at Wheeling Downs, W. Va.

He scored with Miss Amy ($7.80) in the 5th, Friar Gene ($5) in the 7th and Midknight ($24.80) in the 8th. Shirey won place money in the second race.

Wheeling's 52-day meet will end on Saturday.

Mrs. McConnell Sets Outdoor Loop Record

Mrs. Mildred McConnell hung up a new record for women in the Cumberland Outdoor Club's Mixed Bowling League this week when she spilled 442 maples on the Savoy alleys as the Polecats were taking two out of three games from the Weasels. The previous high for three games was a 408 by L. Melvin. G. Leasure headed the losers with a 413 set.

The Wildcats strengthened their grip on first place in the league by defeating the Squirrels in two out of three games. L. Robinson's 383 was high for the victors and B. Pollock's 429 paced the Squirrels.

Gamecocks Top Clemson, 21-19

South Carolina Wins On Intercepted Pass

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 23 (AP)—A weary but determined band of South Carolina Gamecocks staved off a nearly-successful fourth period Clemson rally to edge the favored Tigers 21-19 before a capacity state fair crowd of 25,000 today.

The accurate point-after touchdown kicking of substitute guard Pete Lane spelled a Southern Conference victory for the Gamecocks as the clock ran out on a final Clemson drive at midfield.

The Tigers outpunched the Gamecocks often in line plays and had no serious competition to Bobby Gage's and Carl Cox's fine passing. It was an intercepted Clemson pass that cost the Tigers the game.

Momentarily set back by a fumble in the final period when they were trailing 14-12, the Tigers appeared to be setting up a long scoring march when Gamecock fullback Bobby Giles, in for Red Harrison, grabbed a Gage throw near the sideline on the Tiger 16 and ran it to the Tiger one. Giles plunged over on the next play. Score:

Gridder Is Injured When Shotgun Discharges

MONROE, Wis., Oct. 23 (AP)—Frederick Huber, 16, quarterback on the Monroe High School football team, was injured seriously last night when hit in the upper leg by the charge of a 12-gauge shotgun in the squad's dressing room.

Asst. Police Chief Henry S. Hefty said the incident took place as the squad dressed after practice. He said the gun, ownership of which remained in doubt, was found in a corner of the locker room and was discharged accidentally as the team members passed it around for examination.

British Golfers Expect To Wallop U. S. Ryder Outfit

"We Didn't Come Over To Lose," Cotton Says

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—Something new in the way of British sports teams reached these shores today when the redoubtable Henry Cotton led his Ryder Cup golfers down the Queen Mary's gangplank.

Henry and his fellow professionals made it immediately and abundantly clear that they expect to wallop the pick of this country's money players in their two-day international match at Portland, Ore., Nov. 1 and 2.

"We didn't come over here to lose," Cotton said a couple of minutes after his feet hit the pier. "We have a team of sound players and we have every bit of confidence. This is the best cup team I've ever played on."

This was most unusual. It has been customary in such cases for the sporting visitor from Britain to venture that "we intend to have a jolly good try at you fellows," but never, either directly or by implication, to admit that he was thinking seriously of winning.

The men who got in today obviously are a different breed of cats, not only Cotton, but each of them, individually, declared without coaxing that he was a member of a fine golf team imbued with a winning spirit.

"I don't believe we've ever had a team with as wonderful spirit as this one has," said Dai Rees, the little Welsh star. "Everyone likes everyone else, and all we are thinking about is winning. We should have a fine match at Portland."

Cotton reminded his fellow players and reporters that the British professionals never had won on this side since the Ryder Cup matches started in 1929, but added smilingly that "we hope to do better than the other teams."

BRUCE, CENTRAL PLAY FOR "C" TITLE; BEALL TO SEEK WMI CROWN

Two titles are at stake today in the W.M.I. Soccer League.

Beall High is scheduled to play in Barton and if the Frostburg eleven wins it will give Coach Eddie Finzel's booters league honors for the 1947 season.

The outcome of today's Central-Bruce tilt at Lonaconing may determine which team will represent Allegany county in the Maryland inter-county tournaments for Class "C" schools.

Bruce won the series opener 1-0 and if Central wins today's game a playoff game will be necessary to determine the county's representative.

Beall already has qualified to compete in the state Class "A" tourney and Barton will vie for Class "D" honors.

Ray Middleton will officiate at 'Coney and Ed Thompson will work the game at Barton.

Meet The Coach

By JACK SORDS

GRADUATE of the United States Military Academy in 1916, Brig. Gen. Robert R. (Bob) Neyland has been head coach at the University of Tennessee since 1926 with the exception of a five-year World War II absence.

This is his second year back at the helm of the Vols and he piloted his eleven into the Orange Bowl last January 1 although Rice beat his team, 8-0.

While at the Academy Neyland was an outstanding athlete, participating in football, baseball and boxing. He served in the first World War as captain and temporary major.

In his long service with Tennessee teams he has been ranked high among the coaches and annually turns out fine teams. He has developed several All-American players and also has guided his teams into various Bowl games.

Neyland was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Merit for his service in World War II.

Football Selections

(Following are the selections by International News Service experts in various sections on the big football games this week. Total picks to date show 182 right, 54 wrong for 77 percent).

EAST

By Pat Robinson

Army 21, Columbia 7—Army's line too strong. No team has yet scored on Army.

Boston College 14, Villanova 13—A bruising toss-up. Edge to BC at home.

William & Mary 20, Boston University 7—W. & M. has more speed and power.

Temple 28, Bucknell 7—Temple should be too deep for Bucknell.

Dartmouth 14, Harvard 10—We agree with coaches' consensus. Edge to Dartmouth.

Georgetown 21, NYU 14—Georgetown too big and strong for weak NYU.

Holy Cross 14, Syracuse 0—It's now or never for disappointing H. C.

Rutgers 35, Lehigh 0—Rutgers has far too much stuff for old foe.

Penn State 20, W. Va. 7—Both unbeaten but P. S. among east's best.

MIDWEST

By Charles Einstein

Western Michigan 20, Butler 12—Grade B, but a ball game.

Cincinnati 33, Xavier 6—More fodder for Cincy.

Duquesne 27, Detroit 19—Rambling Dukes are vicious.

Northwestern 20, Indiana 19 — Easier said than done.

Notre Dame 40, Iowa 6—Irish win again, even if they're not neat.

Kentucky 20, Michigan State 7—Past performance pick.

Wisconsin 34, Marquette 14—We'll be plumb out of neighbors next week.

Michigan 39, Minnesota 20 — Tradition alone can't upset here.

BIG SIX & MISSOURI VALLEY

By Bob Warner

Nebraska 28, Kansas State 14—A good show for General Ike.

Oklahoma Aggies 30, Drake 12—Sixth straight loss for Drake.

SOUTHWEST

By Troy Gordon

Texas 20, Rice 13—Rice is always tough for Texas.

Baylor 19, Texas A. & M. 7 — Baylor wins its fifth straight.

SOUTH

By Ed Thilenius

Georgia 21, Alabama 13 — The Bulldogs are unbeatable at home.

Tulane 13, Auburn 6—The Greenies fail to read Tidwell's clippings.

Duke 20, Wake Forest 7—The Blue Devils still undefeated.

Furman 12, Wafford 0—The Purple Hurricane to howl Saturday.

Richmond 19, Hampden Sidney 0—A happy win for the home team.

The tri-state district's only undefeated and untied team will battle it out with the district's highest scoring eleven when Ridgeley (W. Va.) High School locks horns with Fort Hill High School tonight at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

Coach Jesse Riggleman's Blackhawks, victorious in four starts against Petersburg, Allegany, Keyser and Moorefield this season, and boasting a record of eight straight wins over two seasons, will face the Sentinels of Coach William P. Hahn who have rolled up 215 points in six contests and have bagged their last five games after losing the lid-lifter to Washington and Lee High at Arlington, Va.

Both teams have played Keyser and Moorefield. Fort Hill beat Moorefield by two touchdowns and Ridgeley won by a single touchdown. The Sentinels beat Keyser by 33 points while Ridgeley won by the margin of 13 points.

Sentinels Rule Favorites

A majority of those who have seen both teams play figure Fort Hill to win by two or three touchdowns. Many Ridgeley followers point to the fact that the Hawks held last year's city championship Fort Hill team to a scoreless tie and see no reason why the Mineral Countians can't spill the Hilltoppers this time. Those who like Sentinels say they are too fast and powerful for Ridgeley's slow moving team.

It will be the fifth meeting of the schools in football and Ridgeley will be striving to break a string of four shutouts suffered at the hands of the local gridders. Prior to last year's 0-0 battle, the scores were 47-0, 36-0 and 45-0.

Fans have been looking forward to this game as the biggest of the year to date and there is every indication that one of the season's largest crowds will be in the stands for the opening kick-off.

Seats are not reserved for this game. The gates will open at 6:30 o'clock.

Franklin Vs. Moorefield

In today's only Potomac Valley Conference game, Moorefield's Yellow Jackets will play hosts to the Franklin High School Panthers in Moorefield at 2:30 p. m. Despite a defeat at the hands of Ridgeley, the Jackets are still in the running for the P.V.C. title.

Coach Homer Brooks' Parsons Panthers, victorious in four out of five games played to date, will invade Petersburg today to battle it out with Coach Walt Owens' Petersburg High Vikings.

Emil Suder's Thomas High eleven will conclude its six-game schedule by playing Terra Alta High School this afternoon at Terra Alta in Preston county.

Ferndale Tests Bedford

At Bedford, Pa., tonight Coach Bruce Fisher's Bedford High Bisons will play their eighth game on their 10-game schedule by tackling the Ferndale Yellow Jackets of Johnstown under the arcs at 8 o'clock. Ferndale is the school at which Fisher coached basketball and football teams for many years before transferring to Bedford. Bedford has won five, lost one and tied one. Its only defeat was at the hands of another Johnstown team—Westmont—the score being 26-6. A 12-12 tie was played with Somerset.

Local high school teams will engage in two Saturday night games. LaSalle meets Mooseheart (Ill.) here and Allegany collides with Roosevelt-Wilson High School at Clarksburg, W. Va.

Probable starting lineups for tonight's game here:

West Virginia Gets Alleged Race Fixer

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—A writ of habeus corpus to prevent the extradition of Peter Del Pozzo, 30-year-old restaurateur, to West Virginia, where he is wanted on charges of bribery to fix a horse race, was withdrawn today before Supreme Court Justice Feliz C. Benvenga.

In withdrawing the writ, Del Pozzo's attorney, Caesar Barra, told Justice Benevenga that on the basis of latest information he believed that his client "was in the demanding state (West Virginia) at the time."

For that reason, he said, he consented to the return of Del Pozzo with Deputy Sheriff C. H. Dodson of Jefferson County, W. Va.

By J. B. KESSEL

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 23—Coach Frank Damiani will bring his fighting Salem Tigers here Friday gunning for an upset victory over the pacesetting Potomac State Catamounts. A Salem victory will keep the Tigers in contending position for the West Virginia Football Conference crown as their two victories and one tie in conference battles places them in fourth place with West Virginia Wesleyan and Fairmont State. Only an opening season tie with West Liberty blemishes the Cats' record. Since their opening tilt with the Hilltoppers the Cats have rung up four straight conference wins to place second behind the Golden Bears of West Virginia Tech. A Catamount defeat Friday could throw the title race wide open.

Salem comes to town sporting a record of 2-2 for the season and 2-1 in the conference. They topped Wesleyan 7-6 in the opener, lost to Davis and Elkins 0-12, fell before East Tennessee 2-14, and scored over Shepherd last week 12-7.

Coached By Former Pro

Coach Damiana, who played professional football with the New York Giants and was later assistant coach to Lou Little at Columbia for three years, will field a well coached aggregation that should uncork one of the most diversified attacks seen on Stayman field this season.

According to information received here, his charges operate mainly from the single wing and will possibly divert to the "T." They send their backs out wide and employ the quarterback sneak to advantage.

A pessimistic pitch was sounded yesterday when Coach Lough's, previously announced conditioned, team came up with a horde of backfield injuries. Lough asserted that he would be hard pressed for backfield material as backs Bill McProuty, Lou Bonato, Bob Sauders, Tom Ritter, Homer Henderson, and Joe Stanislawczyk will see little if any action. Another blow to Potomac State hopes was dealt when Lough announced that All-State end Ed Burns would be riding the bench due to a shoulder injury sustained early in the season.

The Cats are due to cut loose soon and run up a bucket of points on some luckless opponent. Nevertheless, on the basis of their past two performances against Davis Elkins and Shepherd, another close decision is in the making. However, if the Staters can find the combination that can punch to paydirt after driving the opposition silly, they should be able to win by a score of their own choosing. Perhaps Coach Lough expected to ignite this combination when he inserted speed merchants Brooks Harris and Jack Dorsey into the starting line-up.

Potomac State which will be seeking its fifth straight win, is playing Salem for the fifth time in the past fifteen years. The series began in 1933 when Salem took the Staters by the score of 20-7. The following year, the Tigers were again victorious 21-7. Salem won its third straight in 1936 after an elapse of a year, 20-6. Potomac State won its initial game of the series, when the two teams met 10 years later, 20-0, in a nocturnal tilt at Grafton.

Kickoff Set For 2 P. M.

The officials were announced Wednesday evening as: "Eck" Miers, Steve Harrick, and Patsy Tork.

The day has been designated as High School Day. All students of the local area will be admitted to the game at special reduced rates. The kick-off has been set for 2 p. m. Probable starting lineups:

By J. B. KESSEL

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 23—Coach Frank Damiani will bring his fighting Salem Tigers here Friday gunning for an upset victory over the pacesetting Potomac State Catamounts. A Salem victory will keep the Tigers in contending position for the West Virginia Football Conference crown as their two victories and one tie in conference battles places them in fourth place with West Virginia Wesleyan and Fairmont State. Only an opening season tie with West Liberty blemishes the Cats' record. Since their opening tilt with the Hilltoppers the Cats have rung up four straight conference wins to place second behind the Golden Bears of West Virginia Tech. A Catamount defeat Friday could throw the title race wide open.

Salem comes to town sporting a record of 2-2 for the season and 2-1 in the conference. They topped Wesleyan 7-6 in the opener, lost to Davis and Elkins 0-12, fell before East Tennessee 2-14, and scored over Shepherd last week 12-7.

Coached By Former Pro

Coach Damiana, who played professional football with the New York Giants and was later assistant coach to Lou Little at Columbia for three years, will field a well coached aggregation that should uncork one of the most diversified attacks seen on Stayman field this season.

According to information received here, his charges operate mainly from the single wing and will possibly divert to the "T." They send their backs out wide and employ the quarterback sneak to advantage.

A pessimistic pitch was sounded yesterday when Coach Lough's, previously announced conditioned, team came up with a horde of backfield injuries. Lough asserted that he would be hard pressed for backfield material as backs Bill McProuty, Lou Bonato, Bob Sauders, Tom Ritter, Homer Henderson, and Joe Stanislawczyk will see little if any action. Another blow to Potomac State hopes was dealt when Lough announced that All-State end Ed Burns would be riding the bench due to a shoulder injury sustained early in the season.

The Cats are due to cut loose soon and run up a bucket of points on some luckless opponent. Nevertheless, on the basis of their past two performances against Davis Elkins and Shepherd, another close decision is in the making. However, if the Staters can find the combination that can punch to paydirt after driving the opposition silly, they should be able to win by a score of their own choosing. Perhaps Coach Lough expected to ignite this combination when he inserted speed merchants Brooks Harris and Jack Dorsey into the starting line-up.

Potomac State which will be seeking its fifth straight win, is playing Salem for the fifth time in the past fifteen years. The series began in 1933 when Salem took the Staters by the score of 20-7. The following year, the Tigers were again victorious 21-7. Salem won its third straight in 1936 after an elapse of a year, 20-6. Potomac State won its initial game of the series, when the two teams met 10 years later, 20-0, in a nocturnal tilt at Grafton.

Kickoff Set For 2 P. M.

The officials were announced Wednesday evening as: "Eck" Miers, Steve Harrick, and Patsy Tork.

The day has been designated as High School Day. All students of the local area will be admitted to the game at special reduced rates. The kick-off has been set for 2 p. m. Probable starting lineups:

| Pos. | Potomac State | Salem |
|---|---|---|
| LE | Rogers | Stout |
| LT | Lefever | Tauletti |
| LG | Walley | Petrolezzi |
| C | Shaffer | Gibbs |
| RG | Basilio | Vanscoy |
| RT | Stultz | F. Swisher |
| RE | Ballard | McLean |
| RH | Dorsey | Cackowski |
| LH | Harris | W. Swisher |
| FB | Ruyak | Rowe |

New York City's subway system is the largest passenger-carrying railroad in the world, 5,716,000 fares being collected every day as 7,000 trains speed over 740 miles of subterranean track.

Barton Wins County Class D Soccer Title

Brennan's Field Goals Defeat Flintstone, 3-1

"Mike" Scores Thrice In Final Of Series

FROSTBURG, Oct. 23—Emmett "Mike" Brennan, center forward, booted three field goals in the third quarter today to give Coach Paul Footen's Barton High School eleven a 3 to 1 victory over Flintstone High School in a game that decided the Class D soccer championship of Allegany county.

The triumph enabled Barton to move into the inter-county tournament and the Garrett County winner likely will be Barton's next opponent on November 6.

Today's game was the third and final of the series between the schools. Flintstone won the opener 2-0 and Barton annexed the second contest 3-0.

Barton threatened numerous times in the first half of today's battle but failed to connect after working the ball into a scoring position and it was 0-0 when the teams left the field for intermission.

Then "Mike" Brennan went on a scoring rampage and put the game on ice for Barton by pounding three goals between the uprights within five minutes. Both teams went scoreless in the final period.

The work of Barton's halfbacks, especially pleasing to Coach Footen, kept the forwards well supplied in addition to halting Flintstone threats. Bobby Green, left halfback, seemed to be in every play and his timing and kicking was noteworthy. He was ably supported by Capt. Lamberson and Bill Inskeep. Hebner and Heavner were Flintstone's outstanding players.

Lineups:

| Pos. | Barton (3) | Flintstone (1) |
|---|---|---|

Brennan's Field Goals Defeat Flintstone, 3-1

"Mike" Scores Thrice In Final Of Series

FROSTBURG, Oct. 23—Emmett "Mike" Brennan, center forward, booted three field goals in the third quarter today to give Coach Paul Footen's Barton High School eleven a 3 to 1 victory over Flintstone High School in a game that decided the Class D soccer championship of Allegany county.

The triumph enabled Barton to move into the inter-county tournament and the Garrett County winner likely will be Barton's next opponent on November 6.

Today's game was the third and final of the series between the schools. Flintstone won the opener 2-0 and Barton annexed the second contest 3-0.

Barton threatened numerous times in the first half of today's battle but failed to connect after working the ball into a scoring position and it was 0-0 when the teams left the field for intermission.

Then "Mike" Brennan went on a scoring rampage and put the game on ice for Barton by pounding three goals between the uprights within five minutes. Both teams went scoreless in the final period.

The work of Barton's halfbacks, especially pleasing to Coach Footen, kept the forwards well supplied in addition to halting Flintstone threats. Bobby Green, left halfback, seemed to be in every play and his timing and kicking was noteworthy. He was ably supported by Capt. Lamberson and Bill Inskeep. Hebner and Heavner were Flintstone's outstanding players.

Lineups:

| Pos. | Barton (3) | Flintstone (1) |

| FLINTSTONE | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | —1 |

Field goals scored by P. Bridges, Brennan 3.

Substitutes: Barton—Don Bean. Flintstone—Smith, Davis, Chambers, Dicken, Rice, Perdew.

Referee—Ray Middleton.

It is estimated that at least one-third of those who now die of cancer could be saved if they could be diagnosed and treated during the early stages of the disease.

Will Televise Game

New Route 40 Right-Of-Way Being Cleared

Construction Of New Housing Is Underway

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—Considerable new housing construction is underway in that section of Eckhart, located on and near the right-of-way for the relocation of Route 40.

With the moving of the James Beechle residence approximately 70 feet back of the right-of-way, and more recently the moving of the O'Brien house a distance of 200 feet to a new location on the Parkersburg Road, the right-of-way is cleared from Clarysville to the property of Wayne Myers in the central part of the Parkersburg district.

The old building on the Myers property, formerly the Rackhel Porter home built 70 years ago, is being razed and the materials are being used for the erection of a new building in the upper corner of the same lot. The new building, now well under construction, is a frame dwelling set high on a concrete block foundatnon. Its erection was made necessary because the old building was in the center of the right-of-way for the new road.

The Porter interests, formed through the purchase of the former Leatham property, are having lot surveys made and it is reported that a number have already been sold. This property is in the vicinity of the new Eckhart school and close to the right-of-way of the new Route 40. Other new construction in Eckhart is a new concrete garage and frame dwelling being erected by John Wright ,excavation being made for a new home for Paul Hager and the new brick dwelling being built by Clarence Wright in the Boston Hill section. Joseph Weisenborn is also building a 30 by 40 concrete block structure on the lower Parkersburg Road.

Edward Wagner Dies

Edward Wagner, 66, died Thursday, October 16, at his home in Cleveland, Ohio. He was the husband of the former Miss Elsie Green, daughter of the late Rev. J. T. Green and Mary Green. He was a brother-in-law of Oscar Robeson, Linden Street, who with Mrs. Robeson attended the funeral which was seld in Cleveland. Other local relatives who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. George Jeffrey and sons, James, Francis and Rev. George Jeffrey; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stafford and daughter, Shirley, Lonaconing, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fazenbaker and son, Junior, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Magruder, Westernport.

"Laymen's Sunday" Planned

First Presbyterian Church will observe "Laymen's Sunday" at the morning service next Sunday, October 26. Rev. John Taylor, pastor, will be assisted in the pulpit by representatives of the three boards of the church.

Enoch B. Prichard retired local businessman, a member of the church since 1894 and an elder since 1918, will speak on the subject, "Jesus, a Friend of Man." James T. Taylor, president of the trustees, will lead in the responsive reading, and Robert W. Jones, a deacon, will read the Scripture lesson.

Radio Play Given

The regular assembly of Beall High School held Thursday featured a radio play (a fantasy) the subject of which was, "Why are our dollars in such demand?"

The cast of characters included Mr. Dollar, Glen Davis; Mrs. Dollar, Susan Diehl; Bill Dollar, Louis Abright; Guard, Donald Blair; Economist, Jack Kesner; British housewife, Darlene Brain; Italian business man, William Yates; French Child, Lena Steele; announcer, George Tippen.

There was a piano solo by Richard Rephann, entitled Manhattan Serenade, and a musical trio by Jack Yutzy, Gene Yutzy, and Richard Rephann.

Church Services Moved

On account of the redecoration work being done at First Methodist Church, Frostburg, there will not be any services in the church on Sunday. The Sunday School service at 9:30 a. m. and the church service at 10:45 a. m. will be held in Beall Elementary School.

Classes that have been meeting in the homes will continue to meet as follows: Men's Class at Mrs. H. R. Taylor's, 53 West Main Street; Gleaners Class at Mrs. William Jenkins' 49 West Main Street; Grace Class at Mrs. H. G. Evans', 61 West Main Street; Eva Jeffries' Class at Mrs. R. O. Layman's, 41 West Main Street; Van Dyke Class at Mrs. Herbert Griffith's, 80 West Main Street; Young Adult Class at the parsonage, 46 West Main Street; Young People's Class at Mrs. John G. Cook's, 28 West Mechanic Street.

The redecoration will be finished in time for the reopening of the church on Sunday, November 2, according to announcement of Rev. Watson E. Holley, pastor.

Frostburg Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. George Weidley, Baltimore, announce the birth of a son, George Samuel Weidley, Jr., Tuesday, October 21, in a Baltimore hospital. The child is a grandson of Rev. and Mrs. Paul A. Weidley, former residents of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lashly, 238 West Mechanic Street, announce the birth of a son Wednesday morning in Miners Hospital.

The young Adult Fellowship of First Methodist Church held a business meeting Wednesday evening at Layman's Farm, Garrett County. The meeting was preceded by a chicken dinner. Arthur W. Taylor was the guest speaker at the dinner. His topic related to characteristics of young adults. There was also group singing. About 30 guests attended. The next meeting will be a hobo party at the home of Miss Alma Logsdon, Depot Road.

The honor guard of Farrady Post, No. 24, American Legion, with Olin Spiker, guard commander, and Rev. Walter D. Mehrling, chaplain, had charge of the military honors conferred at the funeral of Ronald Grimm, veteran of World War II, who was buried in St. Patrick's cemetery, Mt. Savage, Tuesday morning, and Robert Andrews, veteran of the Spanish American War, whose service was conducted Wednesday at the Mt. Savage Methodist Church.

Lawrence Winebrenner, 38, Slabtown, an employe of the Big Savage Refractories Corporation, sustained a fracture of the right knee and sprained both ankles Wednesday afternoon in a fall while repairing the roof of the residence of J. H. Cruson, West Main Street. The scaffolding gave way and he fell to the ground a distance of about 25 feet.

He is a patient at Miners' Hospital where he will undergo a knee operation. Winebrenner is the father of four children and resides with his wife, the former Marie McKenzie, at Slabtown.

Frostburg Personals

Dr. J. J. Phillips, Retired Minister, Returns To Native Tucker County

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va.—Rev. J. J. Phillips, D. D., 71, a Tucker County native, has returned to this county to make his home since his retirement from the ministry, after serving more than 47 years.

Dr. Phillips was born at Texas Mountain July 14, 1876, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, who were among the first members of the Methodist Protestant Church after its organization in the early years of 1850 to 1860.

Dr. Phillips was educated in public schools of this county and taught for two years. In 1895 he was licensed to preach and was admitted to probationary membership in the conference in 1899. He was ordained an elder in the church the same year.

He was graduated from Lanier University and in 1922 that university conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. He also studied under Dr. Chase of Harvard in a New Testament Greek course.

Dr. Phillips began his long career of ministerial work at Etam, Preston County, followed by charges at Reedsville, Marion, Friendly, Georgetown, Bridgeport, Parsons and Rowlesburg, having served in Parsons from 1917 until the fall of 1918. He served for several years as pastor of the First Church of Fairmont, Fairview Church in Clarksburg, and Morgantown. He retired in 1942.

Dr. Phillips served as president of the Conference in 1915 and was re-elected in 1916. He was a delegate to five sessions of General Conference during his active ministry.

In July, 1896, he married Miss May Walton, daughter of the late John Samuel and Rebecca Moore Walton. This year the couple celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary.

They are the parents of two sons, Oliver, Bel Air, Md., and Cecil O. Phillips, a representative of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, who was graduated from Parsons High School during his father's pastorate here.

They also have three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Dr. and Mrs. Phillips have purchased the N. P. Fankhouser home on Pennsylvania Avenue in Parsons and expect to spend the remainder of their lives here.

Dr. Phillips became a member of the Quarterly Conference of St. John's and First Methodist Churches of Parsons at a meeting this week.

New Row 500 Club Is Entertained

By MRS. ROSE O'ROURKE

MT. SAVAGE—The G. N. 500 Club of Calla Hill entertained the New Row 500 Club Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Thelma Green, Jealous Row. Mrs. Green and Mrs. Margaret Crowe were hostesses.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Maud Holsinger, high; Mrs. Roy Deffenbaugh, second, and Mrs. Freda McKenzie, consolation. Refreshments were served. The next meeting of the G. N. Club will be at the home of Mrs. Edith Lancaster, Jealous Row.

Brief Mention

The Parent-Teacher Association of Mt. Savage School will hold a Halloween social in the school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. Decorations and costumes will be in keeping with the spirit of Halloween.

A social for the benefit of St. Patrick's Church will be held in St. Patrick's Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

A large delegation of men from St. Patrick's Church is expected to attend the celebration at St. Patrick's Church, Cumberland, Sunday afternoon in honor of the feast of Christ the King.

Personals

Mrs. Charles Carney has returned from Simpson, W. Va., where she visited her sister, Mrs. David Williamson.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Womack and son, Buddy, have returned to Alexandria after visiting Mrs. Womack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walsh.

Pfc. Harry Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Campbell, graduated from Air Training Command Airplane Mechanics School, Lowery Field, Denver.

Mrs. John Richardson and children, John and Catherine, Mrs. Rennie Richardson, Miss Katie Richardson and Herbert Zimmerman, Jeanette, visited Mrs. Mary Fannon, Columbia Avenue.

Dr. F. W. Smith To Address Students

By DAVID E. KIRK

BARTON — Dr. Frederick W. Smith, Baltimore, will speak to the students of Barton High School this morning at an assembly program at 11 o'clock, Alfred H. Benna, principal, announced.

Smith will speak on the alcohol problem facing them.

He will be accompanied by Rev. Watson Holly, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg, and Rev. L. J. Moore, pastor of Barton Methodist Church.

Bus Agency Changed

The Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company has named Kirk's confectionery as its agency in the Barton territory, Walter E. Mackay, secretary, announced today.

The change becomes effective immediately and buses will stop in front of Kirk's instead of the Presbyterian Church, the present stop. Tickets will be available at the agency, Mackay stated.

Brief Mention

Star Council No. 37, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight in Odd Fellow's Hall, Hall Street, at 7:30 p. m.

Pride of Barton No. 77, Daughters of America, will meet on Wednesday, October 29, instead of October 28, Mrs. Myrtle Saville, councilor, stated today. The change was made due to Barton Hose Company sponsoring a Halloween dance in their armory Tuesday night.

Leaders of the Barton Methodist Church taking part in the Methodist Leadership Training School being held this week at Centre Street Methodist Church, Cumberland, are Mrs. James Gattens, president of the W.C.T.U.; Mrs. L. J. Moore, spiritual life leader of the W.S.C.S.; Mrs. Samuel Metz, secretary of W.C.T.U.; Mrs. Marie Sutherland, secretary of fellowship of the W.S.C.S.; Samuel Metz, lay leader; and Rev. L. J. Moore, pastor.

T. J. Gibby Rites Scheduled Today

By MRS. FRANK BLAIR

MIDLAND—A funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. today for Thomas J. Gibby, 71, who died at his home on Paradise Street early Wednesday morning. Rev. Raymond Crowe, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Allegany Cemetery, Frostburg.

Mr. Gibby was born in Lonaconing and was a lifelong resident of Allegany County. He was a son of the late Elizabeth and James Gibby, and was a member of the Lonaconing Masonic Lodge which will conduct the funeral.

Mr. Gibby is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie McIntyre Gibby, and one sister, Mrs. Sarah Richardson, Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Sally Jenkins, Wilson, Pa., is here to attend the funeral.

Personals

Mrs. Walter Baker has gone to Baltimore to make her home with her daughter.

Construction Of New Housing Is Underway

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—Considerable new housing construction is underway in that section of Eckhart, located on and near the right-of-way for the relocation of Route 40.

With the moving of the James Beechie residence approximately 70 feet back of the right-of-way, and more recently the moving of the O'Brien house a distance of 200 feet to a new location on the Parkersburg Road, the right-of-way is cleared from Clarysville to the property of Wayne Myers in the central part of the Parkersburg district.

The old building on the Myers property, formerly the Rackhel Porter home built 70 years ago, is being razed and the materials are being used for the erection of a new building in the upper corner of the same lot. The new building, now well under construction, is a frame dwelling set high on a concrete block foundatnon. Its erection was made necessary because the old building was in the center of the right-of-way for the new road.

The Porter interests, formed through the purchase of the former Leatham property, are having lot surveys made and it is reported that a number have already been sold. This property is in the vicinity of the new Eckhart school and close to the right-of-way of the new Route 40. Other new construction in Eckhart is a new concrete garage and frame dwelling being erected by John Wright ,excavation being made for a new home for Paul Hager and the new brick dwelling being built by Clarence Wright in the Boston Hill section. Joseph Weisenborn is also building a 30 by 40 concrete block structure on the lower Parkersburg Road.

Edward Wagner Dies

Edward Wagner, 66, died Thursday, October 16, at his home in Cleveland, Ohio. He was the husband of the former Miss Elsie Green, daughter of the late Rev. J. T. Green and Mary Green. He was a brother-in-law of Oscar Robeson, Linden Street, who with Mrs. Robeson attended the funeral which was seld in Cleveland. Other local relatives who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. George Jeffrey and sons, James, Francis and Rev. George Jeffrey; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stafford and daughter, Shirley, Lonaconing, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fazenbaker and son, Junior, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Magruder, Westernport.

"Laymen's Sunday" Planned

First Presbyterian Church will observe "Laymen's Sunday" at the morning service next Sunday, October 26. Rev. John Taylor, pastor, will be assisted in the pulpit by representatives of the three boards of the church.

Enoch B. Prichard retired local businessman, a member of the church since 1894 and an elder since 1918, will speak on the subject, "Jesus, a Friend of Man." James T. Taylor, president of the trustees, will lead in the responsive reading, and Robert W. Jones, a deacon, will read the Scripture lesson.

Radio Play Given

The regular assembly of Beall High School held Thursday featured a radio play (a fantasy) the subject of which was, "Why are our dollars in such demand?"

The cast of characters included Mr. Dollar, Glen Davis; Mrs. Dollar, Susan Diehl; Bill Dollar, Louis Abright; Guard, Donald Blair; Economist, Jack Kesner; British housewife, Darlene Brain; Italian business man, William Yates; French Child, Lena Steele; announcer, George Tippen.

There was a piano solo by Richard Rephann, entitled Manhattan Serenade, and a musical trio by Jack Yutzy, Gene Yutzy, and Richard Rephann.

Church Services Moved

On account of the redecoration work being done at First Methodist Church, Frostburg, there will not be any services in the church on Sunday. The Sunday School service at 9:30 a. m. and the church service at 10:45 a. m. will be held in Beall Elementary School.

Classes that have been meeting in the homes will continue to meet as follows: Men's Class at Mrs. H. R. Taylor's, 53 West Main Street; Gleaners Class at Mrs. William Jenkins' 49 West Main Street; Grace Class at Mrs. H. G. Evans', 61 West Main Street; Eva Jeffries' Class at Mrs. R. O. Layman's, 41 West Main Street; Van Dyke Class at Mrs. Herbert Griffith's, 80 West Main Street; Young Adult Class at the parsonage, 46 West Main Street; Young People's Class at Mrs. John G. Cook's, 28 West Mechanic Street.

The redecoration will be finished in time for the reopening of the church on Sunday, November 2, according to announcement of Rev. Watson E. Holley, pastor.

Frostburg Briefs

The Pioneer Class of Welsh Baptist Memorial Church will meet this evening at the home of Miss Mary Morgan, Carlos. Mrs. Mabel Shumaker will be the assisting hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weidley, Baltimore, announce the birth of a son, George Samuel Weidley, Jr., Tuesday, October 21, in a Baltimore hospital. The child is a grandson of Rev. and Mrs. Paul A. Weidley, former residents of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lashly, 238 West Mechanic Street, announce the birth of a son Wednesday morning in Miners Hospital.

The young Adult Fellowship of First Methodist Church held a business meeting Wednesday evening at Layman's Farm, Garrett County. The meeting was preceded by a chicken dinner. Arthur W. Taylor was the guest speaker at the dinner. His topic related to characteristics of young adults. There was also group singing. About 30 guests attended. The next meeting will be a hobo party at the home of Miss Alma Logsdon, Depot Road.

The honor guard of Farrady Post, No. 24, American Legion, with Olin Spiker, guard commander, and Rev. Walter D. Mehrling, chaplain, had charge of the military honors conferred at the funeral of Ronald Grimm, veteran of World War II, who was buried in St. Patrick's cemetery, Mt. Savage, Tuesday morning, and Robert Andrews, veteran of the Spanish American War, whose service was conducted Wednesday at the Mt. Savage Methodist Church.

Lawrence Winebrenner, 38, Slabtown, an employe of the Big Savage Refractories Corporation, sustained a fracture of the right knee and sprained both ankles Wednesday afternoon in a fall while repairing the roof of the residence of J. H. Cruson, West Main Street. The scaffolding gave way and he fell to the ground a distance of about 25 feet.

He is a patient at Miners' Hospital where he will undergo a knee operation. Winebrenner is the father of four children and resides with his wife, the former Marie McKenzie, at Slabtown.

Frostburg Personals

Dr. F. W. Smith To Address Students

By DAVID E. KIRK

BARTON — Dr. Frederick W. Smith, Baltimore, will speak to the students of Barton High School this morning at an assembly program at 11 o'clock, Alfred H. Benna, principal, announced.

Smith will speak on the alcohol problem facing them.

He will be accompanied by Rev. Watson Holly, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg, and Rev. L. J. Moore, pastor of Barton Methodist Church.

Bus Agency Changed

The Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company has named Kirk's confectionery as its agency in the Barton territory, Walter E. Mackay, secretary, announced today.

The change becomes effective immediately and buses will stop in front of Kirk's instead of the Presbyterian Church, the present stop. Tickets will be available at the agency, Mackay stated.

Brief Mention

Star Council No. 37, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight in Odd Fellow's Hall, Hall Street, at 7:30 p. m.

Pride of Barton No. 77, Daughters of America, will meet on Wednesday, October 29, instead of October 28, Mrs. Myrtle Saville, councilor, stated today. The change was made due to Barton Hose Company sponsoring a Halloween dance in their armory Tuesday night.

Leaders of the Barton Methodist Church taking part in the Methodist Leadership Training School being held this week at Centre Street Methodist Church, Cumberland, are Mrs. James Gattens, president of the W.C.T.U.; Mrs. L. J. Moore, spiritual life leader of the W.S.C.S.; Mrs. Samuel Metz, secretary of W.C.T.U.; Mrs. Marie Sutherland, secretary of fellowship of the W.S.C.S.; Samuel Metz, lay leader; and Rev. L. J. Moore, pastor.

Dr. J. J. Phillips, Retired Minister, Returns To Native Tucker County

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va.—Rev. J. J. Phillips, D. D., 71, a Tucker County native, has returned to this county to make his home since his retirement from the ministry, after serving more than 47 years.

Dr. Phillips was born at Texas Mountain July 14, 1876, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, who were among the first members of the Methodist Protestant Church after its organization in the early years of 1850 to 1860.

Dr. Phillips was educated in public schools of this county and taught for two years. In 1895 he was licensed to preach and was admitted to probationary membership in the conference in 1899. He was ordained an elder in the church the same year.

He was graduated from Lanier University and in 1922 that university conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. He also studied under Dr. Chase of Harvard in a New Testament Greek course.

Dr. Phillips began his long career of ministerial work at Etam, Preston County, followed by charges at Reedsville, Marion, Friendly, Georgetown, Bridgeport, Parsons and Rowlesburg, having served in Parsons from 1917 until the fall of 1918. He served for several years as pastor of the First Church of Fairmont, Fairview Church in Clarksburg, and Morgantown. He retired in 1942.

Dr. Phillips served as president of the Conference in 1915 and was re-elected in 1916. He was a delegate to five sessions of General Conference during his active ministry.

In July, 1896, he married Miss May Walton, daughter of the late John Samuel and Rebecca Moore Walton. This year the couple celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary.

They are the parents of two sons, Oliver, Bel Air, Md., and Cecil O. Phillips, a representative of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, who was graduated from Parsons High School during his father's pastorate here.

They also have three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Dr. and Mrs. Phillips have purchased the N. P. Fankhouser home on Pennsylvania Avenue in Parsons and expect to spend the remainder of their lives here.

Dr. Phillips became a member of the Quarterly Conference of St. John's and First Methodist Churches of Parsons at a meeting this week.

Mrs. Swann Dies After Suffering Paralytic Stroke

Rites To Be Held In Piedmont Sunday

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT.—Mrs. Ida C. Swann, 62, wife of Thomas P. Swann, died yesterday at 10 a. m. at her home, 4 Green Street, Piedmont, W. Va., after suffering a paralytic stroke early Wednesday morning.

Born in Bittinger, Garrett County, Mrs. Swann was a daughter of the late George E. and Sarah Cunningham Ralston. She resided in Bloomington for a number of years, where she became a member of Bloomington Council No. 73, Daughters of America, and moved to Piedmont 10 years ago.

Mrs. Swann was past chief of Calanthe Temple No. 8, Pythian Sisters, and was a member of the Piedmont Presbyterian Church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons, Thomas, Jr., Westernport; Owen, Grafton, W. Va., and Randolph C. Swann, Cresaptown; and four daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Gentzel and Mrs. Jean Stutzman, both of Baltimore; Mrs. Norris Munsie, Westernport, and Mrs. C. E. Martin, Washington, D. C.

Also surviving are three brothers, M. L. and Charles Ralston, both of Frostburg, and William Ralston, Cumberland; two sisters, Mrs. Jefferson Thompson, Lucerne Mines, Pa., and Mrs. Anthony Blote, Eufaula, Ala.; and eight grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Piedmont Presbyterian Church, with Rev. Philip M. Cory, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Philos Cemetery.

Red Cross Branch Meets

All phases of Red Cross service in this area were discussed at the monthly meeting of the board of directors, Westernport branch of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Norris Repp, treasurer.

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, Cumberland, executive secretary of the county chapter, explained the purposes of the Red Cross program. Plans were made to name committees to handle activities of the branch.

Mrs. J. C. Rhodes, who was elected branch chairman following the resignation last spring of Mrs. Lucille Krantz, presided. Mrs. Krantz is now engaged in social work in Springfield, O.

Other board members attending were Mrs. Frank Zeitlih, secretary; Mrs. Louis Hicks, Mrs. Arthur Whitworth, Edmund Getty, Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and Thomas McGuire. The board also includes Mrs. John Fisher and Miss Nellie Dowling.

Mrs. Shaffer Rites

A requiem mass for Mrs. Elizabeth Shaffer, 89, who died yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock at her home, 35 Jones Street, Piedmont, after a week's illness, will be celebrated tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport. Interment will be in the Catholic Cemetery at Meyersdale, Pa.

A native of Corsica, Pa., Mrs. Shaffer was a daughter of the late Phillip and Elizabeth Newhouse Aaron and had lived in the Tri-Towns 50 years. She belonged to St. Peter's Catholic Church here and the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of the Church, which will hold a service at the home Friday at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Shaffer's husband, George P. Shaffer, died 51 years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Laura Shaffer, at home, and Mrs. Ethel Wintermyer, Duquesne, Pa.; and one son, P. H. Shaffer, Cumberland.

Mrs. Swann Dies After Suffering Paralytic Stroke

Rites To Be Held In Piedmont Sunday

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT.—Mrs. Ida C. Swann, 62, wife of Thomas P. Swann, died yesterday at 10 a. m. at her home, 4 Green Street, Piedmont, W. Va., after suffering a paralytic stroke early Wednesday morning.

Born in Bittinger, Garrett County, Mrs. Swann was a daughter of the late George E. and Sarah Cunningham Ralston. She resided in Bloomington for a number of years, where she became a member of Bloomington Council No. 73, Daughters of America, and moved to Piedmont 10 years ago.

Mrs. Swann was past chief of Calanthe Temple No. 8, Pythian Sisters, and was a member of the Piedmont Presbyterian Church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons, Thomas, Jr., Westernport; Owen, Grafton, W. Va., and Randolph C. Swann, Cresaptown; and four daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Gentzel and Mrs. Jean Stutzman, both of Baltimore; Mrs. Norris Munsie, Westernport, and Mrs. C. E. Martin, Washington, D. C.

Also surviving are three brothers, M. L. and Charles Ralston, both of Frostburg, and William Ralston, Cumberland; two sisters, Mrs. Jefferson Thompson, Lucerne Mines, Pa., and Mrs. Anthony Blote, Eufaula, Ala.; and eight grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Piedmont Presbyterian Church, with Rev. Philip M. Cory, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Philos Cemetery.

Red Cross Branch Meets

All phases of Red Cross service in this area were discussed at the monthly meeting of the board of directors, Westernport branch of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Norris Repp, treasurer.

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, Cumberland, executive secretary of the county chapter, explained the purposes of the Red Cross program. Plans were made to name committees to handle activities of the branch.

Mrs. J. C. Rhodes, who was elected branch chairman following the resignation last spring of Mrs. Lucille Krantz, presided. Mrs. Krantz is now engaged in social work in Springfield, O.

Other board members attending were Mrs. Frank Zeitlih, secretary; Mrs. Louis Hicks, Mrs. Arthur Whitworth, Edmund Getty, Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and Thomas McGuire. The board also includes Mrs. John Fisher and Miss Nellie Dowling.

Mrs. Shaffer Rites

A requiem mass for Mrs. Elizabeth Shaffer, 89, who died yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock at her home, 35 Jones Street, Piedmont, after a week's illness, will be celebrated tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport. Interment will be in the Catholic Cemetery at Meyersdale, Pa.

A native of Corsica, Pa., Mrs. Shaffer was a daughter of the late Phillip and Elizabeth Newhouse Aaron and had lived in the Tri-Towns 50 years. She belonged to St. Peter's Catholic Church here and the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of the Church, which will hold a service at the home Friday at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Shaffer's husband, George P. Shaffer, died 51 years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Laura Shaffer, at home, and Mrs. Ethel Wintermyer, Duquesne, Pa.; and one son, P. H. Shaffer, Cumberland.

ROCKET LAUNCHING MARKS NEW ERA IN NAVAL WEAPONS

Marking "the beginning of a new era in Naval weapons," the United States Navy fired a captured German V-2 rocket from the flight deck of the 45,000 ton aircraft carrier USS Midway on September 6, 1947. This was the first time in history such a bombardment rocket has been launched from ships or a moving platform. The primary purpose of the experiment, held at sea several hundred miles off the East Coast of the United States, was to ascertain if large bombardment rockets could be fired off modern aircraft carriers without modifications affecting flight operations. The rocket traveled six miles and exploded. (Official U. S. Navy Photograph)

POLAR RENDEZVOUS

BEAUTY PARLOR FOR PLANES

Texas Aero Service Converts Troop Transports Into Luxury Air Liners for Sky-Minded Tycoons

CLUB CAR LUXURY—Divans and tables for cards or dining add extra comfort to this private plane.

By JOANNE MILLIGAN
Central Press Correspondent

DALLAS, Tex.—When chewing gum magnate P. K. Wrigley was in the market for a custom-designed private airplane, he bought a surplus Army DC-3 and had its face lifted at a beauty salon for flying machines.

Wrigley's $115,000 bought him a converted luxury liner, seating 16 persons. Gone were the bare floors and bucket seats of a war plane. In their place blossomed springy upholstered chairs, plushy carpets and downy, full length lounges. Added to this splendor was a refrigeration unit and bar, radio and card tables.

Responsible for the transformation was the Dallas Aero Service, one of the first concerns in the country to start converting government surplus planes to civilian use.

Other customers who have shelled out sizable amounts for a plane all their own include former Oklahoma governor, Robert S. Kerr; oil man Frank Phillips, Robert Dollar of the San Francisco steamship Dollars, Gen. R. E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears & Roebuck, and many other individuals as well as businesses.

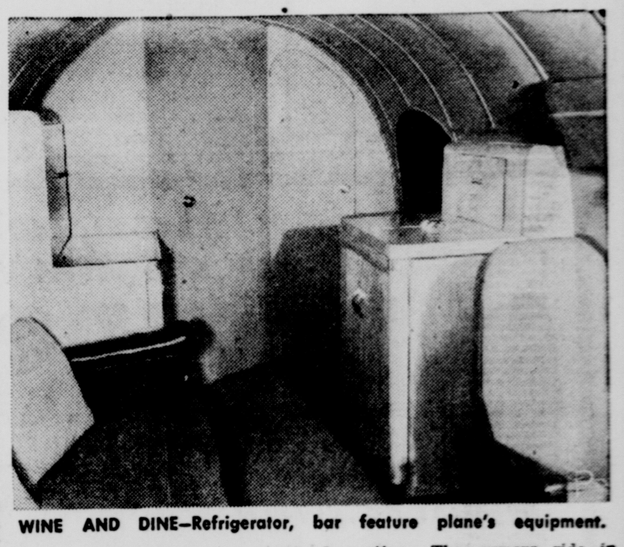
TODAY, an order is being completed for the Argentine government which is having two planes beautified at a cost of $90,000 apiece.

New planes still are very hard to get. When surplus ships first became available, they were in pretty good condition. Now, for the most part, they arrive in Dallas in sad shape and it is necessary not only to spruce up the interiors but to do a major overhaul job on the plane.

Plexi-glass noses need to be replaced with something more substantial, windows put in and large cargo doors made smaller. The average conversion takes 60 days.

Interiors of the newly-acquired planes usually are done in a restful gray-green or tan color scheme which cuts down any tendency to air sickness. But, occasionally, a customer has his own ideas on decoration. One Texas oil man hired a designer who upholstered the owner's plane in ostrich skin.



WINE AND DINE—Refrigerator, bar feature plane's equipment.

Available luxuries include "air-to-earth" telephones so a busy executive can place a call while flying, cabinet radios, table lamps, in addition to indirect lighting, passenger-to-pilot phones and chimes used to summon stewards, and desks.

Woodwork in the planes varies with the price. Some of the more expensive ships feature blond mahogany trim, with matching bar.

THREE HUNDRED persons are kept busy handling orders. With the supply of surplus planes diminishing steadily, business has dropped off somewhat since the end of the war, but as Director L. V. Emery puts it:

"We get lots of orders for redecoration. The owners ride in each other's planes and they like to keep up with the Joneses. When one gets something new, they all want it."

SO FAR, Mexican millionaire Jorge Pasquel has been the only person to turn down a plane, a $85,000 number ordered for him by a Dallas concern, which had no trouble selling it to someone else.

Right now, company officials have their heads together on plans to renovate buses. It is explained that some businessmen do not like to fly.

Said Emery happily: "We're going to decorate the buses even more beautifully than the planes. There is no weight problem such as we face with planes, so we can install air conditioning units, cooking grills and motion picture projectors in the buses.

"A geologist, for example, could drive into the oil fields and stay several days with all the comforts of home."

BIG GUNS SPEAK FOR RESERVISTS

With hundreds of Naval Reservists aboard for a two-week cruise, the USS Wisconsin, Pacific veteran of World War II, demonstrates the might of her rifles as she plows over a peacetime Atlantic in the Navy's ceaseless program of personnel training. A participant in all the Pacific operations of 1945, the "Wisky" has been one of the principal units employed for the schooling of Reservists since the end of the war. (Official U. S. Navy Photograph)

BURYING BOMBS— Shortage of magazine storage space has led U. S. Army Ordnance to experiment with burying bombs in order to preserve them. Here workmen place processed bombs in stacks at Savanna, Ill., ordnance depot, prior to covering them with earth.

SKYSTREAKS TO RECORD

The Navy captured the world's speed record in August, 1947, and, five days later, broke it with the jet-propelled "Skystreak," shown above. Piloted by Comdr. Turner E. Caldwell, Jr., USN, the plane flew 640.7 miles per hour in the first test at Muroc Field, Calif. Within a week Maj. Marion Carl, USMC, set a new mark of 650.6 miles per hour in the same plane. (Official U. S. Navy Photograph)

QUAINT VILLAGE SCENE— A real English village forms the background for this British movie scene featuring a "horseless carriage" and a bicycle known as a "penny-farthing."

DAISY'S FALSE TEETH— Actress Penny Singleton inserts false lower teeth into the mouth of Daisy, the dog, as the latter is about to go before the movie cameras. Hanging by her teeth cost Daisy her real ones.

Confessed Triple-Killer To Be Tried In Colorado

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Oct. 23 (AP)—Paul John Schneider, 24, blond ex-convict who admitted the killing of three filling station attendants in Denver and Detroit, waived extradition to Colorado today.

A dishonorably discharged war veteran, Schneider wept as he signed the necessary paper, and said:

"I feel a lot better now that I have this off my chest. I don't have to look over my shoulder any more."

The extradition to Colorado, where capital punishment is possible was approved by representatives of the Michigan State Police.

The maximum penalty in Michigan for murder is life imprisonment.

Hagerstown Flooring Company Will Close

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—F. T. McDonald, treasurer of the struck Colonial Hardwood Flooring Company, announced today the plant would be closed down for an "indefinite period—maybe forever."

He said the action was being taken to prevent further "violence at the picket line," but added that a further reason was that maintenance men refused to cross picket lines to enter the building.

Meanwhile Michael Tyson, international representative of the United Furniture Workers (CIO), was acquitted of disorderly conduct charges today, and two members of Local 472 paid a total of $75 in fines for assault.

Halfbreed Indian Kills Three Of His Family

MENDOCINO, Calif., Oct. 23 (AP)—Sheriff Beverly G. Broaddus said Paul Winton, 51, a halfbreed Indian with a prison record for rape, confessed that he killed his blind wife, his daughter and his son-in-law today after bolstering himself with liquor.

The sheriff said he and District Attorney James E. Busch took a lengthy statement from Winton after he was found sitting on the running board of his car in which were his two small grandchildren.

He surrendered quietly although he had taken his rifle and ammunition from the scene of the slaying with a warning "I will never be taken alive."

Sheriff Broaddus and Busch said Winton became enraged because his son-in-law, Charles Porter, 28, and his daughter, Mrs. Mary Porter, 28, moved in with him and his blind wife, Mrs. Esther Winton. He demanded they leave and they refused. He tried unsuccessfully to have the constable evict them. So he moved out.

Woman's Alleged Kidnaper Arrested

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP) John James Marrello, 25, Kingston, N. Y., one of the two men charged with kidnaping a South Charleston woman, September 15, surrendered voluntarily to federal authorities here today and was released after entering a plea of innocent. He is already under bond of $12,500 at Charleston and Kingston.

Both men were indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury here on charges of conspiring to kidnap and kidnaping Ruth Virginia Fitzwater from Charleston to Kingston, where she was held in a hotel allegedly to prevent her from testifying against Marrello before a Charleston court, the district Attorney's office reported.

Hagerstown May Seek Tie-In With PE Plant

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 23. (AP)—A committee of three, headed by Thomas W. Pangborn, recommended to the Mayor and Council of Hagerstown today that the city seek a 10-year tie-in with the new Potomac Edison facilities at Williamsport.

The municipal electrical plant, with a capacity of 9,000 kilowatts, is operating at near capacity, and Mayor Richard Sweeney appointed the three-man group recently to consider means of increasing the communities sources of current.

The plan would call for purchasing electricity at a price equal to what it would cost the city to produce an equivalent amount. The city should then re-sell the current at its present rate of profit.

315,000 Tenants Sign

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—About 315,000 tenants in the five-state mid-Atlantic area signed leases with rent increases in the first three months under the new rent control act, Regional Rent Administrator Piet H. Hofstra announced today.

This was 6.3 per cent of the approximately 5,000,000 tenants in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware. Hofstra said 8.2 per cent of the tenants throughout the nation agreed to rent hikes in the same period, extending from July 1 to October 3.

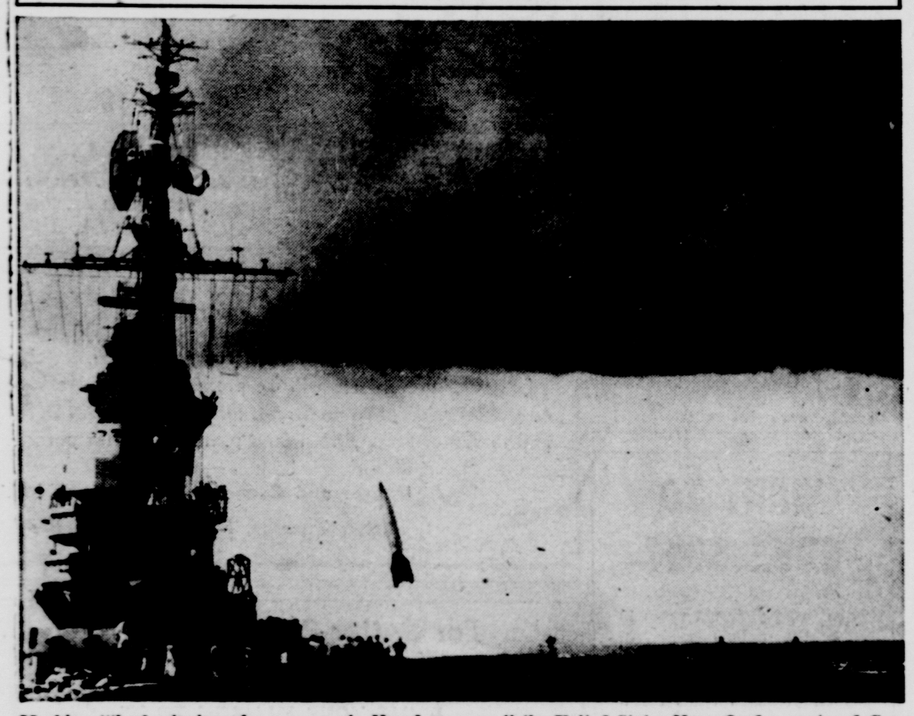
ROCKET LAUNCHING MARKS NEW ERA IN NAVAL WEAPONS



Marking "the beginning of a new era in Naval weapons," the United States Navy fired a captured German V-2 rocket from the flight deck of the 45,000 ton aircraft carrier USS Midway on September 6, 1947. This was the first time in history such a bombardment rocket has been launched from ships or a moving platform. The primary purpose of the experiment, held at sea several hundred miles off the East Coast of the United States, was to ascertain if large bombardment rockets could be fired off modern aircraft carriers without modifications affecting flight operations. The rocket traveled six miles and exploded. (Official U. S. Navy Photograph)

POLAR RENDEZVOUS

The far-flung activities of American submarines during World War II that brought the undersea craft to the home waters of the Japanese Empire in the van of the fighting fronts, are continued into peacetime as the submersibles, like the USS Sennet (above), penetrate the Arctic and Antarctic. Submarines are important units of the Navy's postwar expeditions and projects probing the mysteries of distant oceans for scientific data to be used for future planning. *(Official U. S. # BEAUTY PARLOR FOR PLANES

Texas Aero Service Converts Troop Transports Into Luxury Air Liners for Sky-Minded Tycoons

By JOANNE MILLIGAN
Central Press Correspondent

DALLAS, Tex.—When chewing gum magnate P. K. Wrigley was in the market for a custom-designed private airplane, he bought a surplus Army DC-3 and had its face lifted at a beauty salon for flying machines.

Wrigley's $115,000 bought him a converted luxury liner, seating 16 persons. Gone were the bare floors and bucket seats of a war plane. In their place blossomed springy upholstered chairs, plushy carpets and downy, full length lounges. Added to this splendor was a refrigeration unit and bar, radio and card tables.

Responsible for the transformation was the Dallas Aero Service, one of the first concerns in the country to start converting government surplus planes to civilian use.

Other customers who have shelled out sizable amounts for a plane all their own include former Oklahoma governor, Robert S. Kerr; oil man Frank Phillips, Robert Dollar of the San Francisco steamship Dollars, Gen. R. E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears & Roebuck, and many other individuals as well as businesses.

TODAY, an order is being completed for the Argentine government which is having two planes beautified at a cost of $90,000 apiece.

New planes still are very hard to get. When surplus ships first became available, they were in pretty good condition. Now, for the most part, they arrive in Dallas in sad shape and it is necessary not only to spruce up the interiors but to do a major overhaul job on the plane.

Plexi-glass noses need to be replaced with something more substantial, windows put in and large cargo doors made smaller. The average conversion takes 60 days.

Interiors of the newly-acquired planes usually are done in a restful gray-green or tan color scheme which cuts down any tendency to air sickness. But, occasionally, a customer has his own ideas on decoration. One Texas oil man hired a designer who upholstered the owner's plane in ostrich skin.

Available luxuries include "air-to-earth" telephones so a busy executive can place a call while flying, cabinet radios, table lamps, in addition to indirect lighting, passenger-to-pilot phones and chimes used to summon stewards, and desks.

Woodwork in the planes varies with the price. Some of the more expensive ships feature blond mahogany trim, with matching bar.

THREE HUNDRED persons are kept busy handling orders. With the supply of surplus planes diminishing steadily, business has dropped off somewhat since the end of the war, but as Director L. V. Emery puts it:

"We get lots of orders for redecoration. The owners ride in each other's planes and they like to keep up with the Joneses. When one gets something new, they all want it."

SO FAR, Mexican millionaire Jorge Pasquel has been the only person to turn down a plane, a $85,000 number ordered for him by a Dallas concern, which had no trouble selling it to someone else.

Right now, company officials have their heads together on plans to renovate buses. It is explained that some businessmen do not like to fly.

Said Emery happily: "We're going to decorate the buses even more beautifully than the planes. There is no weight problem such as we face with planes, so we can install air conditioning units, cooking grills and motion picture projectors in the buses.

"A geologist, for example, could drive into the oil fields and stay several days with all the comforts of home."

BIG GUNS SPEAK FOR RESERVISTS

With hundreds of Naval Reservists aboard for a two-week cruise, the USS Wisconsin, Pacific veteran of World War II, demonstrates the might of her rifles as she plows over a peacetime Atlantic in the Navy's ceaseless program of personnel training. A participant in all the Pacific operations of 1945, the "Wisky" has been one of the principal units employed for the schooling of Reservists since the end of the war. *(Official U. S. ## SKYSTREAKS TO RECORD

The Navy captured the world's speed record in August, 1947, and, five days later, broke it with the jet-propelled "Skystreak," shown above. Piloted by Comdr. Turner E. Caldwell, Jr., USN, the plane flew 640.7 miles per hour in the first test at Muroc Field, Calif. Within a week Maj. Marion Carl, USMC, set a new mark of 650.6 miles per hour in the same plane. (Official U. S. Navy Photograph)

Halfbreed Indian Kills Three Of His Family

MENDOCINO, Calif., Oct. 23 (AP)—Sheriff Beverly G. Broaddus said Paul Winton, 51, a halfbreed Indian with a prison record for rape, confessed that he killed his blind wife, his daughter and his son-in-law today after bolstering himself with liquor.

The sheriff said he and District Attorney James E. Busch took a lengthy statement from Winton after he was found sitting on the running board of his car in which were his two small grandchildren.

He surrendered quietly although he had taken his rifle and ammunition from the scene of the slaying with a warning "I will never be taken alive."

Sheriff Broaddus and Busch said Winton became enraged because his son-in-law, Charles Porter, 28, and his daughter, Mrs. Mary Porter, 28, moved in with him and his blind wife, Mrs. Esther Winton. He demanded they leave and they refused. He tried unsuccessfully to have the constable evict them. So he moved out.

Confessed Triple-Killer To Be Tried In Colorado

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Oct. 23 (AP)—Paul John Schneider, 24, blond ex-convict who admitted the killing of three filling station attendants in Denver and Detroit, waived extradition to Colorado today.

A dishonorably discharged war veteran, Schneider wept as he signed the necessary paper, and said:

"I feel a lot better now that I have this off my chest. I don't have to look over my shoulder any more."

The extradition to Colorado, where capital punishment is possible was approved by representatives of the Michigan State Police.

Hagerstown Flooring Company Will Close

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—F. T. McDonald, treasurer of the struck Colonial Hardwood Flooring Company, announced today the plant would be closed down for an "indefinite period—maybe forever."

He said the action was being taken to prevent further "violence at the picket line," but added that a further reason was that maintenance men refused to cross picket lines to enter the building.

Meanwhile Michael Tyson, international representative of the United Furniture Workers (CIO), was acquitted of disorderly conduct charges today, and two members of Local 472 paid a total of $75 in fines for assault.

Woman's Alleged Kidnaper Arrested

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP) John James Marrello, 25, Kingston, N. Y., one of the two men charged with kidnaping a South Charleston woman, September 15, surrendered voluntarily to federal authorities here today and was released after entering a plea of innocent. He is already under bond of $12,500 at Charleston and Kingston.

Both men were indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury here on charges of conspiring to kidnap and kidnaping Ruth Virginia Fitzwater from Charleston to Kingston, where she was held in a hotel allegedly to prevent her from testifying against Marrello before a Charleston court, the district Attorney's office reported.

Barnyard Electrification Takes Much Of Drudgery Out Of Chores

No longer must the harvester make hay while the sun shines. With the aid of electric hay driers he can do most of the curing of cow-food in the barn. This reduces loss from crumbling, and makes more nutritions hay.

The stockman can put away the old branding iron that had to be heated over a bonfire or forge. The new technique calls for the less-painful electric brander.

The poultryman no longer need pluck his chickens by hand. An electric chicken-picker does the trick. A cylindrical device with hollow rubber fingers denudes dead poultry with a nibbling action, and saves the feathers for commercial use.

Arthur (Tex) Goldschmidt, director of the Interior Department's division of power, reflected in an interview upon the diverse modern farm uses for electricity. On farms served by federally-administered power projects throughout the west and south, he has noted these current-consuming machines in addition to the customary household electrical appliances.

Pumps for irrigation systems—The major farm use for electric power, he said.

Deep-freeze or quick-freeze units—The home type and the big commercial and cooperative lockers. "These have come into such great use in some areas as almost to do away with home canning."

Lighting systems—Increase egg output in poultry-sheds at periods when egg prices are highest; reduce milk spillage in dairy barns. Ultra-violet lights reduce the bacteria count of milk, speed development of chickens, and, used in pig brooders,

Water-heating units—Cows provided with warm drinking water in the winter increase milk production by as much as 15 percent. Chickens dring 25 percent more water in cold weather, if it is heated and egg production increases.

Coolers—Reduce spoilage of food, particularly of milk.

Electric fences—With a single strand , it's easy to move the fence and re-arrange pasture areas.

Soil-heating cables, for pre-season gardens; soil sterilizers.

"The increasing use of electricity for farm chores," said Goldschmidt, "is reducing the cost of electricity by making fuller, more efficient use of the power facilities.

"The nation's weekly output of electricity has risen from 2,200,000,000 kilowatt hours in October, 1938, beyond war-time peaks to a probable 5,000,000,000 kilowatt hours for this month."

No longer must the harvester make hay while the sun shines. With the aid of electric hay driers he can do most of the curing of cow-food in the barn. This reduces loss from crumbling, and makes more nutritions hay.

The stockman can put away the old branding iron that had to be heated over a bonfire or forge. The new technique calls for the less-painful electric brander.

The poultryman no longer need pluck his chickens by hand. An electric chicken-picker does the trick. A cylindrical device with hollow rubber fingers denudes dead poultry with a nibbling action, and saves the feathers for commercial use.

Arthur (Tex) Goldschmidt, director of the Interior Department's division of power, reflected in an interview upon the diverse modern farm uses for electricity. On farms served by federally-administered power projects throughout the west and south, he has noted these current-consuming machines in addition to the customary household electrical appliances.

Pumps for irrigation systems—The major farm use for electric power, he said.

Deep-freeze or quick-freeze units—The home type and the big commercial and cooperative lockers. "These have come into such great use in some areas as almost to do away with home canning."

Lighting systems—Increase egg output in poultry-sheds at periods when egg prices are highest; reduce milk spillage in dairy barns. Ultra-violet lights reduce the bacteria count of milk, speed development of chickens, and, used in pig brooders,

Water-heating units—Cows provided with warm drinking water in the winter increase milk production by as much as 15 percent. Chickens dring 25 percent more water in cold weather, if it is heated and egg production increases.

Coolers—Reduce spoilage of food, particularly of milk.

Electric fences—With a single strand , it's easy to move the fence and re-arrange pasture areas.

Soil-heating cables, for pre-season gardens; soil sterilizers.

"The increasing use of electricity for farm chores," said Goldschmidt, "is reducing the cost of electricity by making fuller, more efficient use of the power facilities.

"The nation's weekly output of electricity has risen from 2,200,000,000 kilowatt hours in October, 1938, beyond war-time peaks to a probable 5,000,000,000 kilowatt hours for this month."

County Airmen To Form Local Air Force Unit

Plan Squadron In National Association

Twenty-nine veterans of the Army Air Force met last night at the local recruiting office and discussed plans to organize a Squadron of the National Air Force Association, according to Lt. George J. Goecke, public information officer of the Cumberland Army and Air Force recruiting service, who presided.

It was agreed that another meeting would be held Thursday, November 6, at 7:30 p. m., at the recruiting office at which time officers will be elected.

Lt. Goecke said all former members of the Air Force, or persons attached to the Air Force, regardless of rank, are eligible for membership. He said the veterans present last night expressed the hope that the local association will be a strong and active one. The purpose of the Squadron, he said, "is to preserve the spirit of fellowship among former and present members of the Air Force.

"To assist in every way possible in obtaining and maintaining proper recognition of the Air Forces in order that adequate air power may at all times be available for the defense of our country.

"And, to advise its members and to educate the public at large in development of air power and dissemination information on new accomplishments in the field of aviation."

After officers are elected, an application for a charter will be sent to national headquarters, Washington, D. C., Lt. Goecke explained.

Members of the National Association present last night included, Simon Rosenbaum, Paul W. Allen, J. Paul None, David H. Murrie, Daniel W. Nose, John C. Ankeney, Paul Adams, and Leo G. LaNeve, all of Cumberland; Paul W. Robertson, and Philip Karl W. Hartig, both of Frostburg, and William C. Beveridge, Cresaptown.

Prospective members present were, Leon M. Glencoe, John B. Fees, J. O. Bishop, Lee C. Busch, Harold M. Houdershell, Calvin C. Cruek, John I. Raines, Raymond E. Beeman, Glenn R. Shaffer, William H. Johnson, John B. O'Brien, William C. Burns, and Earl J. Heavner, all of this city; John M. Miller, Ellerslie; Eugene R. Minnigh, and Raymond E. Shaw, both of Cresaptown; John W. McGreevy, Lonaconing; and Leo Jones, Bowling Green.

Albert Mark Dennison, 17, Route 1, St. George, W. Va., who enlisted in the regular Navy for three years as an apprentice seaman, has been transferred to Great Lakes, Ill., for recruit training, according to Chief Machinist's Mate Robert G. Belknap, local Navy recruiter.

Paul E. Knisley secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build a one-story frame house, 23 by 30 feet, on Lots 367-368 at the corner of Mary Street and Ellen Avenue. The building will have a concrete block foundation and a composition roof. Work is estimated to cost $2,000.

William Funk, Fort Ashby, W. Va., was taken to Martinsburg, W. Va., last night for admission to Newton D. Baker Hospital.

PLAN A FALL PARTY

JAUNTY COWHANDS . . . Attractive placecards. Make 'em yourself.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Fall nippy weather is the signal for party loving individuals to plan more entertainment in their homes. Football time is always a good opportunity to drag out the bean pots or a favorite spaghetti recipe to tempt hungry guests after the game.

It is simple entertaining, the easiest possible. All you have to do is set up a buffet style table and let the guests help themselves. A big urn of chile con carne can go a long way and can be concocted with a minimum of effort.

If instead of the buffet table you want to plan table settings with a minimum of effort, use small bridge tables which can be set simply with attractive placecards and colorful linen.

A rodeo table setting is always fun and is in keeping with the fall party season. You can make some interesting little cowboys and cowgirls to be used as placecards with some transparent plastic tape, pipe cleaners, colored paper or scraps of cotton material, bits of ribbon, paints and a pair of scissors.

For the body of the doll, just twist two pieces of pipe cleaner loosely together. Untwist part of the bottom length for the legs and fold over about one-half inch at the top for the head. Fashion cowboy trousers and cowgirl skirts out of rolled strips of colored paper held fast with the tape. Paper or bits of ribbon make gay shirts and neckerchiefs. The ten-gallon hat brims are flat doughnut-shaped pieces.

Get out Junior's paints or colored pencils and paint some faces to tape in place under the hat brims. Or cut out faces from some old snapshots and paste them on. Your guests will be surprised when they see their own faces peering at them from the placecards.

If you have room for centerpieces on the bridge tables, you might transfer some small cactus plants from your window sill to carry out the Rodeo theme.

been called to the stand and the order in which they testified are:

Downing, W. D. Smith, Henry C. Swearingen, Mrs. Esther B. Rosenbaum, who is executrix of her late husband's estate, McMullen, Thomas B. Finan, William C. Walsh, Ralph L. Lashley, Delbert R. Kitzmiller, Charles L. McFerran, George F. Hazelwood, Robert L. Stallings, Benjamin C. Howard, Piper, and William C. Gilchrist.

The hearing will be resumed this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the grand jury room of the Post Office building, with the remainder of the Tri-State stockholders scheduled to be called first.

Warning Issued

Meanwhile, Buckingham disclosed the department had put into service a fog pressure unit as a new weapon to fight forest fires.

He explained the unit is mounted on a jeep which also carries a 50-gallon water tank. "The fog soaks an area quickly and really drives back a fire," he said. "Our boys are so enthusiastic about the results they want me to buy more of them."

toundingly similar. He argued that the law provides that parents may punish their children, and correct them, but that it is not lawful to treat them inhumanely, brutally or to inflict serious bodily injury. The severity of punishment is regulated, he claimed.

Fletcher told the Court, "There are no Maryland cases cited similar to this one."

Ryan Questions Guilt

Ryan claimed the State had failed to show which blows or blow caused the injuries which resulted in the child's death. He also maintained the State had failed to prove which person struck these blows. "It seems to me," he argued, "after the testimony here today, to be difficult to say definitely whether the mother or the father caused the death of this child." Ryan continued, "A man is presumed to be innocent until he is proven guilty, but people get the idea, 'well, he did something, or he wouldn't be here.' However, the Court knows the law and can consider the facts."

Ryan asked for a verdict of not guilty. In his opening statement, he had told the Court that the mother was 14 and the father 18, when they were married. "They were too young," he said, "to know the responsibilities of marriage and parenthood."

State's Attorney Harris argued, "This case is unlike many because it is void of any glamour or color. We have here an unwarranted, unprovoked, unheard of act by a sadist." He referred to medical testimony and other evidence presented. Harris said "Wills had no love for his child and in a letter to his wife, had denounced being its father."

This is not a case of willful, deliberate, premeditated murder, but is a case of brual excessive punishment, he argued.

"It is a depraved, cowardly man who would beat a child to death. His crime must not go unpunished," Harris said.

"For the sake of all the other little infants in Allegany County, some punishment must be meted out to Wills, as a warning to all fathers, young and old, that punishment must be in moderation," he concluded.

The answer to lower grain prices is to stop exporting grain.

he only shoved me out of the way."

"My husband 'passed out' after beating the baby on another occasion," she said. "I threw some water on him and when he awoke he asked what had happened. I told him he had beaten the baby but he didn't seem to understand," she added.

Mrs. Wills also told of seeing her husband beating the baby's head against a wall, and that on two occasions she washed blood from her son's face after the beating had been administered.

The child was so badly injured during the July 20 beating that it's breath came in gasps, Mrs. Wills said. "I told my husband that he had killed 'Butchie'", she added. She also said that her husband told her to tell the doctor at the hospital that the child fell down once and was knocked over by a dog in order to account for the injuries.

Mrs. Wills said that her husband would become angry when the child soiled its clothes and once said: "Butchie, I'll train you or break you."

The case was tried before the Court and not before a jury. Counsels' arguments after testimony were brief. Assistant State's Attorney Fletcher outlined the law governing manslaughter after Chief Judge William A. Huster suggested that counsel confine their arguments to this charge.

Fletcher cited numerous parallel cases, some of which seemed as-

Action On European

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind.) told reporters Mr. Truman said he wants $642,000,000 to tide Italy and France over till next March 31, as compared with the $580,000,000 figure suggested in September.

Halleck said "there will be some holes shot in those figures."

Would Allocate Supplies

But Martin said Mr. Truman hoped to deal with prices by the process of allocating supplies, if congress consents, rather than by food or grain price ceilings. It was indicated also that rationing at the consumer level is not presently being considered.

The special session date is only one week after the scheduled hearings on foreign aid by the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees, set for November 10.

And it is only about two weeks after the now-expected issuance of the 19-member Harriman Committee's report on the Marshall plan, the outgrowth of the 16-nation Paris conference on European reconstruction and mutual aid.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky.), Senate minority leader, predicted the stopgap legislation for aid to France, Italy and Austria would be enacted in time for a Christmas recess.

This would eliminate the need of carrying the special session through until the starting-date of the regular session, January 3.

Barkley gave reassurance that the restoration of price ceilings is not planned, but said the White House is working on some "suggestions" for congressional action to fight inflation.

machinery must be slashed by $800,000,000 a year.

Alexander announced a "temporary immobilization of a considerable part of the home fleet" as part of a plan to cut manpower strength to 147,000 by March 31 from a previous naval estimate of 191,000.

Cripps, declaring that Britain's greatest financial problem was in obtaining dollars for the purchase of essential food and raw materials, warned that even stringent economies would not evert further heavy sales of gold reserves. In recent weeks Britain has sold $200,000,000 of her estimated $2,400,000,000 gold reserve to the United States to cover "generl commitments" in the United States.

Sharper Austerity In Store

Cripps warned of still sharper austerity to come as he gave details of the Labor government's program, broadly outlined Tuesday by King George VI at the opening of Parliament.

"Can we discipline ourselves to the task before us, or are we going to invite the harsh discipline of events to impose some tragic solution upon us?" the Economics Minister asked.

He was challenged immediately by Viscount Hinchingbrooke, who called for an "absolute reverse" of the government policy.

PHILADELPHIA — Now it's remote control dental training by telephone.

Some day, perhaps, a dentist may probe into your cavities and say:

"I know what's wrong with your teeth. My prof told me all about it on the telephone."

Seriously, 140 students at the University of Pennsylvania Dental School are learning oral medicine without a teacher in sight.

Dr. Lester W. Burket, head of the school's oral medicine department, lectures classes twice a week while lying in bed, his left side encased cast.

Sisson Reports On YMCA Activities

Robert L. Sisson, general secretary of Central YMCA, reported on recent activities of the organization at the monthly board of directors' meeting Wednesday night, with Adolph Blunk, president, presiding.

Sisson said 15,801 individuals were served during September, and that 47 different groups held meetings at Central YMCA, with a total attendance of 3,444.

Regarding membership, Sisson said that 1,690 persons were enrolled as members as of September 30.

Paul E. Knisley secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build a one-story frame house, 23 by 30 feet, on Lots 367-368 at the corner of Mary Street and Ellen Avenue. The building will have a concrete block foundation and a composition roof. Work is estimated to cost $2,000.

William Funk, Fort Ashby, W. Va., was taken to Martinsburg, W. Va., last night for admission to Newton D. Baker Hospital.

PLAN A FALL PARTY

JAUNTY COWHANDS . . . Attractive placecards. Make 'em yourself.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Fall nippy weather is the signal for party loving individuals to plan more entertainment in their homes. Football time is always a good opportunity to drag out the bean pots or a favorite spaghetti recipe to tempt hungry guests after the game.

It is simple entertaining, the easiest possible. All you have to do is set up a buffet style table and let the guests help themselves. A big urn of chile con carne can go a long way and can be concocted with a minimum of effort.

If instead of the buffet table you want to plan table settings with a minimum of effort, use small bridge tables which can be set simply with attractive placecards and colorful linen.

A rodeo table setting is always fun and is in keeping with the fall party season. You can make some interesting little cowboys and cowgirls to be used as placecards with some transparent plastic tape, pipe cleaners, colored paper or scraps of cotton material, bits of ribbon, paints and a pair of scissors.

For the body of the doll, just twist two pieces of pipe cleaner loosely together. Untwist part of the bottom length for the legs and fold over about one-half inch at the top for the head. Fashion cowboy trousers and cowgirl skirts out of rolled strips of colored paper held fast with the tape. Paper or bits of ribbon make gay shirts and neckerchiefs. The ten-gallon hat brims are flat doughnut-shaped pieces.

Get out Junior's paints or colored pencils and paint some faces to tape in place under the hat brims. Or cut out faces from some old snapshots and paste them on. Your guests will be surprised when they see their own faces peering at them from the placecards.

If you have room for centerpieces on the bridge tables, you might transfer some small cactus plants from your window sill to carry out the Rodeo theme.

been called to the stand and the order in which they testified are:

Downing, W. D. Smith, Henry C. Swearingen, Mrs. Esther B. Rosenbaum, who is executrix of her late husband's estate, McMullen, Thomas B. Finan, William C. Walsh, Ralph L. Lashley, Delbert R. Kitzmiller, Charles L. McFerran, George F. Hazelwood, Robert L. Stallings, Benjamin C. Howard, Piper, and William C. Gilchrist.

The hearing will be resumed this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the grand jury room of the Post Office building, with the remainder of the Tri-State stockholders scheduled to be called first.

Warning Issued

Meanwhile, Buckingham disclosed the department had put into service a fog pressure unit as a new weapon to fight forest fires.

He explained the unit is mounted on a jeep which also carries a 50-gallon water tank. "The fog soaks an area quickly and really drives back a fire," he said. "Our boys are so enthusiastic about the results they want me to buy more of them."

toundingly similar. He argued that the law provides that parents may punish their children, and correct them, but that it is not lawful to treat them inhumanely, brutally or to inflict serious bodily injury. The severity of punishment is regulated, he claimed.

Fletcher told the Court, "There are no Maryland cases cited similar to this one."

Ryan Questions Guilt

Ryan claimed the State had failed to show which blows or blow caused the injuries which resulted in the child's death. He also maintained the State had failed to prove which person struck these blows. "It seems to me," he argued, "after the testimony here today, to be difficult to say definitely whether the mother or the father caused the death of this child." Ryan continued, "A man is presumed to be innocent until he is proven guilty, but people get the idea, 'well, he did something, or he wouldn't be here.' However, the Court knows the law and can consider the facts."

Ryan asked for a verdict of not guilty. In his opening statement, he had told the Court that the mother was 14 and the father 18, when they were married. "They were too young," he said, "to know the responsibilities of marriage and parenthood."

State's Attorney Harris argued, "This case is unlike many because it is void of any glamour or color. We have here an unwarranted, unprovoked, unheard of act by a sadist." He referred to medical testimony and other evidence presented. Harris said "Wills had no love for his child and in a letter to his wife, had denounced being its father."

This is not a case of willful, deliberate, premeditated murder, but is a case of brual excessive punishment, he argued.

"It is a depraved, cowardly man who would beat a child to death. His crime must not go unpunished," Harris said.

"For the sake of all the other little infants in Allegany County, some punishment must be meted out to Wills, as a warning to all fathers, young and old, that punishment must be in moderation," he concluded.

The answer to lower grain prices is to stop exporting grain.

he only shoved me out of the way."

"My husband 'passed out' after beating the baby on another occasion," she said. "I threw some water on him and when he awoke he asked what had happened. I told him he had beaten the baby but he didn't seem to understand," she added.

Mrs. Wills also told of seeing her husband beating the baby's head against a wall, and that on two occasions she washed blood from her son's face after the beating had been administered.

The child was so badly injured during the July 20 beating that it's breath came in gasps, Mrs. Wills said. "I told my husband that he had killed 'Butchie'", she added. She also said that her husband told her to tell the doctor at the hospital that the child fell down once and was knocked over by a dog in order to account for the injuries.

Mrs. Wills said that her husband would become angry when the child soiled its clothes and once said: "Butchie, I'll train you or break you."

The case was tried before the Court and not before a jury. Counsels' arguments after testimony were brief. Assistant State's Attorney Fletcher outlined the law governing manslaughter after Chief Judge William A. Huster suggested that counsel confine their arguments to this charge.

Fletcher cited numerous parallel cases, some of which seemed as-

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind.) told reporters Mr. Truman said he wants $642,000,000 to tide Italy and France over till next March 31, as compared with the $580,000,000 figure suggested in September.

Halleck said "there will be some holes shot in those figures."

Would Allocate Supplies

But Martin said Mr. Truman hoped to deal with prices by the process of allocating supplies, if congress consents, rather than by food or grain price ceilings. It was indicated also that rationing at the consumer level is not presently being considered.

The special session date is only one week after the scheduled hearings on foreign aid by the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees, set for November 10.

And it is only about two weeks after the now-expected issuance of the 19-member Harriman Committee's report on the Marshall plan, the outgrowth of the 16-nation Paris conference on European reconstruction and mutual aid.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky.), Senate minority leader, predicted the stopgap legislation for aid to France, Italy and Austria would be enacted in time for a Christmas recess.

This would eliminate the need of carrying the special session through until the starting-date of the regular session, January 3.

Barkley gave reassurance that the restoration of price ceilings is not planned, but said the White House is working on some "suggestions" for congressional action to fight inflation.

Britain Slashes

machinery must be slashed by $800,000,000 a year.

Alexander announced a "temporary immobilization of a considerable part of the home fleet" as part of a plan to cut manpower strength to 147,000 by March 31 from a previous naval estimate of 191,000.

Cripps, declaring that Britain's greatest financial problem was in obtaining dollars for the purchase of essential food and raw materials, warned that even stringent economies would not evert further heavy sales of gold reserves. In recent weeks Britain has sold $200,000,000 of her estimated $2,400,000,000 gold reserve to the United States to cover "generl commitments" in the United States.

Sharper Austerity In Store

Cripps warned of still sharper austerity to come as he gave details of the Labor government's program, broadly outlined Tuesday by King George VI at the opening of Parliament.

" Can we discipline ourselves to the task before us, or are we going to invite the harsh discipline of events to impose some tragic solution upon us?" the Economics Minister asked.

He was challenged immediately by Viscount Hinchingbrooke, who called for an "absolute reverse" of the government policy.

DOCTOR TEACHES CLASS BY 'MIKE' FROM HIS BED

AP Newsfeatures

PHILADELPHIA — Now it's remote control dental training by telephone.

Some day, perhaps, a dentist may probe into your cavities and say:

"I know what's wrong with your teeth. My prof told me all about it on the telephone."

Seriously, 140 students at the University of Pennsylvania Dental School are learning oral medicine without a teacher in sight.

from the waist down in a 70-pound

The 40-year-old professor fractured his left leg in an automobile accident a year ago and complications have bed-ridden him since. He hopes to "learn to walk again" soon.

Sisson Reports On YMCA Activities

Robert L. Sisson, general secretary of Central YMCA, reported on recent activities of the organization at the monthly board of directors' meeting Wednesday night, with Adolph Blunk, president, presiding.

Sisson said 15,801 individuals were served during September, and that 47 different groups held meetings at Central YMCA, with a total attendance of 3,444.

Regarding membership, Sisson said that 1,690 persons were enrolled as members as of September 30.

Sweden Is Winner

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 23 (AP)—Sweden won the four-day international military pentathlon that ended today with the United States finishing fifth among the seven teams entered.

Swedish Captain Wille Grut was the individual winner with 44 points. The top American contestant was 42-year-old Lieut. Col. Fred R. Weber of Homestead, Fla., who placed 20th with a score of 105.

Milk Producers Ask Protection

Representatives of the Tri-State Milk Producers' Association appealed yesterday to the Cumberland Board of Health to give its members protection against unfair competition.

Orlan Hepner, association secretary, told the board at a two-hour session in Mayor Thomas S. Post's office that no dairy plant should be allowed to sell milk in the city unless the milk comes from inspected farms, and that emergency permits regarding the source of milk should not be issued continuously to the same plants.

Ray Blocher, president, said that production of quality milk costs the farmer time and money. He estimated that association members have invested $4,000,000 in an effort to provide a high quality product.

The Board of Health was represented by Mayor Post, Dr. C. L. Owens and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer. Health officials present were J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, and W. Arnold Gunther, state bacteriologist.

Gunther said the producers are right in claiming there is not complete inspection of milk producing farms. He said if a complete job is to be done funds must be provided for another inspector.

The health officials explained that because of the manpower shortage, farms are not checked regularly, but that all are spot inspected at various times. Dr. Owens said he wants a high quality of milk and expressed approval of rigid inspection.

Other association members present were Carlton Livengood, O. M. Llewellyn and Merle Kline.

B. & O. Radio System Will Be Expanded

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad soon will expand its utilization of radio communications by installing two-way very high frequency radio-telephone equipment on its fleet of seven tugs operating in the New York harbor area.

For some time past, the railroad has employed a similar type of radio equipment in the direction of its marine operations in Baltimore harbor, and its yard operations at New Castle, Pa. Equipment for the new installation in New York harbor, to be completed by spring, is being made by the General Railway Signal Company, of Rochester, N. Y. The radio will be of the frequency modulated type, so as to be free from atmospheric interference.

Frostburg Driver Pays $21.45 Fine

Daniel S. Wampler, Frostburg, was fined $21.45 yesterday in trial magistrates court when he was charged with failing to identify himself after an accident. He was acquitted, however, of a charge of reckless driving preferred by Trooper George Coddington at the hearing before Magistrate Perdew.

Wampler was arrested October 6 after the car he was driving collided with a vehicle operated by Charles A. McKenzie, 713 Virginia Avenue.

Carl Elmer Gurtler, 423 Ascension Street, forfeited $6.45 bond for failing to keep to the right of the center of Route 40 in the Narrows, and Truman D. Gilbert, Philadelphia, forfeited the same amount for exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 40 at Allegany Grove. Both were apprehended Sunday by State Trooper William McElfish.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Morgenthau Says State Dept. Did "Practically Nothing" To Aid Jews

But He Lifts Blame From Hull, Welles

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Henry Morgenthau Jr., says that for "18 terrible months" during which Nazis murdered Jews the State Department dealt with human lives in "the same lofty manner" it would handle a "not very urgent trade negotiation."

Writing of the wartime refugee problem in Collier's magazine, the former Secretary of the Treasury said the State Department "did practically nothing for nearly a year and a half after learning the Nazis planned to "exterminate" all European Jews.

Morgenthau lifts the direct blame from Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles, then Secretary and Undersecretary of State, and puts it on underlings.

"Officials dodged their grim responsibility," he said, "procrastinated when concrete rescue schemes were placed before them, and even suppressed information about atrocities in order to prevent an outraged public opinion from forcing their hand."

The treasury, he said, had to pass an financial phrases of refugee relief plans. and:

"This gave us a front-row view of those 18 terrible months of inefficiency, buck passing, bureaucratic delay and sometimes, what appeared to be calculated obstructionism."

Finally, after he went directly to President Roosevelt, Morgenthau said, the refugee question was taken from the State Department and given to a war refugee board named by the Chief Executive.

The board, he said, did a magnificant job. But because of the late start, Morgenthau said, "only one out of seven European Jews is alive today."

The former Treasury chief told of pushing a plan to send money to Switzerland to be used in getting 70,000 people out of France and Romania. He said the State Department delayed it, that it was referred to the British, and the Foreign Office was reluctant to approve even preliminary financial arrangements because of the difficulty of "disposing of any considerable number of Jews."

This, Morgenthau said, was "a Satanic combination of British chill and diplomatic double-talk, cold and correct and adding up to a sentence of death." He added:

"The British Foreign Office was only living up to its reputation; but we had now come to believe that our own State Department, through the phrasing of its cables on the subject, was adroitly signaling its own indifference to the whole 'treasury' project."

Hull, however, got off a reply rejecting the British position, Morgenthau said, and "I have rarely seen such strong language used in a communication with an ally."

At last, he said, orders went through to set up the refugee fund in Switzerland.

Morgenthau told of putting together what he called "the shocking story of the suppression indident," centering around Cable 354. Through this cable, he said, the State Department tried to stop public pressure on the refugee problem by "shutting off at the source the flow of information which nourished it."

The cable, he said, was sent to Leland Harrison, United States minister in Switzerland early in 1943, suggesting that he stop sending private messages through diplomatic channels. It said such messages get around censorship of neutral countries and might result in retaliation that would curb official communications.

The effect, Morgenthau said, was to shut off atrocity reports to the American Jewish Congress from Gerhard Riegner, representing the World Jewish Congress in Switzerland. These reports, he said, might have provoked "more mass meetings and more public protests."

The cable was signed by Welles for Hull, he said. But he indicated subordinates wrote it.

The two were busy with a thousand other things, Morgenthau said, and the cable was so worded that a busy official would clear it as a piece of routine while signing the day's outgoing cables.

It took about a year, Morgenthau said, for him to pry a copy of the original cable out of the State Department.

Typhus Feared In Northern Greece

ATHENS—(AP)—Despite the fact that Greece escaped a major epidemic of typhus even during periods of starvation, public health officials of the American Mission for aid to Greece express deep concern about the possibilty of an epidemic developing this winter and next spring among refugees in northern Greece.

Dr. Oswald F. Hedley, of Richmond, Va., chief of AMAG public health division, says "the refugee problem has become serious. There are 150,000 now homeless in the Salinika area, and epidemics of disease are threatening."

Oppose Japanese In Australia

AUCKLAND, New Zealand—(AP)—The Auckland Returned Services' Association has decided to ask the New Zealand government to prohibit the entry of Japanese to New Zealand "on any pretext whatever."

A. P. Postlewaite, president of the veterans' association, which has around 10,000 members, said the resolution was the result of a suggestion that Japanese should be imported to work as domestic servants.

"The Japanese are a serious threat to the economic position and trade of New Zealand," he said. "The time has come to close the door to them."

One of the World's Finer Washers

Joe does it again! Here come these famous Barton Electric Washers, at a popular price and just when you had dispaired of being able to purchase one. They are precision made by one of the world's oldest and largest manufacturers of washing machines. They are made to do their job thoroughly in a small fraction of the time of old fashioned methods or inferior washing machines. Get yours today . . . stocks are generous but these fine washers just won't last long.

Controla Speed

Three Speed Washing—Three Speed Wringing. Controla Speed's selection of different speeds at the will of the operator is a basic improvment in home laundrying equipment. Tender fabrics require gentle washing. Strong and more soiled pieces need vigorous washing action. Controla Speed provides the correct washing speed for every fabric at the touch of a lever. Eliminates all hand washing.

Selection of wringer speed is also provided. Large bulky pieces requiring time to straighten out when feeding clothes through wringer are easily handled by shifting lever to slower speed. A simple variable speed pulley does it—fool proof and service free.

Patented DOUBLE-DUTY AGITATOR

Removable plastic bowl—easily slipped on over the aluminum agitator. Gently washes small pieces such as handkerchiefs or dainties which are hard to find in the tub.

Extra washing action for clothes in the large tub, which, rising to the surface come in contact with the scrubbing action of the bowl. Exclusive—easily demonstrated.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Teen-Agers Disappointed In Love Must Take Realistic View

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

While it is perfectly natural, of course, for girls and boys to fall in and out of love while they are growing up, and think each romance is the only one they will ever have, it seems too bad that some of them waste so much time wallowing in tragedy when one of these temporary romances explodes or just burns out of itself. Such an indulgence always makes me wonder whether the grief-stricken one is actually suffering or merely having a good time dramatizing herself. I say "herself" because the vast majority of these emotionally extravagant young people are girls.

The following letter is a typical example of the sort of thing I mean. It is from a 17-year-old girl who claims to be madly in love with a boy of 15½:

"Two months ago this boy moved away," she writes, "and that nearly set me crazy. I had a slight nervous breakdown and I am still not well. My parents and friends do not know the reason for this, as I won't tell them.

"This boy never came straight out with the words, 'I love you,' but he hinted several times. He is very timid and backward and was also very much afraid of my parents, especially my dad. When he left he said he would write. Well he never has yet. He is afraid my parents might find the letter.

"I just feel that this world has nothing dearer than him for me. He is worth tons of gold and silver in my sight. I have his picture and every time I look at it my heart fails me. Then I break down crying. I love him more than words can express and I don't want to live without him. Do you think I should write him and tell him how I feel, or go on in sorrow to my grave? I never want another boy friend.

"I hope you will print this, as it may help someone else in the same shape."

Well, here I am printing it, and for just the reason that this girl suggests, only I am afraid with a little different meaning. What she apparently means is that reading her letter may be helpful to some other girl "in the same shape" because it will show her that others have this sort of trouble, too. My own hope is that other girls "in the same shape" who read this letter will see how silly it is to get so dramatic, and stop "emoting" over their own shattered romances. It seems especially foolish when you consider how little reason the boy gave the girl for being so smitten with him. I doubt if the reason he hasn't written her is because he is afraid of her father. I am afraid he just doesn't care enough, and I hope this girl will have sense enough to realize that and stop wasting emotions over a wholly imaginary love affair. But, as I suggested in the beginning, I think the chances are she is having a good time with her romantic daydreams rather than dealing with realities.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—(INS)—Norma Shearer has been approached to star in "O... Mistress Mine," the Lunt-Fontanne stage play.

Fannie Brice

Although no papers have been signed, Norma has always loved the play and so she's listening to Michael Kraike, former RKO producer, and Richard Blumenthal, producer of "Lady In the Dark" and other screen plays, who would like to film it releasing through Eagle-Lion.

This quiets talk that Norma has put her foot down on playing mother roles. The woman is a very glamorous sophisticate, whose callow son objects violently to her long-standing romance with a member of parliament and proceeds to almost ruin their love affair.

Well, Joan Crawford and Greer Garson have both won Oscars in mother roles.

Did you know that 77 per cent of our male population at one time or another sold newspapers?

This makes the original story authored by Victor Kushner and Carl Newman called "An American Exclusive," hit home to men who buy movie tickets.

It's the saga of four boys who sell you your favorite newspapers on the streets. The authors couldn't be better informed because they both sold papers on the streets of Detroit for over 12 years.

On Wednesday, Fannie Brice celebrates her 56th birthday, and doesn't care who knows it.

Some of her friends, Gracie Allen, George Burns, and a lot of others, are naming the week of Oct. 22 to 29 as Fannie Brice Week, so that all of Fannie's friends can salute her during that period.

At the same time she will observe her 43rd year in show business. She started when she was a youngster.

The married pair, Bill Williams and Barbara Hale, will be co-starred in "The Window," an original by Mel Dinelli. Mel wrote "The Spiral Staircase," and he wrote many of the "suspense" shows which were the last word in chiller-dillers.

"The Window" is an unusual murder story about a boy who is a notorious liar, and when he looks through a window and actually sees a murder committed, nobody believes him.

Bobby Driccoll is being tested for the boy role, and the picture, which will be filmed in New York, will be Fred Ullman's first independent production for RKO.

Although Walter Winchell is in Hollywood and will be for some weeks, Greer Garson will be his guest at all the top shows and at the Stork Club when she goes to New York.

Walter told me that Greer had done such wonderful work for the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, that he had telephoned New York to make these arrangements as a tribute to her. For the first time Greer flies to New York, and reaches there tomorrow.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The Mark Stevenes take off on their second honeymoon this weekend when they leave for San Francisco to attend the Southern California football game, then they catch a train immediately after for New York.

Bogy and Baby have received a belated wedding gift in the shape of an acre of land on Louis Bromfield's Farm in Ohio. They will build a small house on the property. That is where they were married.

Everisto Picazo, the half-brother of President Roxas of the Philippines, marries Ras Gaison, a pretty Filipino, Nov. 10. He gave this news while dining at the Longshires restaurant.

Henry Koster, who directed "The Bishop's Wife," the command performance selection, is in London but he won't wait for the festivities since he's due back in this country to make another movie.

Lilli Palmer and Rex Harrison are bringing Lilli's mother back to Hollywood when they return here. By the way, Harrison and Peggy Cummins will represent 20th Century-Fox at the command performance.

Bette Garde, who originated "Aunt Ellie," is making her screen debut in "Northside 777," and they say she is the nearest thing to the beloved Marie Dressler of any actress on the screen.

Tyrone Power gets back from overseas Nov. 14 and heads right back to Hollywood.

That's all today.

Negro Woman Said To Be 100 Years Old Is Missing

FAIRFAX, Va., Oct. 23. (AP)—The whereabouts of a negro woman, said to be about 100 years old, is puzzling police after she disappeared from her home September 19.

Sgt. Cecil E. Brown, of the Fairfax County police, said Mrs. Martha Thomas, a partial cripple, was last seen about 9 p. m. at her home near Burke Station, Fairfax County, where she lived alone.

Brown said police do not suspect foul play. The theory, he said, is she was taken to some other home to be cared for, although a check on relatives' homes failed to shed any light on the case.

Balsa, the lightest commercial wood in the world, did its bit in the war effort in bombers, life saving equipment, combat boats and mine detectors.

50 Persons Attend Wigfield Reunion

By MRS. H. V. BENDER

FLINTSTONE—Approximately 50 persons attended a reunion of the Wigfield family, descendants of John B. Wigfield, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Street, Centerville, Pa., on Sunday.

The home place of the Wigfield family is now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Mallow, Route 2, Flintstone.

Those attending the reunion included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wigfield, Saranac, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Wade Wigfield and daughter, Anna Lee, Battle Creek, Mich.; and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wigfield and children, Blairsville, Pa.

Brief Items

The Ladies Aid and men's business group of the Glendale Brethren Church will meet Wednesday evening, October 29, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wigfield, Route 1.

Garth Yonker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yonker, is a patient in Allegany Hospital, Cumberland, where he was admitted Tuesday after suffering a toe injury.

Personals

Mrs. Ivy D. Snider, Newton, Mass., is visiting her brother, Stephen Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Dolly. The latter is her niece.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wigfield and family, Blairsville, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wigfield and family, Cumberland, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wigfield, Route 1.

Mrs. Lewis Smith, Star Route, Flintstone, is a patient in Allegany Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wigfield, Saranac, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Wade Wigfield and daughter, Anna Lee, Battle Creek, Mich., and Mrs. Frank Fisher, Cumberland, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wigfield.

Mrs. Charles Babb is reported seriously ill in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she was admitted September 7.

Sheriff's Office Holds Beightol Warrants

The Sheriff's office advised last night that warrants issued Wednesday about 5 p. m. calling for the arrest of Millard Beightol, 7 Park Avenue, New York City, are being held for further instructions.

When the warrants issued by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew after Mrs. Elizabeth Dixon, 221 Baltimore Avenue, charged Beightol with assault and the malicious destruction of property were received by the Sheriff's office, the man had left here by plane, the office said.

Authorities said Beightol flew to Cumberland Wednesday to get possession of his 5-year-old daughter, Virginia Ann Beightol, adding that Beightol explained Mrs. Fannie Koon, 221 Baltimore Street, took the child from the home of an aunt in New York about a week ago without his knowledge.

Influenza, also known as Russian fever, Spanish Influenza, Catarrhal fever and La Grippe, has been known and described since about 400 years before Christ.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

All parents who are interested in developing their daughters natural grace and charm to the utmost should see this picture.

"Having studied Russian ballet since 1920, I feel that this is the first motion picture that has shown the benefits that proper ballet training gives to youth," said John Moyer, director of the Moyer Dance Studio.

Mr. Moyer began his studies of the ballet with Alexis Kosfloff, ballet master of the Metropolitan Opera and at present he is taking advanced work with Michael Nicheloff, a former member of the Metropolitan Ballet.

Classes in Ballet are held daily at the Moyer School and enrollments may be made at any time.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—(INS)—Norma Shearer has been approached to star in "O... Mistress Mine," the Lunt-Fontanne stage play.

Fannie Brice

Although no papers have been signed, Norma has always loved the play and so she's listening to Michael Kraike, former RKO producer, and Richard Blumenthal, producer of "Lady In the Dark" and other screen plays, who would like to film it releasing through Eagle-Lion.

This quiets talk that Norma has put her foot down on playing mother roles. The woman is a very glamorous sophisticate, whose callow son objects violently to her long-standing romance with a member of parliament and proceeds to almost ruin their love affair.

Well, Joan Crawford and Greer Garson have both won Oscars in mother roles.

Did you know that 77 per cent of our male population at one time or another sold newspapers?

This makes the original story authored by Victor Kushner and Carl Newman called "An American Exclusive," hit home to men who buy movie tickets.

It's the saga of four boys who sell you your favorite newspapers on the streets. The authors couldn't be better informed because they both sold papers on the streets of Detroit for over 12 years.

On Wednesday, Fannie Brice celebrates her 56th birthday, and doesn't care who knows it.

Some of her friends, Gracie Allen, George Burns, and a lot of others, are naming the week of Oct. 22 to 29 as Fannie Brice Week, so that all of Fannie's friends can salute her during that period.

At the same time she will observe her 43rd year in show business. She started when she was a youngster.

The married pair, Bill Williams and Barbara Hale, will be co-starred in "The Window," an original by Mel Dinelli. Mel wrote "The Spiral Staircase," and he wrote many of the "suspense" shows which were the last word in chiller-dillers.

"The Window" is an unusual murder story about a boy who is a notorious liar, and when he looks through a window and actually sees a murder committed, nobody believes him.

Bobby Driccoll is being tested for the boy role, and the picture, which will be filmed in New York, will be Fred Ullman's first independent production for RKO.

Although Walter Winchell is in Hollywood and will be for some weeks, Greer Garson will be his guest at all the top shows and at the Stork Club when she goes to New York.

Walter told me that Greer had done such wonderful work for the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, that he had telephoned New York to make these arrangements as a tribute to her. For the first time Greer flies to New York, and reaches there tomorrow.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The Mark Stevenes take off on their second honeymoon this weekend when they leave for San Francisco to attend the Southern California football game, then they catch a train immediately after for New York.

Bogy and Baby have received a belated wedding gift in the shape of an acre of land on Louis Bromfield's Farm in Ohio. They will build a small house on the property. That is where they were married.

Everisto Picazo, the half-brother of President Roxas of the Philippines, marries Ras Gaison, a pretty Filipino, Nov. 10. He gave this news while dining at the Longshires restaurant.

Henry Koster, who directed "The Bishop's Wife," the command performance selection, is in London but he won't wait for the festivities since he's due back in this country to make another movie.

Lilli Palmer and Rex Harrison are bringing Lilli's mother back to Hollywood when they return here. By the way, Harrison and Peggy Cummins will represent 20th Century-Fox at the command performance.

Bette Garde, who originated "Aunt Ellie," is making her screen debut in "Northside 777," and they say she is the nearest thing to the beloved Marie Dressler of any actress on the screen.

Tyrone Power gets back from overseas Nov. 14 and heads right back to Hollywood.

Negro Woman Said To Be 100 Years Old Is Missing

FAIRFAX, Va., Oct. 23. (AP)—The whereabouts of a negro woman, said to be about 100 years old, is puzzling police after she disappeared from her home September 19.

Sgt. Cecil E. Brown, of the Fairfax County police, said Mrs. Martha Thomas, a partial cripple, was last seen about 9 p. m. at her home near Burke Station, Fairfax County, where she lived alone.

Brown said police do not suspect foul play. The theory, he said, is she was taken to some other home to be cared for, although a check on relatives' homes failed to shed any light on the case.

Balsa, the lightest commercial wood in the world, did its bit in the war effort in bombers, life saving equipment, combat boats and mine detectors.

50 Persons Attend Wigfield Reunion

By MRS. H. V. BENDER

FLINTSTONE—Approximately 50 persons attended a reunion of the Wigfield family, descendants of John B. Wigfield, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Street, Centerville, Pa., on Sunday.

The home place of the Wigfield family is now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Mallow, Route 2, Flintstone.

Those attending the reunion included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wigfield, Saranac, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Wade Wigfield and daughter, Anna Lee, Battle Creek, Mich.; and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wigfield and children, Blairsville, Pa.

Brief Items

The Ladies Aid and men's business group of the Glendale Brethren Church will meet Wednesday evening, October 29, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wigfield, Route 1.

Garth Yonker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yonker, is a patient in Allegany Hospital, Cumberland, where he was admitted Tuesday after suffering a toe injury.

Personals

Mrs. Ivy D. Snider, Newton, Mass., is visiting her brother, Stephen Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Dolly. The latter is her niece.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wigfield and family, Blairsville, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wigfield and family, Cumberland, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wigfield, Route 1.

Mrs. Lewis Smith, Star Route, Flintstone, is a patient in Allegany Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wigfield, Saranac, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Wade Wigfield and daughter, Anna Lee, Battle Creek, Mich., and Mrs. Frank Fisher, Cumberland, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wigfield.

Mrs. Charles Babb is reported seriously ill in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she was admitted September 7.

Jimmy Durante To Be Guest On Quiz Show Of Adults

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Jimmy Durante, the now-NBC broadcaster, is to give some of his extra attention to the MBS network on Friday night. That's because he's a list guest expert for Information Please at 9:30. The other guest will be Deems Taylor, who specializes in musical knowledge.

Opinion Please, the discussion division of the School of the Air of CBS at 5, will go into the question of "A Place to Live." Not only is the drama used in these features, but students from a college are called to the microphone to carry on from there.

Prize fighting is slated for the welterweight division in the ABC ringside activity at 10. The principals are Billy Graham and Willie Beltram, both New Yorkers.

Upcoming for the novels series on NBC at 11:30 is Part III of George Meredith's "Diana of the Crossways."

Music that gets a classification in the popular vein will be made available again in the Mark Warnow program on CBS at 9. A 12-voice chorus helps out.

People are Funny, Art Linkletter's idea of what's a stunt quiz, proposes to find out if a contestant sent to a deserted Pacific isle could elude a photographer, also along, for a total of five days. In other words a report on an alleged "man-hunt."

Meet the Press time comes up again on the MBS network at 10 o'clock.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Jolson Redecorates The Music Hall

A man in St. Louis told me his teen-age daughter had come home one day in wild excitement over a new singer named Al Jolson. This brings up the question as to whether the revival of Jolson is just part of the universal tendency toward nostalgia or whether he is a brand new taste thrill for a great many people who were too young to experience him in his two or three reincarnations. Probably he is a bit of both.

Al Jolson

The Jolson revival, as a matter of fact, has much in common with that of "Gone With the Wind," which is now outselling all the contemporary pictures. The patrons are not seeing the film again; three-quarters of them have never seen it before; they came of picture age since the film was first released which, come to think of it, was a long time ago. Jolson has the same solid ingredients of success as "Gone With the Wind"—a towering reputation and the faint, lavender odor of old times when life was less worrisome. In addition, he brings to the "Kraft Music Hall" a personality which has been aged and mellowed by thirty years of show business. This rare aggregate of fortunate qualities is just what the "Music Hall" has needed since the departure of Bing Crosby.

The "Music Hall" (N. B. C. 9 p. m. E. S. T., Thursdays) has been extensively decorated to fit the personality of its new star. You'll hear the old, old songs—not the popular numbers of the '30s but those of the '20s and even older. Jolson likes to sing such tunes as "Annie Laurie," "Peg o' My Heart" (which despite its current popularity was written in 1913), "April Showers" and —to translate it into Jolsonian terms—"Mee an' Muh Ga-a-a-a-l."

He is happiest with something like "April Showers," whose lyrics fit his temperament and the spirit of his period almost exactly. "So keep awn lookin' faw a bloo bud an' listenin' faw a song." Any lyric that deviates very far from that spirit and those words puzzles him. There is something vaguely ludicrous about "I'd lay me doon an' dee" in a rich Scottish brogue emanating from the throat of the aging mammy singer. When Jolson isn't singing the old songs, he's depreciating the new ones and particularly the new singers who, in his own phrase, "have to hang a microphone on their tonsils." Jolson can still reach into the last row of the balcony without the aid of any mechanical contrivances.

There are a lot of other new faces around the "Music Hall" besides Mr. Jolson. Ken Carpenter is still there and Milena Miller will be around from time to time, but the rest of the cast is different. Lou Bring and his orchestra and a twelve-voice chorus help out Mr. Jolson on the crescendos. More importantly, Oscar Levant and his acid, ultra-modern tongue have been brought in to provide a contrast to Mr. Jolson's red plush personality.

Levant is an excellent example of one of the lamentable quirks of contemporary show business. There was a time when a pianist of Levant's ability—and he has plenty—could get by on that alone. Today the successful musician must also be a clown or a character of some sort. He must not just play the piano he must turn handsprings for the people too. Levant's handsprings, it must be admitted, are unique. He started out making a nuisance of himself on "Information, Please" and gradually has made a profession out of being as unlikable as possible. There's a great future in it. With all the other comedians attempting to be as softheaded and left-footed and lovable as lambs, Levant with his brittle, bitter egotism has the specialized field of unpopularity all to himself. He plays it to the hilt on this show.

"Oscar, I've heard some nice things about you," said Mr. Jolson the other night.

"They're all lies," snarled Oscar. I wouldn't be at all surprised if some day there were an Oscar Levant show to which every one would listen in order to stick his tongue out at Oscar. It's the sort of appeal Jack Dempsey once had, the sort of appeal Walter Winchell still has. Levant, incidentally, is also a whale of a good pianist and his concertos add a lot of class to the "Music Hall."

Jolson's contributed to the comedy is only fair. He doesn't try to get laughs, just a smile, and with the indifferent material he is given that is difficult. In addition to Jolson and Levant, some very high quality guest stars may be found around the Hall. Opening night brought forth Bergen and McCarthy and others have included Lauritz Melchior (another man who has found clowning more profitable than serious music) and Groucho Marx. Bing Crosby, who presided over the "Music Hall" for nine years, dropped in the other night for old times' sake to discuss with Jolson the changes in the old place. Bing's moose, and one thing and another. When they got the by-play out of the way, the pair of them made the rafters ring with a medley of ten of George Gershwin's best tunes—"Rhapsody in Blue" (played by Levant), "Swanee," "The Man I Love," "Lady Be Good," "Somebody Loves Me," "Embraceable You," "I Got Rhythm," "It Ain't Necessarily So," "Summertime" and "Strike Up The Band."

Jimmy Durante To Be Guest On Quiz Show Of Adults

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Jimmy Durante, the now-NBC broadcaster, is to give some of his extra attention to the MBS network on Friday night. That's because he's a list guest expert for Information Please at 9:30. The other guest will be Deems Taylor, who specializes in musical knowledge.

Opinion Please, the discussion division of the School of the Air of CBS at 5, will go into the question of "A Place to Live." Not only is the drama used in these features, but students from a college are called to the microphone to carry on from there.

Prize fighting is slated for the welterweight division in the ABC ringside activity at 10. The principals are Billy Graham and Willie Beltram, both New Yorkers.

Upcoming for the novels series on NBC at 11:30 is Part III of George Meredith's "Diana of the Crossways."

Music that gets a 'classification in the popular vein will be made available again in the Mark Warnow program on CBS at 9. A 12-voice chorus helps out.

People are Funny, Art Linkletter's idea of what's a stunt quiz, proposes to find out if a contestant sent to a deserted Pacific isle could elude a photographer, also along, for a total of five days. In other words a report on an alleged "man-" hunt.

Meet the Press time comes up again on the MBS network at 10 o'clock.

RADIO IN REVIEW

Jolson Redecorates The Music Hall

A man in St. Louis told me his teen-age daughter had come home one day in wild excitement over a new singer named Al Jolson. This brings up the question as to whether the revival of Jolson is just part of the universal tendency toward nostalgia or whether he is a brand new taste thrill for a great many people who were too young to experience him in his two or three reincarnations. Probably he is a bit of both.

Al Jolson

The Jolson revival, as a matter of fact, has much in common with that of "Gone With the Wind," which is now outselling all the contemporary pictures. The patrons are not seeing the film again; three-quarters of them have never seen it before; they came of picture age since the film was first released which, come to think of it, was a long time ago. Jolson has the same solid ingredients of success as "Gone With the Wind"—a towering reputation and the faint, lavender odor of old times when life was less worrisome. In addition, he brings to the "Kraft Music Hall" a personality which has been aged and mellowed by thirty years of show business. This rare aggregate of fortunate qualities is just what the "Music Hall" has needed since the departure of Bing Crosby.

The "Music Hall" (N. B. C. 9 p. m. E. S. T., Thursdays) has been extensively decorated to fit the personality of its new star. You'll hear the old, old songs—not the popular numbers of the '30s but those of the '20s and even older. Jolson likes to sing such tunes as "Annie Laurie," "Peg o' My Heart" (which despite its current popularity was written in 1913), "April Showers" and —to translate it into Jolsonian terms—"Mee an' Muh Ga-a-a-a-l."

He is happiest with something like "April Showers," whose lyrics fit his temperament and the spirit of his period almost exactly. "So keep awn lookin' faw a bloo bud an' listenin' faw a song." Any lyric that deviates very far from that spirit and those words puzzles him. There is something vaguely ludicrous about "I'd lay me doon an' dee" in a rich Scottish brogue emanating from the throat of the aging mammy singer. When Jolson isn't singing the old songs, he's depreciating the new ones and particularly the new singers who, in his own phrase, "have to hang a microphone on their tonsils." Jolson can still reach into the last row of the balcony without the aid of any mechanical contrivances.

There are a lot of other new faces around the "Music Hall" besides Mr. Jolson. Ken Carpenter is still there and Milena Miller will be around from time to time, but the rest of the cast is different. Lou Bring and his orchestra and a twelve-voice chorus help out Mr. Jolson on the crescendos. More importantly, Oscar Levant and his acid, ultra-modern tongue have been brought in to provide a contrast to Mr. Jolson's red plush personality.

Levant is an excellent example of one of the lamentable quirks of contemporary show business. There was a time when a pianist of Levant's ability—and he has plenty—could get by on that alone. Today the successful musician must also be a clown or a character of some sort. He must not just play the piano he must turn handsprings for the people too. Levant's handsprings, it must be admitted, are unique. He started out making a nuisance of himself on "Information, Please" and gradually has made a profession out of being as unlikable as possible. There's a great future in it. With all the other comedians attempting to be as softheaded and left-footed and lovable as lambs, Levant with his brittle, bitter egotism has the specialized field of unpopularity all to himself. He plays it to the hilt on this show.

"Oscar, I've heard some nice things about you," said Mr. Jolson the other night.

"They're all lies," snarled Oscar. I wouldn't be at all surprised if some day there were an Oscar Levant show to which every one would listen in order to stick his tongue out at Oscar. It's the sort of appeal Jack Dempsey once had, the sort of appeal Walter Winchell still has. Levant, incidentally, is also a whale of a good pianist and his concertos add a lot of class to the "Music Hall."

Jolson's contributed to the comedy is only fair. He doesn't try to get laughs, just a smile, and with the indifferent material he is given that is difficult. In addition to Jolson and Levant, some very high quality guest stars may be found around the Hall. Opening night brought forth Bergen and McCarthy and others have included Lauritz Melchior (another man who has found clowning more profitable than serious music) and Groucho Marx. Bing Crosby, who presided over the "Music Hall" for nine years, dropped in the other night for old times' sake to discuss with Jolson the changes in the old place. Bing's moose, and one thing and another. When they got the by-play out of the way, the pair of them made the rafters ring with a medley of ten of George Gershwin's best tunes—"Rhapsody in Blue" (played by Levant), "Swanee," "The Man I Love," "Lady Be Good," "Somebody Loves Me," "Embraceable You," "I Got Rhythm," "It Ain't Necessarily So," "Summertime" and "Strike Up The Band."

31—HELP WANTED

EXPERIENCED typist wanted. Call 652.

NO MATTER whether you have been in business a month or ten years—there are probably hundreds of people in and near Cumberland who have never heard of you—people who need things—merchandise or service—just what you have to sell. Times-News Want Ads will place your name, your wares and services you sell before a reading audience in excess of 100,000 persons.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to our friends and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved father and brother, William Gallagher. We also wish to thank the pastor, the pallbearers, those who sent flowers, and those who loaned cars.
HIS FAMILY.

Individual Stocks, Led By Steels And Special Issues, Score Advances

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—Individual stocks, led by steels and special issues, stepped into the recovery ranks of today's market although numerous pivotals failed to emerge from the minus division.

The day's aggregate of 1,190,000 shares compared with 1,260,000 Wednesday and was a five-hour low since October 10.

Professionals covered short commitments here and there and customers bought sparingly on the idea the slackness of liquidation this week indicated that the list had a good chance of penetrating the July highs which, according to the chartists, would confirm a bull market trend.

New 1947 tops were recorded for Graham-Paige which finished up three-quarters at 6½; Warren Foundry 3⅞ at 30⅜, Lion Oil two at 30½, Continental Oil one-half at 50, Texas Pacific Coal and Oil seven-eighths at 41⅝, Wilson Company five-eighths at 16⅞, Doehler-Jarvis one-eighth at 39 and Burroughs Adding one-quarter at 16¼.

Hayes Industries was up one-half at nine, Outboard Marine five-eighths at 23 and Avco three-eighths at six.

Ahead were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Jones and Laughlin, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, American Can, Westinghouse, J. C. Penney, Union Pacific, Texas Company, Standard Oil (N.J.), Schenley, Publicker and Eversharp.

Losers included General Motors, Chrysler, Woolworth, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Western Union, Public Service of New Jersey, International Nickel, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Owens-Illinois and Mission Corporation.

In the Curb, Kaiser-Frazer pushed up 2⅛ on heavy transactions. Advancers also were Tishman Realty, Valspar, Ryan Consolidated Petroleum, Ashland Oil, Consolidated Textile, Regal Shoe and Root Petroleum. Turnover here was 400,000 shares versus 360,000 yesterday.

High-priced issues made their best showing in some two weeks in the bond market.

United States governments again tended lower, with the Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-'72 off 1-32 at 101 30-32 bid in the over-the-counter market.

Sales totaled $4,463,000 compared with $4,540,000 Wednesday.

Bethlehem Back Tops Pro League Passers

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—Warren Harris of the unbeaten-untied Bethlehem Bulldogs ranks as top passer in the American Football League today with a .600 percentage on 15 completions in 25 attempts. His average boomed off a pair of spectacular games in which he completed 14 of 17 tosses.

The Bulldogs, who top the league's Western Division, paid scant attention to the air game in their first two games but brought Harris' southpaw slants into play for 339 yards and seven touchdowns in defeating Bloomfield and Paterson.

Individual Stocks, Led By Steels And Special Issues, Score Advances

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—Individual stocks, led by steels and special issues, stepped into the recovery ranks of today's market although numerous pivotals failed to emerge from the minus division.

The day's aggregate of 1,190,000 shares compared with 1,260,000 Wednesday and was a five-hour low since October 10.

Professionals covered short commitments here and there and customers bought sparingly on the idea the slackness of liquidation this week indicated that the list had a good chance of penetrating the July highs which, according to the chartists, would confirm a bull market trend.

New 1947 tops were recorded for Graham-Paige which finished up three-quarters at 6½; Warren Foundry 3⅞ at 30¾, Lion Oil two at 30½, Continental Oil one-half at 50, Texas Pacific Coal and Oil seven-eighths at 41⅝, Wilson Company five-eighths at 16⅞, Doehler-Jarvis one-eighth at 39 and Burroughs Adding one-quarter at 16¼.

Hayes Industries was up one-half at nine, Outboard Marine five-eighths at 23 and Avco three-eighths at six.

Ahead were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Jones and Laughlin, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, American Can, Westinghouse, J. C. Penney, Union Pacific, Texas Company, Standard Oil (N.J.), Schenley, Publicker and Eversharp.

Losers included General Motors, Chrysler, Woolworth, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Western Union, Public Service of New Jersey, International Nickel, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Owens-Illinois and Mission Corporation.

In the Curb, Kaiser-Frazer pushed up 2⅛ on heavy transactions. Advancers also were Tishman Realty, Valspar, Ryan Consolidated Petroleum, Ashland Oil, Consolidated Textile, Regal Shoe and Root Petroleum. Turnover here was 400,000 shares versus 360,000 yesterday.

High-priced issues made their best showing in some two weeks in the bond market.

United States governments again tended lower, with the Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 off 1-32 at 101 30-32 bid in the over-the-counter market.

Sales totaled $4,463,000 compared with $4,540,000 Wednesday.

Court Finds "Buck" Wills Guilty Of Manslaughter

State Claims He Beat Baby To Death

Mervin C. "Buck" Wills, 20, Christie Road, was found "guilty of manslaughter and not guilty of murder" in Circuit Court yesterday when tried on a murder indictment charging him with the death of his 18-months-old son, Junior Clinton Wills, last July 20. Passing of sentence was deferred, but carries a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment.

Wills, represented by Edward J. Ryan was on the witness stand in his own defense for less than half an hour, during which time he admitted striking the child, paddling it with a hand mirror and hair brush, slapping it in the face with his open hand and frequently smacking it. He told the Court he did this in attempt to "break the baby of bad habits."

The young defendant was carefully questioned by his counsel during which the statement he signed before the State's Attorney after the baby died, was gone over question by question. The statement was an admission of frequent cases of punishing the infant, but the defendant claimed the injuries from which the child died were caused in a series of falls.

Claims Baby Fell

He said the baby fell from a pile of lumber, fell against a refrigerator door when visiting his grandmother a few days before, was knocked over by a pet dog and rolled down an embankment.

During his testimony he said his wife, Nancy Joretta Divelbliss Wills, punished the child more frequently than he had done, and that she had failed to properly care for the baby. He also charged that his wife and he had quarreled bitterly over what he termed "her running around and ruining my reputation while I was in the Army."

Asked about the statements to the State's Attorney of the child's series of falls, he said his wife suggested that they tell this story, and that he had done so when questioned by the State. He said "I made some of these statements because my wife told me to, and said she had already told the State's Attorney these same things."

Wills insisted that his wife beat the child, struck it in the mouth, about the head and spanked it until it was bruised.

Mother Testifys

In an effort to shorten the testimony as much as possible, Attorney Ryan told the Court there were a number of witnesses he would not call, since their testimony would be much the same.

He did, however, call Wills' mother, Mrs. Hester Landaker to the stand. She testified while her son was in the Army, Joretta and the baby had lived at her house. She told the Court she had to reprimand the girl for her treatment of the baby and said that Joretta not only beat her own child, but slapped and abused some of the Landaker children.

She also testified that Joretta "ran around with men" while Wills was away, and "she left my place and we kept the baby several times."

Raymond Sciese, Williams Road, who said he is Wills' uncle, testified that he had seen Joretta Wills beat the baby and "throw him in a chair, injuring the child's arm." Sciese said, "She treated him so badly I scolded her and she went in the house and cried."

The State's case was completed at 2:45 p. m. During the morning and early afternoon, the state unfolded a long chain of evidence including medical testimony of three physicians, a two-hour story from Mrs. Joretta Wills, the victim's mother, and authorities who investigated.

The hand mirror, hair brush, and broken crib where Wills was alleged to have beaten the child were submitted in evidence.

Medical Testimony

Dr. B. Skitarelic, of Memorial Hospital, testified at length as to the cause of death of the child, and said his autopsy revealed the child died of intra-cranium hemorrhages, and hemorrhage of the spleen and liver. The baby had also suffered a fractured collarbone, and its body was a series of multiple bruises. There were bruises on its head, back and lower extremities.

Under cross-examination Dr. Skitarelic said death was not due to natural causes but from some external violence.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, testified as to the nature of the child's injuries, and Dr. Lewis Brings testified he had treated the baby when it was ill at the age of about four weeks. He said the child was a normal healthy baby in every respect, and at that time had an upset stomach and nothing serious.

When the child's mother testified she told the Court her husband had brutally beaten the baby, and admitted she had spanked the child once with the hair brush.

She testified she was afraid of her husband and did not have a chance to notify the authorities. The only person she did tell of the beatings was her sister, Mrs. Marjorie Smith, stating she was able to whisper to her of the beatings on the Sunday the child died. The couple resided on Christie Road at the time of the alleged beatings.

Mrs. Wills said her husband struck the child with a hand mirror and brush, and that he had once broken a slat in the boy's bed with the force of a blow with the mirror that missed the child's body.

"I was seated downstairs on July 20 when I heard glass breaking," the wife said. "I ran upstairs to find my husband was beating the baby with a hand mirror. I pleaded with him to give me the baby but

Temperature Reading

Cumberland's temperature reached a maximum of 88 degrees yesterday, rising to that point from an overnight low of 43. Last night at 9:30 the temperature was 66. Today's forecast is for fair and cooler but "rather windy" conditions are expected, which will prove a further detriment to forest firefighting efforts.

VFW Group Lays Plan Of Action On Dam Project

Will Urge Congress To Provide Funds

In an effort to further assurance that Congress will appropriate funds for the completion of the Savage River Dam, a committee of members of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars met last night at the post home, and made preliminary plans for a program of action and publicity on the subject.

James W. Beacham, chairman of the group said the VFW membership here has instructed the committee to use every possible effort to bring the question to representatives in Congress and to continue an aggressive campaign until funds are forthcoming.

Thomas B. Finan, Jr., a member of the VFW committee and also chairman of the Veterans Committee for the Completion of Savage River Dam, representing the American Legion and the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, outlined the history of the Savage River Dam project, and explained work already done by the Legion-Jaycee group.

State Senator Robert B. Kimble attended the meeting on the invitation of Beacham and discussed the dam and the need for its completion.

Senator Kimble recalled the visit of the State Legislative Council to Western Maryland several weeks ago and said the body had inspected local industries and had visited the Savage River dam site. The entire Council, Kimble declared, is unanimous in opinion that the dam should be completed to augment the flow of the Potomac in dry weather and to hold back flood waters in rainy seasons. Kimble said the Council members were most favorable impressed with work already done and are aware of the need for its rapid completion.

The Senator said the Council will meet Tuesday to discuss legislation to come before the special session of the Maryland General Assembly and it is possible that some consideration may be given this question in the form of statewide support for the local project.

The opinion was expressed by Finan and others that Rep. J. Glenn Beall has waged an aggressive campaign and has "done about everything he can" to further the completion of the project.

Finan said a number of resolutions have been obtained from various organizations in this area, urging continued action, and citing the need for the dam as a flood control project for Luke, Westernport, Keyser, W. Va., Piedmont, W. Va., and other communities. More of these resolutions are to be assembled, he said, so that Congressman Beall will have visible evidence from a majority of residents that the dam is needed and wanted and that Congress should take immediate action.

Beacham indicated additional meetings will be held and other groups may be contacted for their support.

Kitzmiller Principal Gets Reserve Post

Thomas V. Baucom, principal of Kitzmiller High School, who holds the rank of lieutenant in the United States Naval Reserve, has been appointed associate officer and training officer of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division.

Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer, who announced the appointment yesterday, said Lt. Baucom will succeed Lt. A. John Stauffer, USNR. Lt. Stauffer, former instructor in chemistry and aeronautics at Fort Hill High School, resigned last August to accept a position as head of the department of physics at State Teachers' College, Kutztown, Pa.

Lt. Baucom entered the Navy May 5, 1943, and served as anti-submarine warfare instructor at Camp Parera, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, from October, 1943, until July, 1944. Later he served aboard the seaplane tender Casco during the Palau and Okinawa compaigns. He was released to inactive duty December 22, 1945.

Fraternity Pledge

Fred A. Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Small, Washington Street, is among the 192 undergraduates at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., pledged for membership by 29 national social fraternities on the Lehigh campus. He was pledged by Alpha Chi Rho.

Warning Issued On Possibility Of More Fires

Several Blazes Sweep Acreage In This Area

Western Maryland fire wardens reported last night they were "looking for trouble" today and warned against any out-of-door fires after a report from Baltimore that higher winds might arrive in this area.

Three new woods fires were reported in Allegany County yesterday but William Parr, district forester, said the last of the fires was brought under control by 7 p. m.

Two fires on Franklin Hill, near Westernport, burned over about six acres of land but were soon brought under control. Potomac Fire Company, Westernport, and Tri-Town Fire Company No. 1, under the direction of fire wardens, fought the blaze.

Another fire on Dan's Mountain, near Danville, burned about four acres of land but was under control by 7 p. m. Forest wardens blamed the blaze on smoking. Wardens Bodkin and Oliver Campbell directed the crew which fought the flames.

Several Garrett Blazes

Two fires which broke out in Garrett County were reported out of control last night. The first blaze, which broke out on Backbone Mountain, near Deer Park, shortly after midnight, had already burned over 150 acres early last night. Crews directed by Elmer Uphole, Garrett forest supervisor, expected to have the blaze under control by today.

There was no report on the second fire on Bear Hill, near Bittinger, except that it was still burning early last night. That blaze began about 3 p. m. yesterday.

Smoke was reported from the Altamont area, Garrett County, and forest wardens said the 1-4 acre fire apparently resulted from a spark from a train.

Two fires were also reported in Frederick County, one covering about an acre and another was reported early last night although the area was not known. Neither was believed to be serious.

Westernport town employes and workers of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company extinguished a blaze in the vicinity of the Westernport garbage dump yesterday afternoon. The same area caught fire Tuesday afternoon.

Use New Weapon

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 23. (AP)—A few scattered minor forest fires troubled the State Department of Forests and Parks today but none got out of hand, State Forester H. C. Buckingham reported.

"The winds are rising, though," he cautioned, "and the fires are burning deeper into the ground. We've got to dig them out even though they are extinguished at the edges."

There were approximately 12 acres burned over in the state yesterday, the largest fire in Cecil County.

Competitive Hearing For Radio Station Here Continues Today

Tri-State Plans To Affiliate With MBS

The competitive hearing of the Tri-State Broadcasting Company, Cumberland, and Richard A. Raese, Martinsburg, W. Va., who seek a permit to operate a standard radio station here, ground to a temporary halt last night at 10:15 o'clock after 22 Tri-State witnesses, including seven character and reference witnesses, were examined by a Federal Communications Commission examiner.

Raese, son-in-law of H. C. Greer, Morgantown, W. Va., publisher and radio station owner, failed to reach the stand during the 12 hours of testimony which along with today's will be the basis for the FFC to grant a permit for a radio station to operate here on 1230 kilocycles.

The 15 Tri-State Company stockholders who reached the stand yesterday disclosed their plan to operate the proposed station here and indicated that the station, with call letters WTSH, will become affiliated with the Mutual Broadcasting Company.

John W. Downing, Salisbury, vice president of the Tri-State Company, told Examiner Jack Blume that he is responsible for the organization of the company, but pointed out that approximately 54 per cent of the company's 10,000 shares of stock is now held by Cumberland and Frostburg residents.

John J. McMullen, Times and Alleganian Company president, who said his company holds 25 per cent of the Tri-State stock, told the FCC that the proposed station would be furnished complete local news coverage by the staffs of the three newspapers and refuted an attempt by the opposing counsel to attack the company's editorial policy by declaring that the editor of each publication is responsible for the editorial policy of his paper.

The policy statement was made after a letter written in 1939 regarding the company's policy was submitted as evidence during cross examination by Raese's counsel, despite vigorous Tri-State protests. Examiner Blume, however, when he was informed of the Times and Alleganian policy, praised it highly.

The seven character and references witnesses, who took up the entire morning, informed the FCC that they favored the location of another radio station in the city, and indicated they would give full co-operation to the company.

According to testimony, the Tri-State company plans, if granted the permit, to open an auxiliary station in Frostburg, where, officers declared, local programs could be originated at both Frostburg State Teachers College and Beall High School.

Downing informed the commission that the company's present plans call for the development of broadcasting of local sports contests and a search for tri-state area talent.

Examiner Blume indicated that the hearing will be speeded to an end tonight, which would mean Raese will take the stand sometime this afternoon to present his proposed plans for operating the station if granted the permit.

Tri-State stockholders who have

Adm. Lyle Cites Need Of Adequate Peacetime Navy

Today, as never before, this nation must maintain an adequate Navy, Rear Admiral Alexander Gordon Lyle, Dental Corps, USN, said in an address at the Cumberland Kiwanis Club luncheon yesterday at Central YMCA in observance of Navy Day.

"We must keep our peacetime Navy adequate so that the dark days immediately following the Pearl Harbor tragedy will never occur again," Admiral Kyle declared.

Not only from an economic standpoint but from an insurance or protective standpoint, an adequate Navy, "the nation's first line of defense," must be maintained in view of present unsettled world conditions, he said.

After tracing the history of the Navy from the time of wooden vessels to present day steel ships, Admiral Kyle pointed out that Navy personnel for the current year will average 395,000 men and 42,000 officers, as compared to its V-J Day strength of 3,066,758 men and 325,074 officers.

"The Navy has proved itself in all wars, and when the final pinch comes we bank on American spirit and patriotism to carry us through," he concluded.

The Kiwanis business session included the election of Wilbur K. Bishop, Dr. Albert A. Cook, Arthur S. Davis and Clarence Lippel to serve as directors for three-year terms.

C. O. Miller Heads Artificial Dairy Breeding Group

Clarence O. Miller, Midland Holstein breeder, was elected president of the Allegany County dairy cattle artificial breeding co-operative at its organization meeting last night in the office of the county farm agent in the Court House. John T. Mason, Rawlings, was named secretary-treasurer.

The local unit will be a part of the Maryland Artificial Breeding Co-operative Association, Inc., and was organized for the purpose of increasing production and the type of dairy animal of a particular breed.

Dr. Roy Weatherby, manager of the state association, and Roy Pou, of the University of Maryland dairy extension service, attended the meeting, and the latter explained the advantages derived from breeding dairy cows to good bulls in comparison to common animals.

Harry E. Miller, Frostburg, who completed a course at the University of Maryland in artificial insemination, was named inseminator technician for the county group.

Some 48 dairymen from Allegany County and nearby counties in West Virginia attended the meeting last night and it was tentatively agreed to limit membership to dairymen within a radius of 20 miles of Frostburg.

Meanwhile a membership committee composed of Marshall Porter, Eckhart, J. William Loar, Rawlings, and W. Greise, Mason Road, was named. They will circulate applications for membership within the area.

At the next meeting, still unscheduled, Dr. Weatherby again will be present and outline by-laws of the state organization.

In the meantime, anyone interested in joining the group may contact County Agent Ralph F. McHenry, from whom application blanks may be obtained. The blanks may be filled out at his office.

DEATHS

MR. GARLITZ RITES

A funeral service for Orville B. Garlitz, 40, 68 Cresap Street, a caretaker for the City of Cumberland, who died Wednesday in Memorial Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Living Stone Church of the Brethren.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of the church, will officiate and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

MISS ZILER RITES

A requiem mass for Miss Hattie Jane Ziler, 81, 738 Maryland Avenue, who died Wednesday at the home of her niece, Mrs. James Foard, 1011 Virginia Avenue, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

Three Of Four Vehicles Stolen Here Recovered

One Entry, Another Attempt Reported

Recovery of three of four automobiles reported stolen early yesterday morning was announced last night by City Police who also disclosed one breaking and entering and another attempt to break and enter in the city yesterday.

Three of the four automobiles stolen were taken from the Gulick Auto Exchange, 305 South Center Street, where intruders entered the business office between 10:30 p. m. Wednesday and 8 a. m. yesterday to get keys and drive the vehicles from the parking lot.

These three machines were recovered, but the automobile reported stolen by Mrs. Ora McElfish, 10 Mary Street, had not been located.

One of the automobiles taken from the Gulick exchange was recovered about 1:15 p. m. at the parking lot off George Street, a second was located in the Bowman's Addition section about 5 p. m. and the third was recovered in the 1000 block of Virginia Avenue about 7:25 p. m.

Police reported that all three cars were scratched to a small extent.

The breaking and entering was reported at the Flurshutz Furniture Store, 15 North Centre Street, which was broken into between 5 p. m. Wednesday and 8 a. m. yesterday, according to Lt. James E. Van, who is investigating.

Intruders gained entrance to the store's repair shop by breaking a rear window and then ransacked the office desk, but investigation showed nothing of value was taken.

The attempted breaking and entering was reported at Keech's Drug Store, corner of Laing ad Virginia Avenues, and police said the attempt took place between midnight Wednesday and the time the store opened yesterday morning.

Owner Of Stray Collie Dog Sought

A white and brown shepherd-collie dog, answering to the description of a pet reported missing since Saturday from the home of Mrs. Richard Elliott, Green Ridge, has turned up at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Sisson, 701 Hill Top Drive.

Sisson, who is general secretary of Central YMCA, said his daughter found the dog Tuesday morning when she left the house on her way to school. The animal has no collar or tags, and its right front paw has apparently been injured.

Sisson said the owner may claim the pet by calling at his home. The telephone number is 1370-M-X. He added he tried to contact the Elliott family, but discovered they have no phone.

Court Names Counsel For Grace Smith

Grace Smith, 20, this city, accused of sending threatening letters through the mails, was arraigned in United States District Court at Wheeling, W. Va., but action in the case was postponed until she and her attorney can confer.

Miss Smith is specifically charged with writing former warden, M. E. Ketchum of the State Penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va., demanding that Mark McCauley, under sentence to hang December 10, be returned to Keyser, W. Va., for a new trial. McCauley was convicted at Keyser for the shooting of State Police Sgt. Joseph P. Horne.

Federal Judge William E. Baker appointed Charles Caniff, Wheeling, as attorney to defend the young woman, when she asked the Court for counsel.

Miss Smith, who also allegedly wrote a number of letters to county officials in Keyser, including Judge Ernest See and Prosecutor Vernon Rankin, was arrested on a federal warrant several weeks ago, after a lengthy investigation by postal inspectors in this area.

She was employed here as an elevator operator in a local office building for several months and roomed on Emily Street. She came here from Glencoe, Pa.

Young Negro Woman Struck By Train Here

Police Say Victim's Condition Is Good

A Frederick Street Negro woman was admitted to Allegany Hospital last night for treatment of undetermined injuries suffered when she was struck by a passenger train on the Frederick Street B. and O. crossing.

The victim, identified as Miss Wandalean Adams, 21-year-old daughter of Mrs. Nora Adams, 312 Frederick Street, was reported still unconscious late last night at the hospital. Attaches said examination failed to disclose any serious injuries, and that she was admitted for observation.

Police said the girl was injured at 9:20 p. m. when she was struck and knocked about 40 feet by the Baltimore and Ohio's crack train, the Ambassador.

She was picked up from where she was thrown clear of the tracks near the fifth guard rail by W. M. Hovermill, this city, a B. and O. yard conductor, who was nearby when the accident occurred.

Police quoted the watchman at the crossing as saying he had called several times to the woman to warn her that she was too close to the tracks, before she stepped in front of the oncoming locomotive.

Miss Adams, according to her brother, was employed until recently at the Debbie Shop. He added she had not been well and has been subject to fainting spells.

Tobias Ganoe, 230 Glenn Street, watchman at the Frederick Street crossing, said Miss Adams had stopped at the pavement on the Henderson Avenue side of the crossing before she jumped into the path of the train. He said he had warned her several times to get back.

A member of the family said he had been told the girl had lost consciousness several times before at the same crossing.

Police said late last night they were told her condition was good and that the only injuries were a bruise on the forehead and a cut on the tongue. Officers J. Carl Stouffer and James W. Brown investigated.

Midland Man Badly Injured By Auto

A 60-year-old Midland man was badly injured about 9 o'clock last night when he was struck by an automobile while walking along the Vale Summit Road one-half mile north of Midland.

The injured man was identified as James John Coleman, and State Police said he was struck by the car driven by Herman James Brill, Keyser, W. Va.

First taken to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, Coleman later was removed to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where he was reported as suffering possible compound fractures of both legs, laceration of the scalp and brush burns of the face. His condition was described as fair.

Police said Coleman was walking along the road against traffic, that Brill was approaching from the opposite direction and that he apparently could not avoid striking the man because of an oncoming automobile.

No charges were filed against Brill pending completion of the investigation.

Hunting Banned As Forest Fires Rage In Mineral

Maryland Is Keeping Blazes Under Control

The West Virginia Conservation Commission announced yesterday that hunting seasons will be suspended effective today at 1 p. m. until further notice in five eastern counties, including Mineral County, where two forest fires which have raged for several days are still out of control.

District Fire Protector J. B. Saville, Romney, reported last night that the fire on New Creek Mountain, near Antioch, has already burned over 500 acres of land and is still out of control.

The fire has rolled unchecked for about four days in spite of the efforts of fire fighters who have been unable to build effective fire breaks in the rocky area. Fire fighters have also been unable to haul water in sufficient quantities to check the flames.

Since residents report that the rocky area extends to the top of the mountain, fire fighters report that there is only a slight possibility that the blaze can be checked this side of the mountaintop.

Hope For Rain

Conservation officials said the wind probably would keep down until a pouring rain comes. The fact that there was little wind yesterday was one point in the fire fighters' favor.

Another fire in Mineral County opposite Rawlings was still out of control yesterday, Saville reported. The blaze on the Maryland side, he said, is out, but the fire was still blazing fiercely on the West Virginia side near the Gerstell farm.

A blaze which began in the Hoover Hollow section near Keyser Wednesday about 5 p. m. and extended up the Allegany Front over some 100 acres, was brought under control by midnight, he added.

Another blaze broke out higher up on Allegany Front yesterday morning, he said, but is now under control.

In Hampshire County a forest fire broke out in the Augusta section yesterday about 4 p. m. and burned over about 25 acres but was reported under control early last night.

Suspends Hunting

West Virginia Conservation Director Jack Shipman announced the suspension effective at 1 p. m. today until further notice of all hunting in Mineral, Grant, Hardy, Pendleton and Morgan counties.

The squirrel season ends throughout the state Saturday night. Whether the suspension might continue into the season on wild turkey and quail starting November 1 depended on the weather. A soaking rain is needed to make the woods safe, State Forester Wilson B. Sayers said.

Supply Pastor Is Appointed At First Methodist

Rev. Edward H. Davis, 724 Fayette Street, who retired from the Methodist ministry in 1932, will act as supply pastor at First Methodist Church until a successor to the former pastor, Rev. James A. Richards, is appointed, according to Dr. William F. Wright, superintendent of the Hagerstown district.

Rev. Mr. Richards, who became pastor of First Methodist in June, 1946, resigned October 15 to accept a position as program chairman at the YMCA in Elizabeth, N. J.

Last Sunday the speaker at the First Methodist morning service was Winfield H. Adam, program and boys' secretary of Central YMCA. Rev. Carl Maddox, Baltimore, a former pastor of the church, who is now a retired member of the Philadelphia Conference, preached at the evening service.

Rev. Mr. Davis was called home yesterday from a trip to Long Island, N. Y., to act as supply pastor. Dr. Wright said he expects to announce the appointment of a new pastor at First Methodist within the next week or two.

The sermon topic of the Sunday morning worship service at 11 o'clock will be "Four Little Wise Creatures," while the topic at the 7:30 evening service will be "He Went Away."

Rev. Mr. Davis has been acting as assistant to Dr. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church, of which he is a member.

BIRTHS

Memorial Hospital reported the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. James Diehl, 108 Knobley Street, Ridgeley, W. Va., a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Orie Wolfe, Holland Street Extended, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson, 831 Gephart Drive, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. William Luzier, Route 1, a daughter.

Community Chest Drive Will Open With Kickoff Dinner Tuesday Night

William C. Walsh To Give Address

William C. Walsh, former attorney general of the State of Maryland, will be the principal speaker at the general kickoff dinner of Cumberland's 1947 Community Chest campaign, which will be held next Tuesday at 6 p. m. in Central YMCA gymnasium.

John T. Fey, general campaign chairman, who will preside, said approximately 300 persons are expected to attend.

The Chest campaign, which has a goal of $75,393.51, will continue until November 6.

Walsh is familiar with Community Chest campaign work, having served as general chairman and head of the advance gifts section in drives held in recent years.

James Donnelly Accepts Position With Commonwealth And Southern

JAMES DONNELLY

Will Assume New Duties On Nov. 1

James W. Donnelly, chief electrical engineer of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, has accepted a position with the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, Jackson, Mich., and will begin his work in the new position Saturday, November 1.

A native of Stamford, Conn., and a graduate of Stamford High School, Donnelly received his degree in electrical engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., in 1930. He was employed as distribution engineer by the Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, Baltimore, from 1930 until 1942.

Donnelly came to the Kelly Springfield Engineering Company as an electrical engineer in 1942 and when the engineering company

State Claims He Beat Baby To Death

Mervin C. "Buck" Wills, 20, Christie Road, was found "guilty of manslaughter and not guilty of murder" in Circuit Court yesterday when tried on a murder indictment charging him with the death of his 18-months-old son, Junior Clinton Wills, last July 20. Passing of sentence was deferred, but carries a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment.

Wills, represented by Edward J. Ryan was on the witness stand in his own defense for less than half an hour, during which time he admitted striking the child, paddling it with a hand mirror and hair brush, slapping it in the face with his open hand and frequently smacking it. He told the Court he did this in attempt to "break the baby of bad habits."

The young defendant was carefully questioned by his counsel during which the statement he signed before the State's Attorney after the baby died, was gone over question by question. The statement was an admission of frequent cases of punishing the infant, but the defendant claimed the injuries from which the child died were caused in a series of falls.

Claims Baby Fell

He said the baby fell from a pile of lumber, fell against a refrigerator door when visiting his grandmother a few days before, was knocked over by a pet dog and rolled down an embankment.

During his testimony he said his wife, Nancy Joretta Divelbliss Wills, punished the child more frequently than he had done, and that she had failed to properly care for the baby. He also charged that his wife and he had quarreled bitterly over what he termed "her running around and ruining my reputation while I was in the Army."

Asked about the statements to the State's Attorney of the child's series of falls, he said his wife suggested that they tell this story, and that he had done so when questioned by the State. He said "I made some of these statements because my wife told me to, and said she had already told the State's Attorney these same things."

Wills insisted that his wife beat the child, struck it in the mouth, about the head and spanked it until it was bruised.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and his assistant Paul M. Fletcher did not cross-examine Wills.

Mother Testifys

In an effort to shorten the testimony as much as possible, Attorney Ryan told the Court there were a number of witnesses he would not call, since their testimony would be much the same.

He did, however, call Wills' mother, Mrs. Hester Landaker to the stand. She testified while her son was in the Army, Joretta and the baby had lived at her house. She told the Court she had to reprimand the girl for her treatment of the baby and said that Joretta not only beat her own child, but slapped and abused some of the Landaker children.

She also testified that Joretta "ran around with men" while Wills was away, and "she left my place and we kept the baby several times."

Raymond Sciese, Williams Road, who said he is Wills' uncle, testified that he had seen Joretta Wills beat the baby and "throw him in a chair, injuring the child's arm." Sciese said, "She treated him so badly I scolded her and she went in the house and cried."

The State's case was completed at 2:45 p. m. During the morning and early afternoon, the state unfolded a long chain of evidence including medical testimony of three physicians, a two-hour story from Mrs. Joretta Wills, the victim's mother, and authorities who investigated.

The hand mirror, hair brush, and broken crib where Wills was alleged to have beaten the child were submitted in evidence.

Medical Testimony

Dr. B. Skitarelic, of Memorial Hospital, testified at length as to the cause of death of the child, and said his autopsy revealed the child died of intra-cranium hemorrhages, and hemorrhage of the spleen and liver. The baby had also suffered a fractured collarbone, and its body was a series of multiple bruises. There were bruises on its head, back and lower extremities.

Under cross-examination Dr. Skitarelic said death was not due to natural causes but from some external violence.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, testified as to the nature of the child's injuries, and Dr Lewis Brings testified he had treated the baby when it was ill at the age of about four weeks. He said the child was a normal healthy baby in every respect, and at that time had an upset stomach and nothing serious.

When the child's mother testified she told the Court her husband had brutally beaten the baby, and admitted she had spanked the child once with the hair brush.

She testified she was afraid of her husband and did not have a chance to notify the authorities. The only person she did tell of the beatings was her sister, Mrs. Marjorie Smith, stating she was able to whisper to her of the beatings on the Sunday the child died. The couple resided on Christie Road at the time of the alleged beatings.

Mrs. Wills said her husband struck the child with a hand mirror and brush, and that he had once broken a slat in the boy's bed with the force of a blow with the mirror that missed the child's body.

"I was seated downstairs on July 20 when I heard glass breaking," the wife said. "I ran upstairs to find my husband was beating the baby with a hand mirror. I pleaded with him to give me the baby but

Temperature Reading

Cumberland's temperature reached a maximum of 88 degrees yesterday, rising to that point from an overnight low of 43. Last night at 9:30 the temperature was 66. Today's forecast is for fair and cooler but "rather windy" conditions are expected, which will prove a further detriment to forest firefighting efforts.

VFW Group Lays Plan Of Action On Dam Project

Will Urge Congress To Provide Funds

In an effort to further assurance that Congress will appropriate funds for the completion of the Savage River Dam, a committee of members of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars met last night at the post home, and made preliminary plans for a program of action and publicity on the subject.

James W. Beacham, chairman of the group said the VFW membership here has instructed the committee to use every possible effort to bring the question to representatives in Congress and to continue an aggressive campaign until funds are forthcoming.

Thomas B. Finan, Jr., a member of the VFW committee and also chairman of the Veterans Committee for the Completion of Savage River Dam, representing the American Legion and the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, outlined the history of the Savage River Dam project, and explained work already done by the Legion-Jaycee group.

State Senator Robert B. Kimble attended the meeting on the invitation of Beacham and discussed the dam and the need for its completion.

Senator Kimble recalled the visit of the State Legislative Council to Western Maryland several weeks ago and said the body had inspected local industries and had visited the Savage River dam site. The entire Council, Kimble declared, is unanimous in opinion that the dam should be completed to augment the flow of the Potomac in dry weather and to hold back flood waters in rainy seasons. Kimble said the Council members were most favorable impressed with work already done and are aware of the need for its rapid completion.

The Senator said the Council will meet Tuesday to discuss legislation to come before the special session of the Maryland General Assembly and it is possible that some consideration may be given this question in the form of statewide support for the local project.

The opinion was expressed by Finan and others that Rep. J. Glenn Beall has waged an aggressive campaign and has "done about everything he can" to further the completion of the project.

Finan said a number of resolutions have been obtained from various organizations in this area, urging continued action, and citing the need for the dam as a flood control project for Luke, Westernport, Keyser, W. Va., Piedmont, W. Va., and other communities. More of these resolutions are to be assembled, he said, so that Congressman Beall will have visible evidence from a majority of residents that the dam is needed and wanted and that Congress should take immediate action.

Beacham indicated additional meetings will be held and other groups may be contacted for their support.

Kitzmiller Principal Gets Reserve Post

Thomas V. Baucom, principal of Kitzmiller High School, who holds the rank of lieutenant in the United States Naval Reserve, has been appointed associate officer and training officer of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division.

Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer, who announced the appointment yesterday, said Lt. Baucom will succeed Lt. A. John Stauffer, USNR. Lt. Stauffer, former instructor in chemistry and aeronautics at Fort Hill High School, resigned last August to accept a position as head of the department of physics at State Teachers' College, Kutztown, Pa.

Lt. Baucom entered the Navy May 5, 1943, and served as antisubmarine warfare instructor at Camp Parera, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, from October, 1943, until July, 1944. Later he served aboard the seaplane tender Casco during the Palau and Okinawa compaigns. He was released to inactive duty December 22, 1945.

Fraternity Pledge

Fred A. Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Small, Washington Street, is among the 192 undergraduates at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., pledged for membership by 29 national social fraternities on the Lehigh campus. He was pledged by Alpha Chi Rho.

Several Blazes Sweep Acreage In This Area

Western Maryland fire wardens reported last night they were "looking for trouble" today and warned against any out-of-door fires after a report from Baltimore that higher winds might arrive in this area.

Three new woods fires were reported in Allegany County yesterday but William Parr, district forester, said the last of the fires was brought under control by 7 p. m.

Two fires on Franklin Hill, near Westernport, burned over about six acres of land but were soon brought under control. Potomac Fire Company, Westernport, and Tri-Town Fire Company No. 1, under the direction of fire wardens, fought the blaze.

Another fire on Dan's Mountain, near Danville, burned about four acres of land but was under control by 7 p. m. Forest wardens blamed the blaze on smoking. Wardens Bodkin and Oliver Campbell directed the crew which fought the flames.

Several Garrett Blazes

Two fires which broke out in Garrett County were reported out of control last night. The first blaze, which broke out on Backbone Mountain, near Deer Park, shortly after midnight, had already burned over 150 acres early last night. Crews directed by Elmer Uphole, Garrett forest supervisor, expected to have the blaze under control by today.

There was no report on the second fire on Bear Hill, near Bittinger, except that it was still burning early last night. That blaze began about 3 p. m. yesterday.

Smoke was reported from the Altamont area, Garrett County, and forest wardens said the 1-4 acre fire apparently resulted from a spark from a train.

Two fires were also reported in Frederick County, one covering about an acre and another was reported early last night although the area was not known. Neither was believed to be serious.

Westernport town employes and workers of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company extinguished a blaze in the vicinity of the Westernport garbage dump yesterday afternoon. The same area caught fire Tuesday afternoon.

Use New Weapon

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 23. (AP)—A few scattered minor forest fires troubled the State Department of Forests and Parks today but none got out of hand, State Forester H. C. Buckingham reported.

"The winds are rising, though," he cautioned, "and the fires are burning deeper into the ground. We've got to dig them out even though they are extinguished at the edges."

There were approximately 12 acres burned over in the state yesterday, the largest fire in Cecil County.

Tri-State Plans To Affiliate With MBS

The competitive hearing of the Tri-State Broadcasting Company, Cumberland, and Richard A. Raese, Martinsburg, W. Va., who seek a permit to operate a standard radio station here, ground to a temporary halt last night at 10:15 o'clock after 22 Tri-State witnesses, including seven character and reference witnesses, were examined by a Federal Communications Commission examiner.

Raese, son-in-law of H. C. Greer, Morgantown, W. Va., publisher and radio station owner, failed to reach the stand during the 12 hours of testimony which along with today's will be the basis for the FFC to grant a permit for a radio station to operate here on 1230 kilocycles.

The 15 Tri-State Company stockholders who reached the stand yesterday disclosed their plan to operate the proposed station here and indicated that the station, with call letters WTSH, will become affiliated with the Mutual Broadcasting Company.

John W. Downing, Salisbury, vice president of the Tri-State Company, told Examiner Jack Blume that he is responsible for the organization of the company, but pointed out that approximately 54 per cent of the company's 10,000 shares of stock is now held by Cumberland and Frostburg residents.

John J. McMullen, Times and Alleganian Company president, who said his company holds 25 per cent of the Tri-State stock, told the FCC that the proposed station would be furnished complete local news coverage by the staffs of the three newspapers and refuted an attempt by the opposing counsel to attack the company's editorial policy by declaring that the editor of each publication is responsible for the editorial policy of his paper.

The policy statement was made after a letter written in 1939 regarding the company's policy was submitted as evidence during cross examination by Raese's counsel, despite vigorous Tri-State protests. Examiner Blume, however, when he was informed of the Times and Alleganian policy, praised it highly.

The seven character and references witnesses, who took up the entire morning, informed the FCC that they favored the location of another radio station in the city, and indicated they would give full co-operation to the company.

According to testimony, the Tri-State company plans, if granted the permit, to open an auxiliary station in Frostburg, where, officers declared, local programs could be originated at both Frostburg State Teachers College and Beall High School.

Downing informed the commission that the company's present plans call for the development of broadcasting of local sports contests and a search for tri-state area talent.

Examiner Blume indicated that the hearing will be speeded to an end tonight, which would mean Raese will take the stand sometime this afternoon to present his proposed plans for operating the station if granted the permit.

Adm. Lyle Cites Need Of Adequate Peacetime Navy

Today, as never before, this nation must maintain an adequate Navy, Rear Admiral Alexander Gordon Lyle, Dental Corps, USN, said in an address at the Cumberland Kiwanis Club luncheon yesterday at Central YMCA in observance of Navy Day.

"We must keep our peacetime Navy adequate so that the dark days immediately following the Pearl Harbor tragedy will never occur again," Admiral Kyle declared.

Not only from an economic standpoint but from an insurance or protective standpoint, an adequate Navy, "the nation's first line of defense," must be maintained in view of present unsettled world conditions, he said.

After tracing the history of the Navy from the time of wooden vessels to present day steel ships, Admiral Kyle pointed out that Navy personnel for the current year will average 395,000 men and 42,000 officers, as compared to its V-J Day strength of 3,066,758 men and 325,074 officers.

"The Navy has proved itself in all wars, and when the final pinch comes we bank on American spirit and patriotism to carry us through," he concluded.

During his visit to Cumberland yesterday, Admiral Kyle inspected the new naval armory which is being constructed on McKaig's Hill at the eastern end of Baltimore Street, and paid a courtesy call at the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The Kiwanis business session included the election of Wilbur K. Bishop, Dr. Albert A. Cook, Arthur S. Davis and Clarence Lippel to serve as directors for three-year terms.

C. O. Miller Heads Artificial Dairy Breeding Group

Clarence O. Miller, Midland Holstein breeder, was elected president of the Allegany County dairy cattle artificial breeding co-operative at its organization meeting last night in the office of the county farm agent in the Court House. John T. Mason, Rawlings, was named secretary-treasurer.

The local unit will be a part of the Maryland Artificial Breeding Co-operative Association, Inc., and was organized for the purpose of increasing production and the type of dairy animal of a particular breed.

Dr. Roy Weatherby, manager of the state association, and Roy Pou, of the University of Maryland dairy extension service, attended the meeting, and the latter explained the advantages derived from breeding dairy cows to good bulls in comparison to common animals.

Harry E. Miller, Frostburg, who completed a course at the University of Maryland in artificial insemination, was named inseminator technician for the county group.

Some 48 dairymen from Allegany County and nearby counties in West Virginia attended the meeting last night and it was tentatively agreed to limit membership to dairymen within a radius of 20 miles of Frostburg.

Meanwhile a membership committee composed of Marshall Porter, Eckhart, J. William Loar, Rawlings, and W. Greise, Mason Road, was named. They will circulate applications for membership within the area.

At the next meeting, still unscheduled, Dr. Weatherby again will be present and outline by-laws of the state organization.

In the meantime, anyone interested in joining the group may contact County Agent Ralph F. McHenry, from whom application blanks may be obtained. The blanks may be filled out at his office.

Three Of Four Vehicles Stolen Here Recovered

One Entry, Another Attempt Reported

Recovery of three of four automobiles reported stolen early yesterday morning was announced last night by City Police who also disclosed one breaking and entering and another attempt to break and enter in the city yesterday.

Three of the four automobiles stolen were taken from the Gulick Auto Exchange, 305 South Center Street, where intruders entered the business office between 10:30 p. m. Wednesday and 8 a. m. yesterday to get keys and drive the vehicles from the parking lot.

These three machines were recovered, but the automobile reported stolen by Mrs. Ora McElfish, 10 Mary Street, had not been located.

One of the automobiles taken from the Gulick exchange was recovered about 1:15 p. m. at the parking lot off George Street, a second was located in the Bowman's Addition section about 5 p. m. and the third was recovered in the 1000 block of Virginia Avenue about 7:25 p. m.

Police reported that all three cars were scratched to a small extent.

The breaking and entering was reported at the Flurshutz Furniture Store, 15 North Centre Street, which was broken into between 5 p. m. Wednesday and 8 a. m. yesterday, according to Lt. James E. Van, who is investigating.

Intruders gained entrance to the store's repair shop by breaking a rear window and then ransacked the office desk, but investigation showed nothing of value was taken.

The attempted breaking and entering was reported at Keech's Drug Store, corner of Laing ad Virginia Avenues, and police said the attempt took place between midnight Wednesday and the time the store opened yesterday morning.

Owner Of Stray Collie Dog Sought

A white and brown shepherd-collie dog, answering to the description of a pet reported missing since Saturday from the home of Mrs. Richard Elliott, Green Ridge, has turned up at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Sisson, 701 Hill Top Drive.

Sisson, who is general secretary of Central YMCA, said his daughter found the dog Tuesday morning when she left the house on her way to school. The animal has no collar or tags, and its right front paw has apparently been injured.

Sisson said the owner may claim the pet by calling at his home. The telephone number is 1370-M-X. He added he tried to contact the Elliott family, but discovered they have no phone.

Court Names Counsel For Grace Smith

Grace Smith, 20, this city, accused of sending threatening letters through the mails, was arraigned in United States District Court at Wheeling, W. Va., but action in the case was postponed until she and her attorney can confer.

Miss Smith is specifically charged with writing former warden, M. E. Ketchum of the State Penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va., demanding that Mark McCauley, under sentence to hang December 10, be returned to Keyser, W. Va., for a new trial. McCauley was convicted at Keyser for the shooting of State Police Sgt. Joseph P. Horne.

Federal Judge William E. Baker appointed Charles Caniff, Wheeling, as attorney to defend the young woman, when she asked the Court for counsel.

Miss Smith, who also allegedly wrote a number of letters to county officials in Keyser, including Judge Ernest See and Prosecutor Vernon Rankin, was arrested on a federal warrant several weeks ago, after a lengthy investigation by postal inspectors in this area.

She was employed here as an elevator operator in a local office building for several months and roomed on Emily Street. She came here from Glencoe, Pa.

Young Negro Woman Struck By Train Here

Police Say Victim's Condition Is Good

A Frederick Street Negro woman was admitted to Allegany Hospital last night for treatment of undetermined injuries suffered when she was struck by a passenger train on the Frederick Street B. and O. crossing.

The victim, identified as Miss Wandalean Adams, 21-year-old daughter of Mrs. Nora Adams, 312 Frederick Street, was reported still unconscious late last night at the hospital. Attaches said examination failed to disclose any serious injuries, and that she was admitted for observation.

Police said the girl was injured at 9:20 p. m. when she was struck and knocked about 40 feet by the Baltimore and Ohio's crack train, the Ambassador.

She was picked up from where she was thrown clear of the tracks near the fifth guard rail by W. M. Hovermill, this city, a B. and O. yard conductor, who was nearby when the accident occurred.

Police quoted the watchman at the crossing as saying he had called several times to the woman to warn her that she was too close to the tracks, before she stepped in front of the oncoming locomotive.

Miss Adams, according to her brother, was employed until recently at the Debbie Shop. He added she had not been well and has been subject to fainting spells.

Tobias Ganoe, 230 Glenn Street, watchman at the Frederick Street crossing, said Miss Adams had stopped at the pavement on the Henderson Avenue side of the crossing before she jumped into the path of the train. He said he had warned her several times to get back.

A member of the family said he had been told the girl had lost consciousness several times before at the same crossing.

Police said late last night they were told her condition was good and that the only injuries were a bruise on the forehead and a cut on the tongue. Officers J. Carl Stouffer and James W. Brown investigated.

Midland Man Badly Injured By Auto

A 60-year-old Midland man was badly injured about 9 o'clock last night when he was struck by an automobile while walking along the Vale Summit Road one-half mile north of Midland.

The injured man was identified as James John Coleman, and State Police said he was struck by the car driven by Herman James Brill, Keyser, W. Va.

First taken to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, Coleman later was removed to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where he was reported as suffering possible compound fractures of both legs, laceration of the scalp and brush burns of the face. His condition was described as fair.

Police said Coleman was walking along the road against traffic, that Brill was approaching from the opposite direction and that he apparently could not avoid striking the man because of an oncoming automobile.

No charges were filed against Brill pending completion of the investigation.

Maryland Is Keeping Blazes Under Control

The West Virginia Conservation Commission announced yesterday that hunting seasons will be suspended effective today at 1 p. m. until further notice in five eastern counties, including Mineral County, where two forest fires which have raged for several days are still out of control.

District Fire Protector J. B. Saville, Romney, reported last night that the fire on New Creek Mountain, near Antioch, has already burned over 500 acres of land and is still out of control.

The fire has rolled unchecked for about four days in spite of the efforts of fire fighters who have been unable to build effective fire breaks in the rocky area. Fire fighters have also been unable to haul water in sufficient quantities to check the flames.

Since residents report that the rocky area extends to the top of the mountain, fire fighters report that there is only a slight possibility that the blaze can be checked this side of the mountaintop.

Hope For Rain

Conservation officials said the wind probably would keep down until a pouring rain comes. The fact that there was little wind yesterday was one point in the fire fighters' favor.

Another fire in Mineral County opposite Rawlings was still out of control yesterday, Saville reported. The blaze on the Maryland side, he said, is out, but the fire was still blazing fiercely on the West Virginia side near the Gerstell farm.

A blaze which began in the Hoover Hollow section near Keyser Wednesday about 5 p. m. and extended up the Allegany Front over some 100 acres, was brought under control by midnight, he added.

Another blaze broke out higher up on Allegany Front yesterday morning, he said, but is now under control.

In Hampshire County a forest fire broke out in the Augusta section yesterday about 4 p. m. and burned over about 25 acres but was reported under control early last night.

Suspends Hunting

West Virginia Conservation Director Jack Shipman announced the suspension effective at 1 p. m. today until further notice of all hunting in Mineral, Grant, Hardy, Pendleton and Morgan counties.

The squirrel season ends throughout the state Saturday night. Whether the suspension might continue into the season on wild turkey and quail starting November 1 depended on the weather. A soaking rain is needed to make the woods safe, State Forester Wilson B. Sayers said.

Supply Pastor Is Appointed At First Methodist

Rev. Edward H. Davis, 724 Fayette Street, who retired from the Methodist ministry in 1932, will act as supply pastor at First Methodist Church until a successor to the former pastor, Rev. James A. Richards, is appointed, according to Dr. William F. Wright, superintendent of the Hagerstown district.

Rev. Mr. Richards, who became pastor of First Methodist in June, 1946, resigned October 15 to accept a position as program chairman at the YMCA in Elizabeth, N. J.

Last Sunday the speaker at the First Methodist morning service was Winfield H. Adam, program and boys' secretary of Central YMCA. Rev. Carl Maddox, Baltimore, a former pastor of the church, who is now a retired member of the Philadelphia Conference, preached at the evening service.

Rev. Mr. Davis was called home yesterday from a trip to Long Island, N. Y., to act as supply pastor. Dr. Wright said he expects to announce the appointment of a new pastor at First Methodist within the next week or two.

The sermon topic of the Sunday morning worship service at 11 o'clock will be "Four Little Wise Creatures," while the topic at the 7:30 evening service will be "He Went Away."

Rev. Mr. Davis has been acting as assistant to Dr. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church, of which he is a member.

BIRTHS

Memorial Hospital reported the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. James Diehl, 108 Knobley Street, Ridgeley, W. Va., a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Orie Wolfe, Holland Street Extended, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson, 831 Gephart Drive, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. William Luzier, Route 1, a daughter.

DEATHS

MR. GARLITZ RITES

A funeral service for Orville B. Garlitz, 40, 68 Cresap Street, a caretaker for the City of Cumberland, who died Wednesday in Memorial Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Living Stone Church of the Brethren.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of the church, will officiate and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

MISS ZILER RITES

A requiem mass for Miss Hattie Jane Ziler, 81, 738 Maryland Avenue, who died Wednesday at the home of her niece, Mrs. James Foard, 1011 Virginia Avenue, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

Will Assume New Duties On Nov. 1

James W. Donnelly, chief electrical engineer of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, has accepted a position with the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, Jackson, Mich., and will begin his work in the new position Saturday, November 1.

A native of Stamford, Conn., and a graduate of Stamford High School, Donnelly received his degree in electrical engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., in 1930. He was employed as distribution engineer by the Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, Baltimore, from 1930 until 1942.

Donnelly came to the Kelly Springfield Engineering Company as an electrical engineer in 1942 and when the engineering company
